RESERVE BOARD HALTED FALL OF PRICES—MEYER

Tells Senators Gold Standard Is to Stay.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Asserting that the United States will stay on the gold standard, Eugene Meyer Jr., governor of the federal reserve bank, told the senate banking and currency committee today that federal reserve policies have halted the fall of commodity prices.

EUGENE MEYER JR. [Harris & Ewing.]

At a meeting of the governors of reserve banks yesterday it was decided, Gov. Meyer added, to press to the logical conclusion the present federal reserve operations in open market purchases of government securities. The aim is to impel the banks to release in loans to industry the capital resulting from these purchases, which have aggregated 500 millions in the last five weeks.

Mr. Meyer was giving his views to the committee in opposition to the Goldsborough bill, recently passed by the house, which directs the reserve board to restore the price level of 1926 by manipulation of the volume of the currency and credit. Supporters of the bill contend that it proposes to raise commodity prices by the same sort of inflation as is involved in the present open market operations of the board.

Purchase of Securities.

"Has there been any effect yet on the wholesale commodity price level as a result of purchasing government securities by the reserve banks?" Senator E. P. Costigan [radical Dem., Colo.] asked.

"I think there has," Gov. Meyer answered. "It does not show up in a rise, but there is an arrest of the decline. In our meeting yesterday with the governors of the twelve reserve banks we discussed the wholesale commodity price level and ways and means of making more effective the open market policy in bringing to industry, agriculture, construction and the like the results aimed at.

"I think the governors are going back to their respective communities to endeavor more aggressively to bring this about."

"Is there adequate capital in the country as a whole?" Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] inquired.

"I think there is," Mr. Meyer replied.

Bankers Also Lack Optimism.

Mr. Couzens said Mr. Meyer's conclusion was that the reserve board could do nothing "to get money to business" until "the bankers get in a proper mental attitude." Mr. Meyer declined to indict all the bankers, but said "they with the rest of us lack optimism." The witness said the board was endeavoring to "accelerate" the minds of bankers and business in general.

Gov. Meyer said enactment of the Goldsborough bill "cannot do any good and might do harm" and that the passage of the Goldsborough bill in the house was a "disturbing factor" in the world. Senator Fletcher ventured that the "money power" would rather have discretion left in the reserve board than to have a law passed.

"It would be unwise for congress to commit itself to such a mandate, to so fixed and rigid a program," Mr. Meyer countered.

Discuss Gold Standard.

Senator Blaine led Mr. Meyer into a discussion of the gold standard. Alluding to what he said are 203 billions of private debts, Mr. Blaine asked:

"How are we going to stay on the gold standard?"

"You might as well ask a man how he is going to play a piece on the piano," Mr. Meyer sharply replied. "There is not the slightest doubt in the minds of any responsible official of the ability or intent of the United States to stay on the gold standard No nation has gone off except through necessity. There are none that do not want to return to a metallic basis. Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, recently said that his country must return to a metallic base."

Adolph C. Miller, a reserve board member since 1914, said instructions

AID TO JOBLESS BY BEVERAGE TAX DEFEATED

First Test Shows 24 Oppose Dry Law.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The senate had its chance to legalize beer today and rejected it, together with the billion and a half dollars bond issue for federal relief construction for which a beer tax would have paid.

SEN. MILLARD E. TYDINGS.

The vote of 24 to 61 by which the Tydings beer amendment to the tax bill went down to defeat was the high point of a debate on the revenue measure which toured the three sides of a triangle composed of prohibition, unemployment relief, and the tariff.

Prohibition ruled until deposed by the senate's refusal to approve the proposal of Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] for 2.75 beer and tax of 24 cents a gallon upon it which was calculated to yield 200 millions annually for the amortization of the construction bond issue and an additional 200 to 300 millions that would have allowed that amount to be stricken from the tax bill.

Demand Unemployment Action.

Relief came to the fore with a warning by Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho] that congress must not, and a promise by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, that congress would not, adjourn until federal unemployment legislation had been passed.

The session ended late in the evening with the excise taxes on brewers' malt, malt products, and grape concentrate approved and a fight—by then, five hours old—on the oil tariff in progress.

The oil tariff quarrel found Republican protectionists and Democrats from the oil states, particularly from those of the southwest, lined up against the Democratic leadership and a group of Republican irregulars. Adjournment left the issue and the probable time of its decision still in doubt.

A protracted debate on oil and on the coal, lumber, and copper tariffs was a distinct possibility.

First Test on Beer.

The vote on the Tydings beer amendment was the first senate expression on the question of modifying the Volstead act to permit the return of beer.

Prior to the final vote another was taken on a motion by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] to change the alcoholic content stipulated by Senator Tydings to 4 per cent.

The Bingham amendment was defeated, 23 to 60.

Twelve Republicans and 12 Democrats made up the two dozen senators who voted in favor of the Tydings proposal. Twelve Republicans and 11 Democrats voted for the Bingham amendment.

How the Senate Voted.

FOR THE AMENDMENT.

42 TRAPPED IN ANDEAN TUNNEL DOOMED TO DIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, May 18.—Forty-two Chilean laborers, buried alive by an earth slide in the Las Raices tunnel near Longquinay in the Andes mountains, were doomed tonight to die of asphyxiation, if they were not already dead. A rescue party was finally forced by continued slides to abandon attempts to dig through to the men entombed within.

Wives and children of the trapped workers clustered outside the tunnel all day, watching and crying as a blinding snow and sleet storm raged. About 800 men who had been working in oil shale deposits in the vicinity tried to dig their way through the fallen earth, but cleared only twenty yards in twenty-four hours. Since all oxygen tubes were being crushed by continued slides, the rescue attempt was abandoned.

The tunnel is planned to be about two and one-miles long, the longest in South America, and will be a link on the southern trans-Andean railway connecting Chile and Argentina. The slide followed a severe Andean storm. Thousands of cubic feet of wet earth dropped suddenly over the mouth of the tunnel and the men were entombed 100 yards from the tunnel's Chilean entrance.

Deposits in Closed Banks Spur Business

South Bend, Ind., May 18.—(AP)—Bankers and business men of this city of 104,000 have found a way to transform bank closures into a stimulus for trade.

They have turned banking accounts in three closed institutions with aggregate deposits of $9,000,000 from 21,000 depositors into a medium of exchange which the clothier, the butcher or the grocer accept in lieu of cash for goods purchased by the depositors.

And the experiment, its sponsors said today, has increased sales, speeded liquidation of the closed banks and restored buying power and means of livelihood to thousands, who received in trade dividends ranging from 10 cents above cash market quotations for their savings accounts to 100 cents on the dollar.

Bank Debtors Accept Credits.

J. D. Emmons, liquidating agent for the American Trust company, which closed last year with $4,200,000 on deposit, said the plan was simple:

Merchants who owe banks money give depositors 100 cents on the dollar in trade. They retransfer the accounts to the banks and have their obligations set off in like proportion.

The tenant of a building, whose landlord is indebted to the closed bank, accepts accounts, pays his rent with them, and the landlord in turn sets off his debt.

Plan Helps Sales.

"The barter plan stimulates sales for us because people who can buy goods with their accounts are more willing to make purchases than if they had the cash," said Donald Eldredge, executive vice president of one of the city's largest department stores.

The American Trust company since last October has liquidated $1,300,000 of its paper, $800,000 by setoffs and only $500,000 in cash. The Union Trust company, which closed with $3,500,000 on deposit, has taken about $600,000 in setoffs and $250,000 in cash.

The closed banks themselves encourage the exchange, Emmons said.

Baby Placed in Window by Mother; Falls to Death

Mrs. Clara Green, 1345 North Hoyne avenue, wanted her baby, Marie, 19 months old, to get the benefit of the sunshine and fresh air yesterday. She placed the child on the window sill. When Mrs. Green's back was turned for a moment the baby rolled against the screen, which gave way, and the baby fell to the ground three stories below. She died a short while later.

SEIZE FUGITIVE AT RENDEZVOUS WITH MOTHER

Eighteen months ago Henry Shore, alias Shorr, 35 years old, alleged member of the notorious Purple gang in Detroit, became a fugitive on a charge of violating the national prohibition law.

Sought by federal agents, he was unable to see his elderly mother, whose home in Detroit was closely watched by the authorities. Last week, through friends, he arranged to meet her in Chicago.

Last evening Shore and his wife drove up to 2942 North Richmond street. They proceeded to a second floor apartment. Shore opened the door. His mother faced him. As he embraced her there was a rapping on the door.

"Federal officers," said a voice. "Let us in."

Shore dashed out a rear door, where two policemen and a federal agent seized him. He was taken to the detective bureau and will be returned to Detroit today.

Shore had been wanted with Harry Fleisher as the owner of Detroit's biggest brewery. The plant was raided in February, 1931. Detroit police said Shore was closely associated with the Fleisher gang and that he may be questioned in the Lindbergh case. Fleisher, now driven out of Detroit, is being sought in connection with the kidnaping.

Oak Park Almost Fires Its Nonresident Employes

Trustees of Oak Park last night decided to pass some village economy measures. Trustee William P. Church proposed that all employes residing outside the village limits should be discharged within 20 days. Trustee Ray F. Clark introduced an amendment providing that the discharges be within "reasonable time" and effective "except where they would be detrimental to the interests of the village." It passed in that form. Trustee Clark was asked what kind of work the nonresidents perform. "They're garbage collectors," he said.

Fire Hero's Daughter, 3, Burned with Matches

Margie Leslie, 3 years old, of 8510 St. Lawrence avenue, daugther of Fireman Walter M. Leslie, wondered how fires started. Last evening she smuggled a box of matches into the basement of her home. She struck several of the matches and her dress caught fire. She was seriously burned and was taken to the Auburn Park hospital. Her father in 1929 won honorable mention when, as a driver for Engine 84, he drove to a fire after he had suffered a broken arm.

Cuba Upsets Revolt Plot; Jails Hundreds

HAVANA, Cuba, May 18.—Discovery by police today of what was described as a plot to overthrow President Machado's government on May 20 led to the arrest of several hundred Havana citizens. They included students, engineers, politicians and government employes.

The arrests followed a raid on the Athletic Amateur union of Cuba in the Manzana de Gomez building, in the heart of Havana. Police said the club was the headquarters of the plotters.

It was alleged that they had planned the simultaneous assassination of prominent officials and an armed revolution throughout the island. The revolt was scheduled to start in all six provinces at noon next Friday while the government was celebrating the republic's thirtieth anniversary.

Records are Confiscated.

Detective squads confiscated records which they said revealed that the conspirators had enlisted several thousand men here who were ready to take up arms against the government.

They also confiscated explosives and chemicals and about 7,000 pamphlets assailing President Machado and all members of the government. The literature urged "patriotic citizens to revolt." Some of the pamphlets were addressed in official government envelopes bearing the republic's coat of arms, and there were letterheads of the departments of public works and communications.

Among those seized at the club was Enrique Fernandez, 33, a lawyer, who was said to be in charge of examining, registering, and arming applicants for inscription into the alleged revolutionary army.

Find List of Intended Victims.

Long lists of names and addresses of persons pledged to join the revolt were found in the raid together with records indicating the names and addresses of cabinet members, congressmen, mayors and other officials who were to be "put on the spot."

Army headquarters and all military posts have been notified to arrest every one of a suspicious character and to adopt full precautions. Police in Havana are searching the city and suburbs for those mentioned in the lists.

Police headquarters refused to disclose the names, stating that "Cubans will be surprized when the names are revealed after the arrests are made. Some are men who never would have been suspected because of their high positions."

FAMOUS BRITISH MANSION, MILTON ABBEY, FOR SALE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—Another historic English mansion is for sale. The famous Milton Abbey in Dorset, seat of Sir Eric Hambro, chairman of Hambro's bank and a former member of parliament, is to be auctioned. This was announced today. The contents of the mansion, which include many historic art treasures, will be sold. Milton Abbey is one of the show places of the country. King Edward stayed there twenty-five years ago and George III. was twice entertained there.

Cop Collects for Damaged Auto, Then Finds It Gone

Policeman George Le Grue of the Morton Grove county highway police yesterday collected $12.50 for damages to his automobile in an out of court settlement in the police building. When he left the building to drive home the car was gone. Some one had stolen it. Judge Thomas A. Green of the South State street court reported to the police last night that his automobile was stolen from the garage in the rear of his home at 10633 Avenue F.

REVEAL RECTOR ASKED $25,000 KIDNAP DEPOSIT

Condon Sticks to His Story.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk boat builder, who befogged the search for the Lindbergh baby for two months by means of an elaborate hoax, to which he confessed Tuesday morning, was locked up in the Hunterdon county jail at Flemington, N. J., this evening on charges of giving false information for the purpose of hindering the hunt for the kidnapers.

His case is expected to go before the grand jury about the middle of next week. The crime with which he is charged carries a possible penalty of $1,000 fine or three years' imprisonment, with or without hard labor as the court may direct, or both fine and imprisonment.

Peacock's Part in Case.

While Curtis was being arraigned the fact was developed that Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, associate of Curtis in prosecuting the "search" for the baby, had sought to have Col. Lindbergh place $25,000 ransom money in a Norfolk bank. Whether the rector did this with the knowledge of Curtis is not yet clear.

The quizzing of Dr. John F. Condon [Jafsie], the Bronx lecturer, who gave $50,000 of Lindbergh's money to mysterious kidnapers, will now be pursued with greater energy. The money tossed over a cemetery wall remains an unexplained feature of the strange case.

Whereabouts March 1 Checked.

While Curtis was being arraigned police officials both in New Jersey and in Norfolk, Va., where Curtis' imaginary negotiations with the five mythical kidnapers centered, continued their investigation of Curtis' activities with especial reference to where he was on March 1, the night the child was stolen.

The police do not believe that Curtis has told all that he can tell even now. Such additional disclosures as were made during the day only added to the enormity of Curtis' deception. They brought out the elaborate stage management with which Curtis had surrounded his adventure, and which had given it such verisimilitude that Col. Lindbergh, even though he was skeptical, devoted anxious days and nights to keeping strange rendezvous that he dared not ignore.

Charles B. Borland, director of public safety, at Norfolk tonight announced that he had information that Curtis went to New York on the morning of April 2. This was the date on which Condon paid $50,000 of futile ransom money in a Bronx cemetery. Curtis was flown to New York from Norfolk by Lieut. George L. Richard, who piloted him on several of his trips.

No Results from Search.

Aside from the investigation that revolved around the activities of Curtis and his Norfolk associates no positive results from the farflung hunt for the kidnapers were evident.

"Jafsie" Condon, the Bronx lecturer, is the only one of the many negotiators who have been involved in the case who retains his status. Condon examined more rogues' gallery photographs in Westchester county, apparently without finding anybody whom he could identify. On Friday he is expected to tell his story of his activities to the Bronx county grand jury.

Dr. Condon is being questioned by the police from time to time, it was learned tonight from a police announcement in Trenton.

"His answers adhere consistently to the fundamental facts related so far," said the announcement.

Asked $25,000 Deposit.

One of the strangest features of the Curtis angle of the affair which came to light was the effort by Dobson-Peacock, former friend of the Morrow family in Mexico City, who was brought into the "negotiations" with the imaginary band by Curtis, to have Col. Lindbergh place $25,000 of the ransom money in a Norfolk bank in advance.

The account of this was given out by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commanding the New Jersey state police, after his attention had been called to press reports from Norfolk that Curtis had called upon Col. Lindbergh for $25,000 "earnest money."

In his statement Col. Schwarzkopf attributed this request to Dean Peacock and said that Dean Peacock had made it to Col. Lindbergh on one of the trips the clergyman made to Hopewell when the negotiations were at their height.

"On Monday, March 28," said Col. Schwarzkopf, "Mr. Peacock visited the Lindbergh home and was interviewed by Col. Lindbergh and others. The subject of the conversation was to the effect that he was absolutely positive that the contacts made by his associate Curtis were with the actual kidnapers. He stated that they were demanding the sum of $25,000 to be deposited in a Norfolk bank in his name, same to be turned over to the kidnapers after the delivery of the baby."

Lindbergh Refuses Money.

Col. Schwarzkopf added that Col. Lindbergh refused to comply with this request because Dean Peacock could not show any evidence of contact with the kidnapers or positive proof that the supposed gang had the child.

Dean Peacock was quoted in Norfolk as denying that he had made any demand for advance payment of part of the ransom, saying merely, "I know nothing about it; that is all I can say."

Dean Peacock said tonight he had no intentions of going to New Jersey. "I acted in perfect sincerity," he said, "and do not feel called on to give up my work to make the trip. If the New Jersey police wish to question me I will be at their service here at all times."

"Two telegrams have been sent to Mr. Peacock, both of which he has ignored, although we have the assurance of the telegraph company that they have been personally delivered," said Col. Schwarzkopf in a formal statement. He added that he had been in telephonic communication with Dean Peacock and that the dean had said he would not come to Hopewell today and did not know whether he could get to Hopewell at all.

Exonerates Burrage.

"He would give no definite answer as to when he would come to Hopewell," the police superintendent continued, "and shows no desire to cooperate with the authorities at this point, although he was told that he was involved by the statements of Curtis and his presence was wanted for the purpose of facing Curtis."

Immediately after stating this, Col. Schwarzkopf exonerated Rear Admiral Guy Burrage, retired, who, with Curtis and Dean Peacock constituted the trio on whom the hope of restoring the child rested so long, but made no reference to Dean Peacock.

"Nothing has been developed to indicate that Admiral Burrage was actively involved in this deception," said Schwarzkopf.

Curtis himself has asserted that he brought Dean Peacock and Admiral Burrage into his project in order to get access to Col. Lindbergh, who knew both these men.

Asked About New York Trip.

A point on which the New Jersey police wish especially to question Dean Peacock is his bizarre adventure in a New York hotel where he said he was confronted by a distinguished looking crook, into whose room he had been led, subjected to a demand to produce $50,500 in order to insure the safe return of the Lindbergh baby.

Curtis was in New York at that time and Dean Peacock, in his account of this strange proceeding, told of being summoned by a mysterious telephone call instructing him to engage passage on an airplane. Dean Peacock complied and registered at the Park Central hotel under the name of Hill.

Col. Schwarzkopf today revealed that the author of the anonymous telephone call was Curtis himself and that on his arrival in New York the clergyman went immediately to Curtis' apartment in the Prince George hotel and interviewed Curtis.

Curtis Makes New Statement.

A new statement, made today by Curtis before his arrest, also was made public by the police.

Curtis told of summoning Dean Peacock to his office in Norfolk on March 10 and relating "this fantastic tale that I had concocted about meeting a contact man who claimed he knew the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby." They tried to reach Col. Lindbergh at Hopewell by telephone, and, failing, then tried in vain to reach Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the then missing child.

Finally they reached a man in the Lindbergh home who gave the name of Rosner [Morris Rosner was at this time advising Col. Lindbergh]. Rosner told them to have a picture taken of the baby and send the undeveloped film to Col. Lindbergh to prove they were in contact with the real kidnapers.

Curtis says that after this rebuff he "told the dean that it looked as if we could not get in touch with Col. Lindbergh and the only thing I saw was to drop the negotiations then and there."

Says Peacock Renewed Subject.

Peacock, however, according to Curtis, renewed the subject within a few days and wrote a letter to Mrs. Morrow.

"At that time I called Dean Peacock's attention to the fact that Admiral Burrage knew the Lindberghs and why not get in touch with him. He stated he would not do this unless we did not hear from this letter. He did not want me to take it up with Burrage because he said you know what sort of an old fogy he is.

"We received no reply to the letter to Mrs. Morrow and I was inclined to let the entire matter drop until March 19 when, at the suggestion of Dean Peacock, we went to the house of Admiral Burrage and told him about the matter and it was decided the best thing to do would be to get in touch with the Lindbergh home by telephone.

"From that time on I carried on my operations and transactions in connection with the Lindbergh case much against my will, having expressed a desire to drop it on March 15 entirely, and because of my knowledge that the whole thing was untrue, but carried on because I had been continuously urged and encouraged by Dean Peacock who was enjoying the publicity that he was getting out of the newspapers' stories.

Charges Dean Bared Secrets.

"Any news that I gave Peacock even in confidence he gave to the newspapers and to the neighbors and on two or three occasions confidential information that I had given him concerning this case returned to me through my wife or daughter."

Chief of Police Ironmonger of Norfolk said he believed Curtis knew far more than he had told. The chief began efforts to establish Curtis' whereabouts on the night of March 1. Mrs. Curtis, who apparently was ignorant that her husband's "search" was entirely fictitious, said Curtis was at home on that night.

New Jersey detectives have examined a safety deposit box belonging to Curtis in a Norfolk bank, but what, if anything, they discovered was not announced.

Mrs. Curtis said she had talked with her husband at 6:30 o'clock Monday night [only a few hours before his confession] and that at that time he said he was at the Lindbergh home and that he had been asked to stay over a few days to help them.

"He was cheerful and apparently all right then," she said.

She said she could not believe his confession and that she herself had handled some of the telephone calls from the supposed "negotiators to her husband."

The checking up of Curtis' amazing exploits was being aided today by Miss Ruth Gay of New York, who was mentioned by Curtis in one of the statements he made just before he confessed as having been present at one of his interviews with newspaper representatives discussing possible s) of his stories of his "negotiations." Miss Gay is understood to have acted on occasion as secretary to Curtis, to have taken some of his notes and to have done some of his telephoning.

Absolved by Schwarzkopf.

Miss Gay went voluntarily to state police headquarters in the Lindbergh garage near Hopewell Tuesday night. According to Col. Schwarzkopf, she has actively cooperated with the police in an effort to determine the facts about Curtis' activities and to vindicate herself. She finished her statement to the police in the afternoon and returned to New York.

"There has been nothing developed up to this time," Col. Schwarzkopf said, "which would indicate that Miss Gay was knowingly involved."

A chance phrasing which preceded the official announcement by Col. Schwarzkopf of Curtis' most recent statement revealed that authorities believe the baby was slain "in Hopewell, N. J., between 8 and 10 p. m. on the night of March 1, 1932." This was the night of the kidnaping.

DEATH PENALTY BILL FOR KIDNAPING WINS COMMITTEE FAVOR

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The Cochran bill making kidnaping a federal capital offense, it was announced today, will be reported favorably to the house judiciary committee next Tuesday by the subcommittee which has had it under consideration.

Introduced shortly after the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby and as a direct result of that outrage, the measure was tabled in committee until the case had been disposed of, for fear its passage might hinder recovery of the child.

With the finding of the baby's body, this restraint was removed and sponsors of the measure began at once to urge immediate action by committee and house. The favorable vote by the subcommittee was the result.

Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.], author of the measure, said today that he was confident the bill would pass the house. A similar measure in the senate, now in committee, is also expected to be reported out within the next few days, Mr. Cochran said. The measure will not be retroactive and therefore not applicable to the Lindbergh kidnapers.

STORY OF ARRAIGNMENT

The arraignment and arrest of Curtis were not without their dramatic features, even though the authorities endeavored to make those formalities as unspectacular as they could.

The arraignment was in Col. Lindbergh's home, in the library beneath the nursery from which the baby was stolen two months and a half ago. Those present included Schwarzkopf and some of the detectives who had maneuvered Curtis from glib assurance into abject confession through 100 hours of questioning, interspersed by periods of solitude designed to make him worry.

Late in the afternoon Recorder George Webster arrived from Flemington to preside. The complainant was Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck of Hunterdon county, in which the Lindbergh house lies.

Lindbergh Looks In.

Col. Lindbergh himself looked in on the proceedings.

Curtis was formally placed under arrest in the Lindbergh garage, which has been a police headquarters ever since the kidnaping, and where Curtis had undergone the long hours of questioning that finally broke him down.

The complaint was sworn to by Prosecutor Hauck. The charge was read by the prosecutor and Curtis was asked if he wished a hearing.

"I waive the hearing," he replied.

Bail was then fixed at $10,000 and in default of that Curtis was taken immediately by automobile to the jail at Flemington, there to join, as the thirteenth inmate now incarcerated there, a group including one woman held for murder.

Curtis looked nervous. He was neatly attired in a gray suit and a gray hat. A trooper carried his luggage, consisting of a suitcase and a paper box.

Guarded Against Suicide.

One of the officials who had been close to him described his attitude as "repentant."

A constable immediately was put on guard outside the door of Curtis' cell on the second floor and it was announced that a guard was to be on duty night and day, twenty-four hours a day, to make sure, among other things, that Curtis, in his remorse, did not do violence to himself.

There was a widely circulated report that Curtis had tried to commit suicide following his confession. This was found not to be true, and the police announced that Curtis had been so thoroughly watched that it was impossible. The suicide rumor, according to the police, grew out of an alleged incident in Norfolk long before Curtis entered the Lindbergh case.

While the police were in the last stages of breaking Curtis' nerve last Monday night, it was learned today, a former rum runner, who accused Curtis of ruining him, was being taken to Hopewell to confront the boat builder.

The ex-rum runner said Curtis had tricked him by taking a large sum of money from him with the understanding that he was to use it to buy protection from authorities in Norfolk, and that he had failed to do so.

Hint Victim of Gang.

Friends of Curtis in Norfolk expressed the opinion he had not gone into the hoax willingly, but that he was the victim of a gang of rum runners with some of whom he had had trouble in the past, who used Curtis in an attempt to extort money from Lindbergh by compelling him to act for them under threat of doing harm to his wife and children.

While Curtis was facing prosecution in New Jersey a judgment for $400 was brought in against him in Norfolk. A Norfolk court upheld the suit of Mrs. Mary H. Ellison, widow of an employé of Curtis, who charged that Curtis caused her to sign a draft for her husband's $1,000 insurance and subsequently paid her only $600 for it.

Another hoax was exploded when Frank Parzych of Brooklyn, a drug addict, who had told the police that he was one of a gang of seven who kidnaped the Lindbergh baby, finally admitted that his story was baseless and was concocted "to win sympathy." He was taken to Kings county hospital for observation.

Admits Threat to Banker.

Hoopeston, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—George King, 25, member of a prominent Iroquois county family, confessed today to sending William McFerren, wealthy bank official, a letter threatening the life of his family unless he paid over $2,000. King told officers at Danville, where he was questioned, that he wrote the letter which McFerren received Monday, in order to get money for a good time.

He appeared in the Circuit court shortly after confessing and entered a plea of guilty to an extortion charge.

Steal, Abandon a Baby.

Steubenville, O., May 18.—(AP)—Two year old Eugene Swearingen was stolen from his crib last night by extortionists who apparently lost their nerve and tossed him behind a fence, county authorities said today.

Tonight Eugene was safely in the arms of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swearingen of Warrenton, near here, none the worse except for a bruise over his left eye received when he was thrown behind the fence or when his abductors became frightened and struck him.

JURY IS COMPLETED TO TRY FOUR FOR GECHT KIDNAPING

A jury was completed yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Philip L. Sullivan to try Attorney Ward Swalwell and three co-defendants for the kidnaping of Dr. Max Gecht and his wife, Georgia. The 12 jurors were selected from 212 veniremen examined during the questioning, which continued for more than a week.

Before the jury was sworn attorneys and defendants adjourned to chambers. It was reported that Attorney Everett Jennings, representing John Pingera and William Thomas, attempted to negotiate for leniency on a plea of guilty by his clients. Asked if he would consider 20 year prison sentences on a guilty plea, Prosecutor C. Wayland Brooks answered that he would consider nothing less than life sentences. Attorney Jennings, it was reported, asked immediate adjournment so that he might confer with his clients.

Swalwell and Edward Finnen will stand trial before the jury no matter what action is taken by the other defendants, their attorneys said. Attorney James Burke, representing Finnen, and Attorney William Crowley of the public defender's office took no part in the negotiations in chambers, it was said.

Prosecutors Brooks and Ross Lee Laird will make the opening statement for the prosecution this morning. Mrs. Gecht will be one of the first state witnesses.

DR. PARKER'S WIFE TELLS OF $50,000 RANSOM DEMAND

Links Politician to Gang Who Kidnaped Husband.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—All but three of the 12 defendants were connected with some phase of the abduction and holding of Dr. James W. Parker for $50,000 ransom as the kidnaping trial in Judge Henry J. Ingram's court here gathered momentum in the second day of testimony.

Dr. Donna Parker, wife of the kidnaped physician, testified during the afternoon against Joseph Pursifull, lawyer, politician and former school teacher, who, with Claude [Red] Evans, ex-convict, and James W. Betson, ex-detective and politician, are the major defendants.

Tells of $50,000 Demand.

Mrs. Parker, an elderly woman with rimless spectacles, maintained a professional calm as she told how Pursifull came to her house to negotiate for ransom and warned her that the doctor was "in the hands of a strong, fierce gang of kidnapers who demand $50,000."

"I told him that amount was impossible," she said.

Admitted He Knew Gang.

The witness testified that Pursifull told the family he knew the identity of the kidnapers and could establish communication with them from the telephone in the house.

The testimony of Mrs. Parker was corroborated by Dr. James W. Parker Jr. and by the family attorney, Joseph Bartley, who was called in when Pursifull came to the Parker house. Young Parker also testified that he told Pursifull over the telephone, on Wednesday, March 30, that the ransom money would not be ready on Thursday, as arranged, but on Friday "for sure." Pursifull was arrested on Friday, April 1, and further testimony is expected to show that the Secret Six from Chicago trapped him communicating with Betson, who was arrested in the headquarters of Len Small.

Farm hands from the vicinity of the Stoops home, identified Raymond Stoops, his wife, Bessie, their 17 year old son, Dean, Dwight Bartlett, and Edward Woodford as having been around the farm house from March 16 to April 1, while Dr. Parker was detained.

"MR. TWIN AND FOX" OF CURTIS LINDBERGH STORY IDENTIFIED

New York, May 18.—(AP)—References in the Lindbergh confession of John Hughes Curtis to two men not fully identified were cleared up today.

In explaining his claim he had been offered money for his "knowledge of the Lindbergh case or pictures of the baby," Curtis said.

"Mr. Twin and Fox offered me money."

Although the identity of the "Mr. Twin" was not known immediately, the "Fox" reference was generally interpreted as referring to the Fox Film company. The Fox Film company is in no way involved and this correction is emphasized.

Today Sam Fox, a Norfalk [Va.] photographer, said he had acted for a news photograph syndicate in offering Curtis $2,500 for exclusive pictures of the Lindbergh baby, or for enabling him to photograph the baby before any one else.

To which, he said, Curtis replied: "It is hard for me to say at this time what I can do."

E. Turin, manager of the advertising board of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, said that he had made no offer to Curtis, but that the shipbuilder had broached to him, as manager of the Norfolk-Portsmouth News bureau, suggestions of remuneration for information concerning his negotiations.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

WEBER ELECTED G. O. P. CHAIRMAN TO END TIEUP

First from Suburbs in Half Century.

BY PARKE BROWN.

For the first time in more than fifty years a chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee was chosen yesterday from the suburbs of Chicago.

William H. Weber, former assessor and former member of the board of review, was elected at the third meeting of the county convention as the only means of breaking the deadlock which for weeks had prevented the election of any Chicagoan. He is a resident of Blue Island, has been a member of the committee for 41 years, and has been a power in the country towns of the county during all the time. He is 70 years old.

Wrecks Old Machine.

His election completed the rout of the old city hall machine which began ten days ago when it tried to seize the convention and elect Patrick Sheridan Smith chairman. Smith was the Len Small candidate up to the finish, but never got near a majority vote.

There were eleven ballots taken in the caucus on the second floor of the Hotel Sherman before the convention was called to order, approximately one hour later than scheduled time. For four hours forty-eight of the fifty ward committeemen and the eight country towns district leaders tried out one candidate after another in the hope that each might pile up a majority.

George F. Barrett did not let his name go before the caucus. Instead, he and his west side associates backed Eden T. Brekke and Edward F. Moore, their second and third choices, but neither was able to make the grade.

Busse Has Supporters.

The country towns stood by County Commissioner William Busse, who also had Deneen city support except when one effort was made for the election of Ernest M. Cross, former alderman of the 10th ward. Other candidates tried out were Charles E. Peace of the 42d, who said his name was presented without his consent, and Robert C. Rohn, the new committeeman from the 19th.

In convention each ward committeeman casts as many votes as were cast in his territory by his party in the primaries. There were discrepancies between the voting power figures used in the caucus and those used in the convention. The convention roll call showed a total vote of 612,026, so that 306,559 were necessary for election.

Wins on Eleventh Roll Call.

The Small candidate, Smith, never approached that requirement, and none of the candidates came near it until Weber's name was brought in. Then on the next roll call, the eleventh, he received 358,256 votes. Then Congressman Oscar De Priest, Negro representative of the First district at Washington, was named vice chairman by acclamation, and Edward F. Moore was named secretary.

During these deliberations, a former Republican mayor, with some of his few remaining satellites, occupied a room down the same hall upon which the caucus rooms were located. He was still trying to put Smith over and early in the day said that "the cause of Len Small" would rise or fall with Smith. After Smith's defeat, it was reported, he had nothing to say.

As those in the caucus trooped down to the mezzanine floor of the hotel they found a swarm of country town precinct committeemen and spectators waiting for them. The retiring chairman, B. W. Snow, waited from 3 o'clock until 4 before calling the meeting to order. This time there was a roll call and, with a large quorum present, business began at once.

Will Be Loyal to Ticket.

Paul Rothenberg of the 2th ward nominated Weber, and as there were no other nominations he was elected by acclamation.

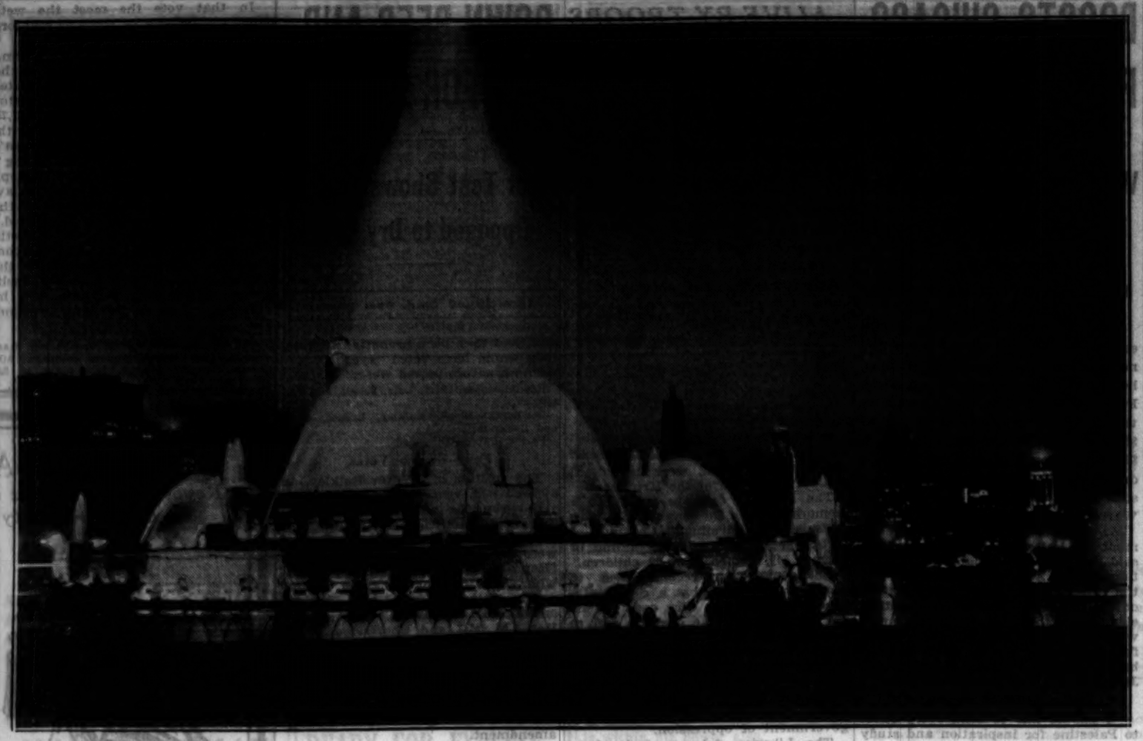
In response to a question later, Chairman Weber said that in the recent primary he supported Omer N. Custer, the Emmerson candidate, for the Republican nomination for governor.

John Leonard East of the 5th ward nominated De Priest for vice chairman. Again there were no other candidates.

Efforts to reach Small and other candidates with an invitation to speak before the convention were made, but mostly were unsuccessful. State's Attorney Swanson was found and came in and spoke briefly.

When Ald. Oscar F. Nelson presented resolutions praising President Hoover, United States Senator Glenn and Len Small, there was applause for the latter two, but none at the mention of the name of Hoover.

BUCKINGHAM FOUNTAIN TURNED ON FOR FIRST TIME IN 1932



Although the formal opening of the fountain in Grant park was set for tomorrow, it was tested last night after park employes had put it in order for the year. The picture showed it as the lights were turned on and the water played for the first time this year.

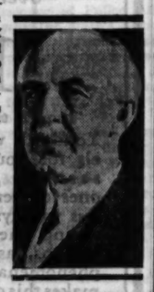
VERMONT G. O. P. WANTS PEOPLE TO VOTE ON DRY LAW

Also Demands Less Federal Expense.

Montpelier, Vt., May 18.—[Special.]—A platform calling for the submission of the prohibition question to the people of the nation and demanding sharp curtailment in governmental expenditures was adopted today by the Vermont Republican convention here.



PORTER H. DALE. [Fotograms.]

These demands were made in the form of two resolutions, which were adopted by verbal vote. The one relating to prohibition urged the national party convention "for the good of the nation" to pledge the party and its representatives in congress to propose to the people an amendment to the constitution enabling the people to decide by vote whether they wish the continuance or repeal of the eighteenth amendment. This proposal would be put up to the voters not later than Dec. 31, 1933.

Follows Long Debate.

This resolution was adopted after long debate on the convention floor, the vote being taken after acceptance of a substitute motion by Senator Porter H. Dale for submission of the resolutions to the convention separately.

In the other resolution the national convention was urged to pledge every Republican member of congress, or candidate for congress, to support only such legislation as is clearly within the powers delegated to congress by the people and to work for legislation designed to eliminate abuses "arising out of the usurpation by congress of powers never delegated to the federal government and to reduce the enormous burden of taxation," as well as for drastic reduction of the "appalling expense of government."

To this latter end the platform demanded a reduction of nonessential commissions and bureaus and immediate reductions in the number and excessive salaries of government employés.

Eight Roosevelt Votes.

At Burlington today the state Democratic convention elected twelve delegates to the national convention and pledged their eight votes to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was also decided that the unit rule would be used.

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment and an immediate revision of the Volstead act legalizing light wines and beers were demanded.

In an address to the Democratic convention Senator Thomas Gore of Oklahoma said: "Since the days of Jefferson no Democrat ever has been; no Democrat ever will be, asked about his politics at the altar or his religion at the polls."

Repairs Made

The Buckingham Memorial fountain in Grant park will be turned on officially for the summer season tomorrow morning following two weeks of repair work. When the colored lights are turned on they will be controlled automatically. Harmonious color combinations have been arranged for the display in contrast with the clashing colors that sometimes resulted from the manual operation of other years, according to George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south park system. The new lighting system was tested last night.

BRITTEN BILL ASKS MILITARY RULE OF HAWAII

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Military control of the Hawaiian islands was advocated today by Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], minority member of the house naval affairs committee. He introduced a bill authorizing the President to appoint active or retired army or navy officers only to the governorship of Hawaii. Only citizens of the territory are now eligible for appointment to the executive offices.

Mr. Britten's contention, as outlined in a statement, was that the tranquility of the islands is too important to the safety of the United States to permit conditions to develop there which might hamper American army and navy forces in event of a national emergency. His remedy would be military control.

"No other nation but ourselves would allow so important a possession to be so completely dominated by a native population," Mr. Britten said. "The Massie case has shown us the extreme to which the civilian population as well as the courts will go to uphold the native spirit against anything that is American. The complete protection of American citizens and American rights makes it advisable to put the islands immediately under American control."

BUSINESS IS BAD; THAT'S GOOD FOR MR. GREENSTEIN

Nathan M. Greenstein, 1221 South St. Louis avenue, appeared yesterday before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude to show cause why he should not go to jail for being $1,000 in arrears on alimony payments to Mrs. Elsie Greenstein, who has a bill for divorce pending.

"My business is terrible," said Greenstein, an installment salesman, "and I have a number of creditors. However, my wife offered at one time to take over my business to earn her own alimony and to give me $10 a week out of the earnings. I'm willing to do that now."

"I offered to do that once, but I don't believe I could support our children and pay him $10 a week now, with business as it is," replied the wife.

"Very well," said Judge Trude, "if you can't do it I don't see how we can expect your husband to do it."

He cut Mrs. Greenstein's alimony from $25 to $12 a week and denied the motion to send the husband to jail for nonpayment of the arrears.

Gerald Bodine, 32 years old, 6351 Blackstone avenue, made a comfortable living eating nails until his arrest on complaint of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, which insures the Raklios restaurants. He was held yesterday at the detective bureau and will be charged with attempting to commit a crime, police said.

Bodine complained that he had been served a nail in a plate of food and offered X-ray pictures in proof. Investigation showed that he had collected $600 during the last few months on similar complaints in other parts of the country. He confessed, and said he swallowed his first nail on a Monon line dining car. Successful in collecting, he practiced the racket steadily, Bodine told police.

HELD FOR MOLESTING CHILD.

Harold Miller, 21 years old, 10738 Avenue O, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $5,000 by Judge Donald S. McKinlay on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a 7 year old girl. Miller is married and is a father.

BRITAIN TO MAKE DRASTIC REFORM OF DOLE SYSTEM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—Drastic changes in the present system of unemployment insurance will be recommended soon by the royal commission which has been investigating the problem since September, 1930.

The government will follow the recommendations and introduce legislation for a complete reform in an effort to make the scheme solvent and self-supporting. At the end of last year the fund was more than $500,000,000 in debt.

The commission has decided, it is understood, that the scheme should be extended to include workers in various categories hitherto outside its purview.

FRED BRUMMEL WILL GO ON TAX APPEALS BOARD

The Democratic member of the county board of tax appeals, which will act with Assessor J. L. Jacobs, will be formally appointed today by President Emmett Whealan of the county board. It was learned last evening that the new appointee will be Fred W. Brummel, president of the real estate company bearing his name at 111 West Washington street.

Mr. Brummel is widely recognized as an expert in real estate valuations. He never has been actively engaged in politics and his appointment, it is understood, was brought about through the recommendations of real estate leaders.

A Native of Chicago.

He is a native of Chicago, born in 1872, and a graduate of Quincy college at Quincy, Ill. He now resides at the Edgewater Beach hotel with his wife. An only daughter recently was married.

President Whealan last evening said that his appointee would be chosen from the list of 25 names of real estate operators submitted by the Chicago Real Estate board and the Cook County Real Estate board. The appointee, he said, would be formally named after a conference this evening with Mayor Cermak.

Emmerson Here Today.

Gov. Emmerson, who has the power to appoint the Republican member of the tax appeals board, is expected in Chicago today. President Whealan said that he will confer with the governor this morning in the hope that the announcement of the appointment of the Republican member of the board could be made simultaneously with his own.

The new board of tax appeals was created under the D. F. Kelly plan passed by the special session of the general assembly. The old board of review, consisting of three members, and the board of assessors, composed of five members, were abolished. In their stead the assessing power was given to one man, whose decisions are subject to review by the two members of the board of appeals.

The governor was given the appointment of one of the two men on the appeals board and the president of the county board that of the other. The assessor was appointed through the joint action of the two officials.

Ambition Causes Downfall of Lunch Room Employe

When Sergeants Al O'Neil and Thomas McCreash entered the home of Frank Crest, 41 years old, at 3533 South Halsted street yesterday they found everything needed to equip a fountain lunch room, even the cash register. Crest admitted an ambition to own a lunch room, but the Harrison Food Fountain, Inc., at 1502 South Michigan avenue, objected to his using their property. Crest confessed robbing the company.

HANGS SELF ON STAIRWAY.

Anton Barah, 50 years old, hanged himself yesterday on the stairway outside the apartment of Mrs. Helen Blanowicski, a widow, at 3742 Commercial avenue.

POPE CALLS ON WORLD TO FIGHT RADICAL PERIL

Blames the Depression on Greed for Gold.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 18.—To the four corners of the world and in the tongues of divers people, ether waves from Vatican City wireless station tonight are carrying a mighty denunciation by Pope Pius XI. of the subversive forces in the godless modern world and an impassioned appeal to all humanity to unite to resist the evils which are now crushing it and "still greater evils that are threatening."

The pontiff of the Roman Catholic church made this appeal on the eve of his 75th birthday in the form of an encyclical letter, 6,000 words long. The letter began, "Urged by the charity of Christ."

Warns of Anarchy.

The pope said that terrorism and anarchy hang ominously over organized society and spiritual and material distress have never been so deep or universal in all fallen man's earthly pilgrimage. The forces of evil, which he plainly identified with bolshevism and communism and unrestrained greed for gold, are taking advantage of the present economic depression to spread atheistic doctrines among the masses by organized nefarious activities, he said.

Speculators and those few who possess great wealth and power come only second to communists in the pontiff's philippic, and in this connection he made obvious reference to the Ivar Kreuger financial scandal. Sordid egoism, exaggerated nationalism, and accursed hunger for gold he mentioned among other causes of the world's present predicament.

Proposes Eight Days of Prayer.

In the second part of the encyclical the pope proposed remedies. He called on every one to observe an eight day period of prayer and fasting and a more austere mode of living. This period is to begin June 3 and during it he asks the people to abstain "at least from entertainments and amusements, however lawful." He urged that "those in easier circumstances" give to the poor "the proceeds of this retrenchment."

In that part of the encyclical conberning speculators and communists the pope charged that "a small group of holders of the world's wealth manipulate the markets of the world at their own caprice to the immense harm of the masses."

Drag Down Others.

"Even those very few," he said, "who with their speculations were and are in great part a cause of so much woe, are themselves quite often the first and most notorious victims, dragging down with themselves into the abyss the fortunes of countless others.

"Profiting by so much economic distress and so much moral disorder, the enemies of all social order, be they called communists or any other name, boldly set about breaking through every restraint.

"This is the most dreadful evil of our times, for they destroy every bond of law, human or divine; they engage openly and in secret in a relentless struggle against God himself; they carry out the diabolical program of wresting from the hearts of all, even from children, all religious sentiment; for well they know that when once belief in God has been taken from the heart of mankind they will be entirely free to work out their will."

Assails Rabid Nationalism.

Concerning exaggerated nationalism, the pope said:

"There is no excess that will not seem justified. Abusing this love of country leads to hatred, driving all to destruction. Sacred principles are trampled upon and polluted."

Referring to the unequal distribution of wealth, the pope recalled that previously he had advocated energetically "a more equitable distribution of the goods of the earth to restore health to the ailing social body.

"If we pass in review the long and borrowful sequence of woes that, as a sad heritage of sin, mark the stages of fallen man's earthly pilgrimage from the flood on, it would be hard to find spiritual and material distress so deep, so universal, as that which we are now experiencing.

All Humanity Stricken.

"Even the greatest scourges which have left indelible traces in the lives and memories of peoples struck only one nation at a time. Now, on the contrary, the whole of humanity is held bound by the financial and economic crisis so fast that the more it struggles the harder appears the task of loosening its bonds."

Deplorable as is the present state of affairs, he said, the root from which it springs is still more deplorable.

"If what the Holy Ghost affirms through the mouth of St. Paul is ever true," he said, "much more is it true at present: 'The desire of money is the root of all evils.' Is it not that lust of earthly goods that the pagan poet called, with righteous scorn, 'the accursed hunger for gold?'"

The pope then went on to declare that "impious men" were never lacking, but, he said, previously they had been relatively few and isolated and individual, not caring to reveal too openly "their impious minds."

"Today, on the contrary," he said, "atheism has already spread through large masses of the people—well organized. It works its way even into the common schools. It appears in the theater. In order to spread itself it makes use of its own cinema films of the gramophone and the radio. With its own presses it prints booklets in every language. It promotes special exhibitions and public parades. It has formed its own political parties and its own economic and military systems.

"Organized and militant atheism works untiringly by means of its agitators, with conferences and projections, with every means of propaganda, secret and open, among all classes, in every street, in every hall."

Pageant Is Given

A crowd estimated at 18,000, including more than 2,000 women in costume who took part in a pageant, attended the festival held last night by the Woman's Benefit association, a fraternal insurance group, in the Chicago Stadium. It was given for the benefit of relief funds of the Federated Council of Business and Professional Women and the Woman's Benefit association.

Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, greeted the audience. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, explained a first aid demonstration given by girl members of the benefit association.

A pageant and processional in which girls and women dressed in colors of the rainbow took part was a feature of the program, which opened with a chorus of 200 voices. Miss Dorothy Guy was crowned queen of the May by Cyrena Van Gordon of the Chicago Civic Opera company, while girls in evening dresses draped with garlands of flowers stood by.

The occasion marked the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Bina West Miller, president of the Woman's Benefit association, who was given a large birthday cake and other gifts.

$30,000 DINNER BOOSTS CHICAGO PALESTINE FUND

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

More than 300 persons paid $100 each for their reservations for a dinner last night at the Standard club, held in the interest of the American Palestine fund. The total amount of the proceeds, which reached above $30,000, is to be applied to Chicago's $250,000 quota of the nation-wide drive for $3,000,000. The principal speaker at the dinner was Felix M. Warburg, New York financier.

Mr. Warburg spoke on the development of Palestine by Zionists. He said that one of the notable contributions of the Zionist movement was in the direction of greater appreciation of the "noblest and most beautiful elements of the three world religions" which arose in Palestine, and pleaded for greater growth of understanding between those religions, Christianity, Judaism and Mohammedanism.

Cradle of Great Religions.

"I should like to send every rabbi to Palestine for inspiration and study before he becomes the spiritual leader of a congregation," Mr. Warburg said. "It is almost impossible to obtain Jewish inspiration in tenements and on fire escapes, or even in the great seminaries and universities. Palestine is the cradle of great religions. In Palestine one may obtain a more profound and more beautiful understanding of all religion."

Mr. Warburg pointed out that throughout the world there can be found "every shade of Jewish belief," but despite that variation, all Jews "can unite on the background offered by Palestine."

Make Desert Blossom.

"All other religions," he said, "envy the work the Zionists have done in turning a desert into a country that blossoms like a rose and where a great international university has been founded to make Judaism's contribution available to all faiths."

Judge Harry M. Fisher and Rabbi Solomon Freehof, author of "Hounds of Heaven," were other speakers. James A. Becker presided as toastmaster. Rabbi Freehof urged all Jews to regain a sense of Hebrew history which may be revealed in a tangible way in the development of Palestine.

DIVING INJURY PROVES FATAL.

Gordon Green, 24 years old, 4153 North Meade avenue, a chauffeur, died yesterday as the result of a broken neck suffered Sunday when he dived into the lake at the foot of Delaware place and struck his head on the bottom.

159 TRIBESMEN IN LIBERIA BURNED ALIVE BY TROOPS

Women and Children Among Victims.

GENEVA, May 18.—(AP)—The burning alive of many men, women, and children by the Liberian frontier military force was reported to the league of nations today in a communication signed in behalf of the American, British, and French governments.

These atrocities, the report asserted, were committed against tribesmen of the Kru coast.

The Liberian delegate submitted a memorandum to the league's Liberian commission confirming the burning of forty-four villages and the killing of 81 men, 49 women, and 29 children.

The commission recommended to the league council that a representative be sent to the Kru coast to assist in pacifying the country and to bring about the return of 12,000 tribesmen who have fled their homes.

Violence by the Liberian military force followed an inquiry by the league commission, in the course of which many tribesmen accused the government of oppression.

The Liberian delegate declared to the commission that his government had taken "necessary legitimate action" against tribesmen to maintain order and to protect lives and property.

ROBBED AS TRAFFIC PASSES.

While a stream of loop-bound traffic passed by during the rush hour yesterday morning, Abraham Salitsky, 1307 South California avenue, was forced by two bandits to drive his automobile to the curb at Roosevelt road and California avenue, where he was robbed of $55 and jewelry valued at $950.

SENATE VOTES DOWN BEER AND AID FOR JOBLESS

First Test Shows 24 Are Opposed to Dry Law.

that, had they been permitted to vote, they would have voted "aye."

The senators paired were:

Republicans—Hebert, Dale, Schall, and Waterman.

Democrats—Black, Bulkley, Byrnes, Gore, and Swanson.

Four Switch Votes.

The position of Senator Bulkley, an avowed wet, was not announced.

Between the vote on the Tydings amendment and that on the Bingham proposal for 4 per cent beer, there were four switches. Senators Moses [Rep., N. H.] and Reed [Rep., Pa.], who voted for the Bingham amendment, voted against the Tydings amendment. Senator Cutting [radical Rep., N. M.] and Shortridge [Rep., Cal.], who voted against 4 per cent beer, voted in favor of beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content.

Senator Bailey [Dem., N. C.], who did not vote on the Bingham amendment, voted against the Tydings amendment.

Adding up all those who signified a sentiment in favor of modification therefore, the wets counted a total of 29—24 on the Tydings amendment, two more who voted wet on the Bingham amendment, two more who were paired, but announced themselves in favor of the Tydings amendment, and Senator Bulkley as a known wet.

Once before during this session there has been a wet and dry vote in the senate, but not a clear cut one. One Jan. 21 the senate voted on the Bingham resolution, to declare it the sense of the senate that the governors of the several states should take steps to bring about a referendum on the 18th amendment.

In that vote the most the wets could muster was 15, while 55 senators voted against the resolution.

Senator Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.] pointed out that adoption of the amendment would not affect states with their own dry laws. Senator Tydings assured the senate that 2.75 per cent beer could be approved without violation of the 18th amendment's prohibition against an "intoxicating" liquor. Senator Jesse Metcalf [Rep., R. I.] pleaded for a change in the law which made the United States "the most criminal country in the world."

Senator Robert M. La Follette [radical Rep., Wis.] declared the construction program embodied in the Tydings proposal would not, by itself, be enough to halt deflation, but he called it a step in the right direction.

ROB LAUNDRY MANAGER.

Two robbers held up Edward Floren, manager of the Linden Laundry company, 409 North Laramie avenue, last night in his office and took $850.

ARREST BANDIT TRYING TO CASH A STOLEN CHECK

Most stickup men regard the checks which they accumulate in their rounds as so much dross, but not so Otto Eckert. Eckert, who lives at 602 Arlington place, went out Sunday night and held up a filling station of the Texas corporation at 1764 Kingsbury street.

In the loot was a check which had been given by a customer to the North Shore Tire and Battery company, 1566 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, and then cashed by an employé of that concern at the filling station. Eckert took it to the tire company's store yesterday and tried to buy a tire.

L. B. Carpenter, who waited on him, saw his own signature on the check and remembered that it had been taken in the holdup. He called police. Eckert was identified by Walter Urbaniak, the filling station attendant.

WOMEN RIVALS IN TUG OF WAR OVER DRY LAW

Strive to Win Travelers at Rail Depot.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A pair of yellow canaries trilled sweetly in the balcony restaurant of the Grand Central station, Harrison and Wells streets, yesterday, but the waiting room below was not so harmonious.

Bright sunlight streamed through arched windows, slanting across two booths decked with bunting and flags. Travelers passing through, however, sensed a tense hostility, out of keeping with the festive decoration of the sunny room.

Three women, members of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, sat behind one booth with its huge banner: "Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment." Assisted by waitresses and check girls, they distributed literature to an intermittent line of travelers. Fifty feet away two representatives of the Woman's Christian Temperance union tended the other booth, which was placarded with advice to "Uphold the Constitution." Few came to this booth and the two women in it sat eyeing their more popular sisters.

Booth Started on Monday.

"We set up our booth here on Monday, the same day our organization set up headquarters in the other railroad stations, hotels, elevated stations, and theaters for the National Repeal week campaign," explained Mrs. Stephen A. Williams of Winnetka, one of those in charge of the wet booth. "On Tuesday I came to work at 8:30. About an hour later I noticed activity across the way. The W. C. T. U. women came in with literature under their arms and they started setting up a booth. We didnt' know what it was all about.

"Presently they came over and began asking questions. We asked them if they would like to sign up for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. They replied 'Indeed not!' and then they started to convince us that we were wrong.

"They told about the saloon of their childhood and assured us that the speakeasy of today is better than the saloon of pre-Volstead days. This morning they came over again, but apologized for speaking as they did yesterday. They admitted that we all have a right to our own opinions."

Mrs. James Williams, 4924 Blackstone avenue, and Mrs. Robert E. Ross, 1235 Astor street, were the others in charge of the wet booth.

Referred to Headquarters.

The reporter strolled across to the W. C. T. U. camp to learn if the organization intended to extend its activities to other railroad stations so that its arguments for prohibition might be also presented to the public.

"If you want any information you can get it at headquarters, 189 West Madison street," advised the booth keeper, Mrs. M. C. Ciarno, 4427 Berkeley avenue.

At 189 West Madison street, the headquarters of the Illinois W. C. T. U. was found. The door was locked. Inquiry was made at the National Educational Temperance league on the floor above. Bertram Willoughby, who gave his office as national superintendent, said he knew nothing of a prohibition booth in the Grand Central station.

"But I tell you what," he added, "if they're having booths down there I'll have one, too. Our organization was formed two years ago. We don't think the law has anything to do with prohibition. We believe in total abstinence as the solution of the question.

The Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform announced 30,000 signatures at the close of the first two days' campaign.

IS THIS RUSSIA? MAYOR CERMAK ASKS SWANSON

Raps State's Attorney's Gambling Raids.

Mayor Cermak asked yesterday if Chicago had become Russia, and if the state's attorney's police were Cossacks, but State's Attorney Swanson's gambling raids were continued in the face of this criticism from the city hall. A number of gaming houses were visited by the prosecutor's raiders during the afternoon.

The mayor also talked to six police captains who had been called to the office of Commissioner of Police Allman to explain why the state's attorney's raiders, who are city police assigned to the prosecutor's office, had found gambling in their districts. A general meeting of all police captains has been called for 2 p. m. today to discuss the same subject.

The captains were John Horan, commanding the central [loop] district; John Ptacek, Lawndale; Michael Grady, Chicago avenue; John Hogan, Hyde Park; Joseph Goldberg, Albany Park, and Alfred Christensen, Sheffield avenue. Police Commissioner Allman was also present.

Tells Police to Be Alert.

"I told these captains to be alert because, in spite of instructions that they would be held responsible for everything that happened in their districts, Swanson's police found gambling there," said Mayor Cermak after the conference.

"I told them I realized that the practice of gamblers in moving from one spot to another when police are after them makes gambling difficult to suppress. I said, however, that they are held responsible and will have to stand the consequences.

"Mr. Swanson seems to have picked on gambling alone as an object of law enforcement. I suppose he will be closing the saloons next, as that is within his power also.

Raid Without Warrant.

"I've been told that at a store at 516 Rush street four men broke in without a warrant and announced that they were state's attorney's men and found a friendly rummy game, but no law violation. Notwithstanding that, I'm told, they broke down a partition and tore a telephone off the wall.

"Is this Russia? Are the state's attorney's police Cossacks?"

State's Attorney Swanson was not in his office yesterday afternoon, but Lieut. John Leonard, in charge of the state's attorney's police, replied to the mayor's remarks.

"We're not Cossacks," he said, "but plain ordinary police. I wasn't on the raids. Personally I don't know anything about breaking furniture."

CONVENTION TICKETS READY FOR EXPENSE FUND'S CONTRIBUTORS

Announcement that an allotment of tickets to the Republican and Democratic national conventions is ready for distribution to contributors to the expense funds, was made yesterday by Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the nonpartisan convention committee.

A statement from Mr. Hurley's headquarters at 208 South La Salle street read:

"The Chicago citizens' committee has received from the Democratic and Republican national committees on arrangements certain allotments of tickets to both conventions for distribution among those who have furnished the citizens' committee with the expense fund covering both conventions. These tickets will be distributed by the citizens committee to those subscribers making supplemental donations to the conventions fund."

RIPARIAN RIGHTS VALUED BY JURY AT $465 A FOOT

Fixes Damage Rate for Outer Drive Extension.

A jury in the court of Superior Judge Ross C. Hall yesterday fixed a value of $465 a foot for the riparian rights of Adolph Schmidt, owner of property at 6330 Sheridan road, which is 70 feet wide at the present lake shore.

The suit was the first of 30 condemnation proceedings brought by the Lincoln park commissioners to acquire the riparian rights of property owners along the mile of shore between Bryn Mawr and Devon avenues in order to clear the way for the extension of the outer drive.

Mile Cost $2,455,200.

The finding is considered important because it automatically becomes a basis for similar valuations of the remaining 5,000 odd feet of shore line property involved in the other suits. At the same prices the park commissioners would have to pay $2,455,200 for the rights in question.

Attorney Eugene Dupee, counsel for the commissioners, said his clients probably would demand a new trial on the grounds that the award was too high. "The property owner will not lose air, light, or view when the present plans are carried out," Mr. Dupee said.

Attorney Charles Weinfeld, who represents the group of property owners, was satified with the verdict. He said, however, that he hopes to oppose successfully the present plan for the placing of the drive because, he said, the strip of land between the drive and Sheridan road would be too small to allow buildings to be constructed that would face on both thoroughfares.

Demanded $80,000 Damages.

Schmidt, a partner in the Columbian Colortype company, was given $32,550 by the jury. He had demanded $80,000 for the rights to his property, Attorney Dupee stated, but the park commissioners had refused to negotiate with him. He is one of a group of property owners organized by Thomas J. Houston, former head of the city civil service commission in October, 1929.

De Valera Plans to Attend Imperial Parley Himself

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 18.—President Eamon de Valera will attend the imperial economic conference at Ottawa in July, if government business permits. This was announced today. In any case, three ministers are expected to attend. Their names are not yet available. Britain has already announced that if the Free State abolishes the oath of allegiance to the king, the British government will consider the treaty broken and refuse to enter any new agreements with Dublin. This would include agreements at the Ottawa conference.

SARGENT TELLS BUSINESS FEAR OF GOVERNMENT

Threat of Confiscation Halts Recovery.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., May 18.—[Special.]—American business fears the threat of additional confiscatory taxation and governmental interference in its affairs, and the threat is preventing a recovery from the depression.

This view was expressed tonight by Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, at a dinner session of the United States Chamber of Commerce. In forthright terms the Chicagoan condemned the paternalistic attitude of the governmental bureaucracy, which he said is not only interfering with the proper conduct of private business but is so costly that taxes have mounted out of all bounds of reason.

Mr. Sargent gloomily declared that he could see no end to the depression at all until "there is powerful evidence of government reform in the matter of spending, and in this octopus-like self-expansion, this whole tremendous outpush into fields of 'service' and private enterprise."

Has Proposals for Relief.

"This end," he added, "I suppose may be achieved only through the voluntary efforts of enlightened public officials, or by some sort of taxpayers' strike which compels action. If it is not attained somehow, there is likely to be more than one long, cold winter ahead."

Summed up in a paragraph, Mr. Sargent's proposals for relief are these:

"In short, I believe the remedies to lie along the lines of reducing taxes, balancing budgets by cutting governmental expenditures, eliminating government regulations that interfere with private business, avoiding subsidies, removing unjust and destructive restrictions from railroad managements and operation, helping to revive commodity prices of agriculture by utilizing foreign debts for such purpose, and then, through private initiative and enterprise on a national scale, possibly through the channel of enlarged building and loan associations, adopt a system of long time credits that would enable the financing of home improvements on the farms and the removal of slum and health destroying conditions in our great cities."

Pessimistic About Future.

Mr. Sargent said it was idle to talk of a business recovery just around the corner.

"For I know, and you know," he said, "that men who are no cowards, men who in many instances are in control of very important undertakings today, are scared. Fearful of the future. Afraid to push ahead in their usual bold fashion. Men and women everywhere are wondering what the government is going to do next. To what extent, they ask, is the government going to engage in business, to broaden and enlarge its present activities? To what added extent will capital that comes out honestly and fearlessly and aggressively be mulcted to foot the bills?"

"The finger of the government has been getting longer and longer. More and more private businesses have been touched in one way or another. There have been subsidies, hidden or open. There is actual manufacture and distribution of numerous articles of commerce by the government. There is increasingly onerous legislation and supervision of private business. A host of activities, veiled under the guise of 'service' have encroached upon private enterprise and have caused the burden of taxation to grow by leaps and bounds. Most harmful of all just now is the continuing uncertainty as to what next?"

Heavy Heel on Industry.

Mr. Sargent spoke of the "heavy heel" of government in industry and somewhat sardonically he described the multiplicious federal bureaus which present, he said, "the curious spectacle of existing on taxes paid by business, while engaged in hampering the activities of business."

Some minds have conceived the thought of allowing the government to control all trade and commerce, Mr. Sargent declared, and he warned against going too far in that direction.

"I believe," he said, "that when the government engages in operating a business, even if only in regulatory capacity, there is almost certain to be red tape, waste, inefficiency."

Without mentioning specifically the minority movement in congress aimed at taxes to "soak the rich," Mr. Sargent sounded a warning that just such policies bring depressions and unemployment, and sustain them.

Must Add Taxes to Costs.

"Business men must add taxes to costs, and charge higher prices for their products," he declared. "Higher taxes thus enter into the cost of every article of food on the workingman's table, every shred of clothing on his back, every stick of furniture in his home—they are even tucked away in the doctor's bills.

"And when a business depression comes, as now, and men are thrown out of work by the hundreds of thousands and the burden of taxation is so great and the promise of relief so slight, that business men hesitate to take constructive steps toward resumption of activities—whose problem is it then? Is it only the problem of each large taxpayer? Or is it also the problem of the thousands who cannot earn because of the difficulties and uncertainties and fears of business men?"

The board of directors of the chamber today authorized President Silas H. Strawn to appoint a committee of nine to study the prohibition question and report back to the board tomorrow or Friday. A resolution adopted almost unanimously by the national council of the chamber yesterday requested the board of directors to take steps to have a thorough study of prohibition made and then to advise the entire membership of its findings, at the same time taking a referendum vote of the membership on whether to continue, repeal, or modify the present prohibition laws.

Chicagoans Urge Sales Tax, 40 Hour Week Upon Hoover

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—An appeal for President Hoover to throw his influence back of the movement to write a sales tax into the billion dollar revenue bill was carried to the White House today by Sewell Avery of Chicago, president of the United States Gypsum company. Arriving at the White House at 9 o'clock, Mr. Avery spent more than an hour in the executive offices discussing general business conditions with the President.

SEWELL AVERY. [Moffett Photo.]

A few minutes after Mr. Avery left the White House, another Chicagoan, Milton S. Florsheim, shoe manufacturer, urged the President to support legislation providing a 40 hour maximum work week. According to Mr. Florsheim, his plan would result in the employment of thousands of additional men, as both federal and civil workers could not work more than 40 hours in any one week. He opposed the five day week.

"I told the President," said Mr. Avery, "that business today needs a rebirth of confidence, more than any other one thing. I think adoption by congress of the sales tax and the balancing of the budget would do more to bring about a restoration of confidence than anything else at this time.

"Personally, I am strongly in favor of the sales tax in particular as the one legislative action which would quickly afford relief to business and restore confidence. In addition, economy in government, as in industrial enterprises, is all a part of the inevitable economic adjustment necessary not only in the United States but throughout the world."

Following his visit to the White House Mr. Florsheim said he had been working for the forty hour week for some time. He opposed the five day week, however, stating that such a step would nullify the benefits of the forty hour week.

"What I want to do," he explained, "is to put more men to work. Industry and the government would continue the six day week, but no employé would be allowed to work more than forty hours. This would mean the employment of additional men. The New York subways alone under this program would have to hire another 30,000 men."

Mr. Florsheim advocated federal and state laws to make his plan effective.

Army of Federal Pay Rollers Totals 559,000.

"An invisible bureaucrat rides on the shoulder of every taxpayer in the country, extracting the cash from his pockets," Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, declared yesterday in a talk before members of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle. Mr. Carey asserted that the extravagances of bureaucrats are pushing the country toward the brink of insolvency.

PETER B. CAREY.

Excessive taxation and the startling rise of bureaucracy form a vicious circle which in a large measure is responsible for the present acute depression, he said, adding that the taxpayers and voters themselves are partly to blame for the situation.

"Noisy minorities and politicians who are nothing more than professional opportunists have helped to impose the huge burden now borne by the people," Mr. Carey continued. "Unless the nation can rise over these minorities the United States is in for a long period of evolution which may set it back 25 years. The whole case is People versus Bureaucracy. The present rising tide of public resentment points to a test between these forces.

"Look at this army of bureaucrats for which there is no excuse. Since 1800 the population of the country has increased 25 times, while the number of persons on the public pay roll has gone up 4,500 times. There are 559,000 federal jobholders who, if they were to start marching westward in single file from Washington, would constitute a line reaching 790 miles, into Chicago's loop."

He insisted that the government balance its budget through curtailing expenditures and doing away with bureaucrats, instead of through the imposition of higher taxes.

PETITIONS STARTED TO ASK CONGRESS FOR TAX RELIEF ACTION

The Defenders of America, a patriotic society which was chartered two months ago, yesterday mailed out to its members 10,000 petition blanks for signature by the public, urging congress to give the country relief from excessive taxation.

The petition quote from the platform of the organization, which says: "Compel local and national governments to balance their budgets. Work toward lower rather than higher taxes, by eliminating excessive and overlapping tax wasting bureaucracies and political subdivisions.

"As duly elected representatives of the people," the petition says, "you are charged, under your oath, with the responsibility of aiding in the enactment of such legislation as, in your best judgment, is calculated to benefit the people that trust you with the exercise of their suffrage.

"It is therefore incumbent upon you to initiate, develop, and support the enactment of such legislation as we, the direct and indirect taxpayers who are also your employers, have reason to expect will balance the national budget, with the tax burden distributed under a system of equality for all with no special consideration for any privileged class."

RESTORE SILVER AS BASIC MONEY, CHAMBER URGED

San Francisco, Cal., May 18.—(AP)—Recognition of silver as a "basic money metal" to aid in raising commodity price levels, was asked today by William Montague Ferry, vice president of the Silver King Coalition Mines company, Salt Lake City.

Speaking before a mining round table of the national chamber of commerce convention here, he expressed confidence the United States would adopt such a measure, making silver a monetary aid to gold.

"Such a measure," he said, "will mildly and in an orderly and controlled manner deflate the dollar value and thereby raise the commodity price level; it will strengthen and broaden the gold basis of credit by adding to the metallic base a certain amount of silver against which real and not credit currency may be issued.

"No fixation of silver price should be attempted. Experience has taught the futility of attempted price fixation. The law of supply and demand should be permitted to act without artificial restraint."

Joseph McMahon, 32 years old, 7915 Chappell avenue, was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Ruth Alexander, 39 years old, 7223 Paxton avenue, a school teacher. The victim died yesterday morning a result of injuries sustained in an accident the night before.

The crash occurred at 73d street and Euclid avenue when the car in which she was a passenger was struck by McMahon's machine and thrown against a street car. McMahon, according to witnesses, failed to stop after the collision. He was seized later by police who found his car parked outside a barbecue stand.

Girl Dies of Injuries.

Laverne Anthony, 5 years old, 3610 West 24th place, died yesterday from a skull fracture suffered Tuesday evening when she ran into the machine of Fred Regge, 4411 Gladys avenue, while playing tag in front of her home. Regge was not held.

While two year old Mary Carrick played in the front yard of her home at 8035 Phillips avenue yesterday an automobile backed into the driveway, struck and possibly fatally injured her and then sped away. To assure the safety of her baby, the mother, Mrs. John Carrick, had harnessed her with a rope, one end of which she attached to the house. This was to keep the child from wandering into the street in the path of traffic. However, the rope did not keep her from reaching the side driveway.

Car Contains Peddlers.

Witnesses told Sergt. Harold McCoy of the South Chicago police station that the automobile had contained two peddlers who had been selling vegetables in the neighborhood.

The two deaths with four others yesterday increased the Cook county automobile toll since Jan. 1 to 410. The other victims:

Burt E. Dorsett, 35 years old, 6245 Holbrook street. Killed when he was struck by a truck trailer at Lincoln and Crawford avenues. His automobile had run into the ditch a short distance away and he was walking to a garage when the accident occurred. John Leidy, 1848 Larrabee street, driver of the truck, was not held.

Edward Nelson, 69 years old, 1322 Washington street, Evanston. Died at St. Francis hospital from hurts sustained earlier in the day when he was run down at Asbury avenue and Monroe street in the suburb. Ralph M. Jones, 5147 Lincoln avenue, was the driver.

Mrs. Lena Clements, colored, 28 years old, 5519 South Michigan avenue. Died at the county hospital from hurts suffered May 13 when she was struck by the car of Claude Sterling, colored, 4331 Champlain avenue, at Michigan avenue and 48th street.

Doe White, colored, 32 years old, 9 West 44th street. Died at county hospital from injuries incurred when he was struck by the car of Lafayette Davis, colored, 5128 Prairie avenue, two days ago.

COUZENS EXEMPT UNDER PLAN FOR HIGH INCOME TAX

Fortune of 40 Millions in Levy Free Securities.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] today confirmed the report that he pays a virtually negligible income tax on his fortune, which is estimated at 40 millions of dollars, because the greater part is invested in tax exempt securities.

Senator Couzens was the author of the amendment to the pending billion dollar tax increase bill proposing to boost income taxes to the wartime level. Ever since he offered the amendment he has been under fire by persons having knowledge of the fact that the enormous increase in income taxes he proposed would not require him to make any considerable contribution to the expenses of the federal government.

Senators Refer to Exemption.

The fact that the Michigan senator was proposing a tax boost to the severity of which he himself would be immune even caused fellow senators to make veiled references during the debate on the tax bill to the fact that his fortune would be exempt. Since that time the senator has been the target of editorial attack to such an extent that he is meditating the staging of a counter attack from the senate floor.

The Couzens fortune resulted from the success of the Ford Motor company, in which he was a large stockholder until bought out by Henry Ford. That was before Mr. Couzens came to the senate. Part of the proceeds of the sale of the Ford stock Mr. Couzens invested in Detroit municipal and other tax exempt securities at that time. Later he increased the tax exempt investment until nearly all of his 40 million dollar fortune was beyond the reach of the tax collector.

Sold Stocks to Free Opinions.

Senator Couzens said today that his investment of the greater part of his fortune in tax exempt securities dates from his election to the senate. At that time, he explained, he sold all his bank, railroad, and other corporation stocks and invested the proceeds in municipal and other public bonds in order that he might pass upon legislation affecting corporations without being influenced by personal interest therein.

He denied that in pressing his wartime income tax rate amendment he had been influenced by the fact that he would not be affected thereby.

Under Fire Also in 1924.

This is not the first time that Senator Couzens has been under fire with regard to the exemption of his millions from taxation. In his famous epistolary duel with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon in 1924 the senator had stated that he had paid 8 millions in income taxes in the previous ten years. Shortly after publication of the Couzens letter to Mr. Mellon, Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], taking up the cudgels for his friend, the secretary, arose in the senate on Jan. 21, 1924, and challenged the Michigan senator to reveal how much tax he had paid in the last four of those ten years.

In replying, Mr. Couzens started out by declining to be interrogated on his personal affairs. Then he called the inquiry "impudent and irrelevant." But he was nettled by Reed's significant challenge, the inference from which was that Mr. Couzens had paid most of the 8 millions in the first six years and then had converted his investments into tax exempt securities whereby he had paid comparatively little, if any, tax in the latter four years.

Accuses Mellon of Bad Faith.

He judged that Senator Reed already had the information he was requesting for he said, "The secretary of the treasury has violated the law to the extent of going to the records of the treasury department to ascertain from confidential records my individual and personal business, something that no other public officer can get and would have no right whatever, if he did have it, to disclose to the public."

Finally Mr. Couzens said: "I have not paid any tax in 1924 but I have paid taxes within the last four years."

At that time Mr. Couzens said nothing about divesting himself of corporation bonds upon entering the senate a couple of years before. His reason for investing in tax exempt securities then given was an entirely different one. In his letter to Mr. Mellon the senator said he would not buy tax exempts "if I could get any Ford Motor company stock at the price I paid originally." He denied that all his property was in tax exempts, saying, "I have millions of dollars invested in buildings, real estate, and building operations." In some years, he said, his losses had exceeded his taxable income.

"I do not want in any way," he said, "to convey the impression that I am ashamed of the fact that I have been a large purchaser of state and municipal bonds. A considerable part of these were Detroit city bonds which I took at a time when there was difficulty in securing the money needed for schools, sewers, and other most essential public works."

to the board to maintain a price level would result "in a worse situation and lead to a breakdown." He urged "faith and patience" in the present crisis and advised the committee "to keep hands off the sick patient."

Other schemes for ending the depression engaged the attention of the senate during the debate on the Tydings amendment to the tax bill which provided a tax on beer as an unemployment relief measure.

Borah Demands Relief Law.

Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho] said it would be a betrayal of the public interest for congress to adjourn without passing relief legislation.

"Here are the two old parties having absolute control of the congress of the United States going to Chicago and asking for the confidence of the American people, asking the American people to intrust them with power for the next four years and going there without any program to take care of the situation that now confronts the country," said Mr. Borah. "If anything would call into existence a third party that would."

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, rose to his feet to promise that there would be no effort to adjourn congress until appropriate relief legislation had been approved. The tax bill, the economy plan, unemployment legislation, and all appropriation bills must all be passed, he said.

Tydings Plan for Money.

"May I inquire where the government is to get the money to do these things?" asked Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.].

Mr. Watson replied that the Tydings amendment supplied one means of getting the money.

"Why not let the states levy their own taxes and take care of their own unemployed?" countered Mr. Glass. "I would rather trust the people of Virginia to levy their taxes and take care of their own unemployment than to have them taxed and their money brought here to Washington and doled back to them for political purposes."

"I agree with the senator when he adds the last clause for 'political purposes,'" interposed Senator Borah, "but I know perfectly well that some of the states have reached the limit and some of the cities likewise, and it is simply a question of whether the national government will aid and coöperate with them to such an extent as to prevent actual suffering and starvation."

But it is on those very states now most distressed that the taxes will fall heaviest, Senator Glass objected. Senator Watson agreed that some six or seven states have reached their limit of statutory indebtedness.

The Way of the Dole.

"Yes," said Senator Glass, "and the federal government will levy taxes on their citizens and take their money away from them and bring it here to Washington and then appoint some federal minion to dole it back to them according to whim or judgment—mostly whim, and political whim at that.

"I am in favor of taking the money from the other 47 states and bringing it here to Washington, if anybody wants to do that, but I am opposed to taking the money of the Virginia taxpayers for that purpose."

CONVICTED BABY MILK RACKETEER FREED ON BOND

Jacob Karchmer, baby milk fund racketeer, was released yesterday from the county jail on a $10,000 supersedeas bond pending disposal of his appeal by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Karchmer was sentenced on March 12 to serve two years in Leavenworth and pay a fine of $1,000 on a charge of using the mails to defraud. He was charged with collecting money to be used in buying milk for poor babies and turning over only a small percentage of the funds for this purpose. Karchmer's bond was approved by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle, who sentenced him.

CARLSTROM SAYS U. S. BANK LOANS NEED COURT O. K.

But Auditor Finds Funds Can't Be Obtained.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom yesterday advised State Auditor Oscar Nelson that state banks which have gone into receivership might pledge the bank's assets for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation only upon permission granted by a court.

Such permission by a court, the attorney general said, would be sufficient answer to dissenting creditors.

State Auditor Nelson, however, revealed that there is no possibility of insolvent Illinois banks getting loans from the corporation.

"When the attorney general some time ago gave it as his opinion that receivers of closed banks in Illinois could borrow from the corporation, a test application for funds was made by the receiver of the Cheltenham Trust and Savings bank," he said. "The application was refused."

Mr. Nelson quoted a Utah court decision, which criticised in strong terms the proposal to lend money to receivers of closed banks.

"The court is in doubt," the decision read, "as to how an insolvent concern which has ceased to function and whose property and assets are wholly insufficient to pay liabilities may be aided or its creditors benefited by borrowing money and pledging its assets to secure its payment and there increase the indebtedness, unless it can be clearly shown that such money was necessary to protect property against loss or destruction."

MRS. HULDA ENGEL SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday at an inquest into the death of Mrs. Hulda Engel, 69 years old, 9837 South State street, who drank poison Tuesday night. Her son, Andrew, said she had been ill.

ROBS WOMAN OF $1,800 IN LOOP RUSH HOUR JAM

Hundreds of persons were passing at 5 p. m. yesterday on Randolph street, near Clark street, when Mrs. Lucille Mathels of Pittsburgh was robbed of jewelry valued at $1,800 and $40 in cash. The thief mingled with the crowd and was soon lost to her sight.

Mrs. Mathies and her husband, the representative of a candy concern, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning and went to the Hotel Sherman. She had just left the hotel and was going to a drug store for some headache tablets when a panhandler stopped her.

"He was shabby and dirty, tall and with a scar on his nose," she said. "He said he was hungry and asked for the price of a meal. I felt sorry for him and opened my purse to get a coin. He looked in it and saw my diamond bracelet, diamond ring and a roll of money. He seized the purse, put his hand in his pocket and said 'I'll shoot you if you holler.' I was afraid to scream. He was gone in a twinkling."

FIRE ROUTS 15 TENANTS.

Fifteen tenants were driven to the street yesterday by fire which caused $2,000 damage to a three story brick building at 9128 Commercial avenue.

ALLOT GARDENS TO EVANSTON'S JOBLESS TODAY

Cook county's campaign to provide vegetable gardens for the unemployed will be extended into Evanston today, it was announced last night by Warner G. Baird, chairman of the campaign sponsored by the joint emergency relief fund.

In coöperation with the Evanston Lions club garden committee, a plot of 100 acres of vacant land at Monroe street and Dodge avenue has been made available by the campaign. It will be apportioned to heads of needy families at 9 a. m. today, with Dr. David L. Hedburg, of the Lions club, in charge. Allotment will be according to the number of members per family. Seed will be provided from the relief fund. Those families now dependent upon charity will be given preference.

BEER OR BREAD—WHICH?

Members of C.A.C. Denounce "Secret Sixteen" Beer Resolution and Declare for Bread. "Committee of 100" Formed to Combat Wet Propaganda. Marquis Makes Statement

The outburst of indignation, following publication of the alleged official "beer resolution" of the Executive Committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the stinging rebuke which was administered to the Committee by A. N. Marquis, the well-known publisher, has not been assuaged by the lapse of time but has steadily increased in volume and has become the subject of nation-wide discussion. A few days ago a large group of members of the Association united in sending a delegation to call on President George W. Rossetter to express their collective disapproval of the resolution.

The delegation, consisting of Harry Eugene Kelly, member of the Chicago bar and a past president of the Union League Club, Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of the Chicago Tribune, Wm. A. Dyche, business manager of the Northwestern University, C. V. Gregory, editor of the Prairie Farmer, John Nuveen, banker, Frank F. Harris, of Carter's Ink Co., and Graham Taylor of the Chicago Commons, proceeded to the Association's headquarters and demanded that immediate steps be taken to secure retraction of the resolution, which seeks to bind the Association to the advocacy of legalized 2¾ per cent beer.

The board of directors has declined to demand recall of the resolution, and growing indignation has climaxed in the formation of a "Committee of 100" to resist the carrying of the committee's action into effect, and to expose and combat false and misleading wet propaganda in general.

Letter of Protest

The Marquis letter of protest came as a timely revelation of the ingenious and crafty methods which are constantly employed to deceive and mislead the credulous and unwary in regard to the much discussed wet and dry issue.

The letter tells its own story. Here it is:

"As a member of the Chicago Association of Commerce, I hereby protest against the self-assumed prerogative of the executive committee of said association to commit its members, singly or as a body, and myself in particular, to the sentiments and declarations expressed in the so-called official resolutions which appeared in the local newspapers Saturday, March 12, seeking to secure repeal of the Volstead act and to influence other legislation in behalf of alcoholism.

"Moreover, I challenge the legality of the committee's action and call on the president and other officers of the association, including the legally constituted board of directors, immediately to take all the proper and necessary steps to repudiate publicly the unwarranted, ill-conceived and harmful action of said executive committee and thereby undo as nearly as possible the injustice and imposition which have been inflicted, and restore the Chicago Association of Commerce to the high place it has hitherto occupied in the esteem and confidence of this community.

Rejects Plebiscite

"Furthermore, I contend that even a plebiscite of the membership of the association as a whole, committing an unwilling minority to such a program as has been foisted upon the membership by the executive committee in the present instance, could be, and doubtless would be, successfully resented by resort to the courts.

"This prohibition issue strikes higher and deeper than the cold economic considerations of the few. It touches vitally the well-being of the home and family and the very heart and soul of the nation.

"Again and finally I protest against the inexcusable outrage of a small group of men (less than one-half of 1 per cent of the total membership), meeting in secret, behind closed doors (as alleged by the press), 'adopting' resolutions with the purpose of stifling the will of some 6,000 men — many of them leaders in the business and professional life of this city and country—and rushing to the newspaper offices to find hasty publicity for their spurious and guilty product."

Secret Sixteen

The "Executive Committee" comprises thirty-nine members, eleven constituting a quorum. It has been stated that a quorum was present when the resolution was adopted.

At his offic in the Palmolive building Mr. Marquis yesterday gave out the following statement to a representative of the "Committee of 100":

"The exact number in the 'picked' group which made up the 'Executive Committee' is not known. It has not been given out, but has been variously estimated as from eleven to twenty. In the absence of exact figures, let's be generous and compromise on sixteen—the 'Secret Sixteen' if you will — behind closed doors, speaking for 6,500 members of a great business organization—and for beer! Audacity monumental!

"It should be stated, however, that it is now known that even the 'Secret Sixteen' were not a unit for beer. There were dissenters, men who stand for bread in preference to beer and who insist that alcohol is not a fit substitute for bread. It is known also that the secret meeting was dominated by one or two radical liquor advocates, and that the resolution was forced through under pressure.

Beer or Bread

"Beer or bread—which? Which indeed shall it be? The trend of present-day thought and discussion constantly suggests this question — forces it into the foreground.

"Word goes out daily, almost hourly, from sources high and low, that the Eighteenth Amendment must be repealed; that the Volstead Act must go; that alcohol must again take the place of bread in millions of American homes!

"The very latest pronunciamento is that these things must be done for the sake of 'temperance', 'prosperity', 'good times'. God save the mark! Beer for the needy, the helpless, the unemployed. Beer as a substitute for bread!

"The Macedonian cry from the cohorts of alcoholism, is for amendment of the Volstead Act. Not repeal, mind you, just amendment, to bring back jobs for the jobless and good times for everybody, as if by magic.

"The 'beer experts" have figured it out and have found that beer's the thing; that beer will turn the trick almost instantly; over night as it were; in three months at most, having due regard for conservatism.

"The figures are all for beer—unmistakably for beer. Not a single decimal for bread. Not one.

Beer Experts

"And these beer experts (the very latest of them), discovered somewhere by the 'Secret Sixteen' in their inscrutable wisdom, have found that 2¾ per cent beer is the thing—exactly the thing—to restore prosperity and provide food, clothing and shelter for those who have them not.

"Beer for the family. Beer. Not a loaf of bread. Not a pound of butter. Not a quart of milk. Not a slice of bacon. Just beer! !

"Only a few days ago our state legislature appropriated, from state funds, another $20,000,000 for care of the unemployed. If the plaint of beer advocates is tenable, at least half of this vast sum should have been set aside for beer. Prosperity then would have reigned supreme in every needy home —while the foaming beer held out to flow.

"Consistency, thou art a jewel!

"The campaign for beer which has been aggressively carried on for many months past is not entirely altruistic. It will be apparent to any one who takes the trouble to investigate that it is largely financed and fostered by brewing, distilling and other alcohol interests.

Wine Growers of Europe

"Only a short time ago the wine growers and other European vendors of alcoholic beverages, meeting in Paris, solemnly resolved to unite in a supreme effort to break down the prohibition laws of the United States and other countries—all for 'temperance' and the 'moral and economic betterment of the people'—especially the people of the good old U. S. A.

"A little nearer home. A year or so ago it was widely reported in the press that a brewing concern in Milwaukee had expended a million dollars for rehabilitating its plant in anticipation of the return of legalized beer. If a million dollars for brewery equipment, how much for beer propaganda? How much?

Give the Bread Experts a Chance

"Now that the beer experts have had their say, why not give the bread experts a chance? Why not compute in dollars and cents—in cold figures—the money value of the millions of bushels of wheat and corn and other farm products which will seek marketless homes when beer shall come again to rot the stomach and plague the nation? Ask the bread experts to tell how much less will be the number of plows, tractors, cultivators and threshing machines required by the farmer when beer shall again trickle down craving throats, and bread and meat and milk consumption be reduced to the minimum.

"How many millions of bushels of potatoes, how many tons of beans and peas and cabbages and other vegetables will lack planting and harvesting place, when again the pay envelope finds its way to the corner saloon, or to the government alcohol depot? How many families will be compelled to give up their coupes, sedans, limousines and radios when alcohol shall again run riot in the land? How many?

"The beer experts cannot answer. Call in the bread experts.

Jobs for the Jobless

"Yes, the beer experts have told us that jobs will come to the jobless with the return of beer to the dinner pail and, by implication at least, with the disappearance of bread from the dinner table; that the brewer will brew day and night when repeal of the Volstead Act shall have become a reality, and when old-time sots shall return to their accustomed haunts, and common drunkards to happy homes which have forgotten the curse of licensed liquor.

"The beer experts—some of them—have told these things in apparent sincerity; but they have said not a word about the want, the destitution, the misery, the aching hearts and the broken homes which follow always in the wake of flowing beer.

"The beer experts have told us that beer (alcohol) will bring back good times, forgetting to mention the accepted fact that this country never prospered—not since the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers—as during the first seven or eight years of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. Not a voice has been raised to charge that prohibition is responsible, even remotely, for the present, world-wide business depression; and none can be raised.

"And yet the cry is for beer, and more beer.

Wolves in Sheep's Clothing

"Good people, be not deceived. Wolves in sheep's clothing are abroad in the land. 'Secret Sixteens'—'Crusaders'—'Prohibition Reformers'—agents for brewers of beer and distillers of alcohol, who would stay the tide of prohibition which is moving steadily toward the coveted goal.

"Wives, husbands, mothers, fathers —all who love home and family, all who revere the flag and have respect for the government and its laws, get on your armour and get into the fight. Prohibition shall prevail."

THIS IS IMPORTANT: A "Committee of 100" has been formed to expose and combat false and misleading wet propaganda. Will you not help make this movement national in scope? It costs money these days to fight for prohibition, against the liquor-financed propagandists of the world. Your support is needed now. If you believe in prohibition, and in upholding the laws of our country, send your contribution (large or small), and your good wishes, to the COMMITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED, Frank D. Chase, Treasurer, Room 1004, 111 W. Monroe St., Chicago, Ill.

JAPAN'S LEADERS MAKE DEAL FOR BIPARTISAN RULE

Expect Coalition Cabinet to Be Named Tomorrow.

TOKIO, May 19 [Thursday].—(AP)—A compromise cabinet, with President Kisaburo Suzuki of the dominant Seiyukai party as premier, was freely predicted today as an end to the national crisis brought about by the assassination of Premier Inukai. This prediction was made after Suzuki had conferred with army leaders. It was believed they had reached some sort of agreement.

All political commentators in Tokio morning newspapers were unanimous in their assertion that the next cabinet would be drawn in the main from the Seiyukai party, but would include a few strong men from other factions.

It was indicated that Suzuki, who succeeded the slain Inukai, would probably receive the emperor's mandate to form a cabinet tomorrow. It was also predicted that Kenkichi Yoshizawa would retire as foreign minister, to be succeeded by Shigeru Yoshida, ambassador at Rome.

Araki May Get Old Post.

A mainspring in the compromise was reported in the press to be an agreement that Gen. Sadao Araki, resigned minister of war and a strong Nationalist, would get that post in the Suzuki cabinet. Previously he had announced a determination to retire.

These probable appointments indicated little change in the foreign and military policies pursued by the late Premier Inukai.

The authorities disclosed that preliminary examination of the group of terrorists who wielded bomb and revolver alike last Saturday had been completed, and that eleven army cadets and six naval suboficers have been placed in prisons awaiting an early court martial.

The stock exchanges at Tokio, Osaka, Nagoya, and Kobe reopened yesterday after a two day suspension. The tone was pessimistic at the opening and key stocks dropped 8 to 11 points. There was a slight recovery later after telegrams were received from abroad indicating that foreign nations did not believe Japan was facing a revolution.

68 Slain in Manchuria.

HARBIN, Manchuria, May 18.—(AP)—A fierce battle between Japanese and Chinese troops, in which both sides lost heavily, raged today along the north bank of the Sungari river, just north of here. The battle began last evening. Eighteen Japanese were killed in the opening clash at Sungpu.

A force of 600 Chinese attacked the nearby town of Machuangkou, but Japanese infantry, aided by airplanes, routed them. The Chinese lost 50 killed, the Rengo News agency reported.

Russia Calls Reserves.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, May 18.—The soviet commissar for war has called to the colors for maneuvers the reserves, made up of the young men born in 1909, 1910, 1911, and all those who were born in 1912 but have been exempt from army service on account of the urgent need for labor in industry, the Berlin Socialist newspaper Vorwaerts learned today from Moscow.

Since the normal Russian practice is to call in only one year's reserves for maneuvers, the Vorwaerts interprets the present action as designed to be a demonstration of Russia's armed force in view of the events in the far east.

Brother and Sister Meet First Time

WILLIAM AND GABRIELLA YARMER.

Makes Sea Trip Alone

Gabriella Yarmer, 6 years old, who left Budapest, Hungary, on May 3 to travel alone across the ocean to her new home in America, arrived in Chicago on the Erie railroad yesterday. She was met at the Dearborn station by her parents, William Yarmer, a pastry chef, and his wife, of 1945 Sheffield avenue.

In the welcoming party also was her brother, William, 3 years old, whom Gabriella had never seen. Gabriella was left with relatives in Hungary when her parents came to America five years ago.

The journey was arranged by Albert B. Revesz, president of the Ocean Travel bureau, 3223 North Ashland avenue. The child sailed from Bremen May 6 on the Leviathan.

MESSENGER ROBBED OF CASH.

While waiting at Chicago and Washtenaw avenues for a street car to take him to a loop bank, Clarence Neff, 3737 Milwaukee avenue, a messenger for the John F. Jelke Margarine company, was robbed by two men yesterday of $665 in cash and checks for $2,700.

TENSION AT TOKIO LIKELY TO KEEP FLEET IN PACIFIC

Pork Barrelers of East Demand Return.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Domestic politics as well as the critical political situation existing at Tokio since the assassination of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai will have an important bearing on the final decision reached by this government in regard to the disposition of the fleet during the next year. This became known today when army and navy officials conferred on the advisability of maintaining the entire United States fleet intact on the Pacific coast pending a return of more normal conditions in the Asiatic.

While the operating plan calls for the transfer of the scouting forces of 10,000 ton, 8 inch gun cruisers from the Pacific to the Atlantic ocean the last of this month there were strong indications today that this order will be modified and the force kept in the Pacific until conditions in the orient quiet down.

Calming Influence on Tokio.

In administration quarters the view was expressed today that maintenance of the entire United States fleet composed of the battle and scouting forces on the west coast would have a stabilising effect in the far east and especially at Tokio. Many state and navy department officials take the position that this country should keep its fleet intact and ready for any possible eventuality while conditions are strained in the far Pacific.

A decision to operate the battle and scouting forces as a single unit during the next fiscal year may result in the formulation of a new American naval policy basing the entire United States fleet in the Pacific permanently. Some of the highest naval officials now believe it would be advisable, in view of the rundown condition of the navy, to maintain but one fleet in the future.

Under the present plan the battle force, composed principally of battleships, is maintained on the Pacific, while the scouting force is based on the Atlantic. The 8 inch gun cruisers represent the backbone of the scouting force.

Pork Barrelers Active.

It is probable that the scouting force would be directed to remain in the Pacific without further delay if a way could be found to satisfy the congressmen and political leaders from the pork barrel and other eastern navy yards. Immediately word went out some weeks ago that administration officials were considering retaining the scouting fleet on the west coast pending more tranquil conditions in the far east, the politicians began to exert pressure to have the warships return to the Atlantic coast. Representatives of the Poston and Charleston, S. C., pork barrel yards urged that the fleet be returned to furnish work for navy yard employés. A congressman from Virginia urged that the fleet be returned so that Norfolk merchants would have the benefit of the trade of naval officers and enlisted men.

AVIATION NOTES

Capt. J. Cole Burfey, British ace credited with bringing down 20 planes during the war, related his experience as a decoy to trap the German ace Immelman at the Midland club forum yesterday noon. Capt. Burfey's squadron had been depleted by the great Immelman. The survivors drew cards, and he got the deuce of spades. His job was to fly a slow, helpless plane over the lines while four planes hid in the clouds. Immelman swooped down on the bait, but missed with his first burst. He didn't get a second chance, for Capt. Burfey's hidden aids roared down and shot Immelman down in flames.

Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and his wife, Mrs. Thalia Massie, yesterday boarded a United Air Lines plane on the west coast that arrives in Chicago at 9:15 a. m. today.

E. M. [Matty] Laird, Chicago racing plane designer, plans to pilot his racer, powered by an inverted Ranger motor, in races at Omaha the end of next week. John Livingston of Aurora, one of the country's most skillful racing pilots, is also entered in the Omaha races May 27 to 30.

Rumors that the national air races will not be held at Cleveland this fall are unfounded. The races will be held from Aug. 27 to Sept. 5, inclusive.

'CANCER HEALER' LOSES FIGHT TO QUASH CHARGES

A motion to quash the indictments against "Old Doc" Lester Tilton, self-styled cancer healer, and two associates, was overruled yesterday by Judge Rudolph F. Desort, and selection of a jury was started. Tilton, Harry de Joannis, a promoter, and Dr. Joseph Duffy are charged with conspiracy to violate the public health laws.

Tilton, a farm hand and railroad fireman in his youth, claimed to have discovered a medicine which cured cancer. The principal ingredient of the medicine, he admitted, was an extract of peat, taken from the bogs of his farm near Savannah, Ill. Prosecutor Charles Bellows said that the state would call 50 to 100 witnesses, many of them patients of Tilton.

MRS. HEFFERAN FAVORS 22% CUT IN SCHOOL COSTS

Tells How She Would Trim $20,000,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, school trustee, in an interview yesterday said she believes school expenditures should be cut "probably $20,000,000," or approximately 22 per cent. She voted for the $90,180,383 budget passed by the board on March 3, after the trustees had been told by the D. F. Kelly committee that it would be impossible to finance this budget.

Ernest Buehler, newly appointed trustee, who was present when Mrs. Hefferan expressed her view yesterday, went farther. He said: "I think there should be a cut of at least $20,000,000."

To reduce expenditures $20,000,000 Mrs. Hefferan would make the $15,603,000 cut recommended by Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university. Then she would pare down the departments perhaps $1,000,000 or possibly $1,500,000. The remainder she would save by closing the schools.

Buehler Opposes Closing.

At the rate of saving reckoned by Dr. Strayer, Mrs. Hefferan's plan would close the schools for about a month. Trustee Buehler said he is opposed to closing the schools.

The $20,000,000 cut suggested by Mrs. Hefferan is about $10,000,000 short of the reduction recommended by the D. F. Kelly committee. No one has asked the bankers whether they will try to sell tax warrants if the cut is $20,000,000 instead of $30,000,000.

The school board has not yet ordered any reduction in expenditures. Not even a quorum was present yesterday for any one of the four regularly scheduled committee meetings. These sessions were recessed to next Wednesday afternoon, when the next board meeting is to be held.

Dr. Strayer has recommended that $1,050,000 be eliminated from the budget on maintenance of school buildings. This cut, he said, would reduce the appropriations for this year to the expense of last year. Despite the fact that the board is shy of assets, Dr. Strayer said in his report:

"The cost of maintenance of plant was substantially increased in the 1932 budget. The appropriation [for 1932] was 37.2 per cent larger than expenditures in 1931, while current expenses as a whole were reduced 6.4 per cent."

Higher Than Other Cities.

"The costs of plant maintenance require a larger percentage of the appropriations for current expense than is required in other cities. Expenditures for maintenance of plant in Chicago are also higher than in other cities."

It is the opinion of the board's own law department that the board has full legal power to reduce its expenditures. The matter of saving this suggested $1,050,000 has not been discussed publicly by the trustees.

ALDERMEN BEGIN WORK TODAY ON BUDGET FOR 1932

The city council finance committee will start this afternoon to write the 1932 appropriation bill. As the budgets of the corporate, vehicle tax, bond and water funds must be passed by June 15, the aldermen expect to hold night sessions.

The revenues of the corporate fund available for expenditure this year have been fixed by the committee's staff at $54,090,353. If the budget is passed at that figure it will be $8,961,726 less than last year's appropriations.

The committee will have before it the various recommendations of J. L. Jacobs & Co., and the continuation ordinance which docks employés 78 days' pay. The committee's principal task will be to coördinate all the economy measures into a program under which the city can stay within its estimate of revenues.

FOUR YOUTHS ARE FOUND GUILTY ON GIRL'S CHARGES

Four youths were found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of two junior high school girls by Judge Donald S. McKinlay yesterday. Arthur Ballard, 19 years old, 13868 Leyden avenue, who seduced the girls, was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction. The others, who were placed on probation, are Alfred Ballard, 23 years old, brother of Arthur; George Miller, 18, of 245 East 134th street, and Arthur Mangeau, 20, of 224 East 136th place. The girls were turned over to the juvenile authorities.

County Facing Bond Default of $1,300,000 on June 1

The Cook county government is headed for another default on bonds on June 1. On that date $1,301,000 in bonds and $513,030 in interest falls due. According to present prospects, it was said yesterday, there will probably not be more than $300,000 in the treasury with which to pay these obligations. If there is $900,000 available it will mean a collection of 49 per cent of the 1930 taxes by June 1, which now seems improbable.

The county has already defaulted this month in the payment of $30,000 in bonds and $4,800 in interest, although sufficient cash has been gathered to pay the employés half a month's compensation.

One Default in April.

In April the county defaulted on $350,000 in bonds and $87,750 in interest, although during that and the preceding month the county treasurer supplied cash for county pay rolls.

The county started defaulting last June, when it was unable to pay $1,800,000 in bonds and interest. A little later it paid part of these obligations and refunded the remainder. In the meantime the federal government had decided that Cook county bonds were not acceptable as investment for postal savings.

Later county officials attempted to get the government to lift the ban against Cook county bonds, but were unsuccessful. Under the federal ruling a government, whose bonds are placed upon the black list, remains there for 10 years.

Draw Only 4 Per Cent.

The bonds on which the county defaulted in April bear 4½ per cent interest, but those due in May and June draw only 4 per cent.

The county has been trying in vain to get the banks to invest in its 1932 tax anticipation warrants. The reason why the banks have refused to make the loans has not been authoritatively given out, but it is reported that the bankers lack faith in the economy pledges of the county.

In July the county is obligated to pay $106,620 in bonds and interest. In August another $183,750 will be due, in October $50,000, in November $4,200 and in December $564,519. No plan has yet been worked out for paying any of these bonds.

Forest Preserve Pay Day.

Employés of the forest preserve district yesterday received their March salaries, which totaled $39,000. The money represented collections of the district's share of the 1930 taxes.

Today the county commissioners, who also are commissioners for the forest preserve district, will meet to prepare the 1932 budget.

BANK EMPLOYE AIDS PASCHEN'S DEFENSE PLEA

The first three of more than 100 defense witnesses who will be called in the Paschen income tax case, testified yesterday before Federal Judge Barnes. The government closed its case Tuesday charging a net income for Chris Paschen of more than $1,300,000 in 1927 and 1928, the years in which the former city building commissioner is accused of evading $114,000 federal tax.

The session adjourned at 1 p. m. to allow Defense Attorney Cassfun Poust to attend the funeral of a relative. The last witness called, Gilbert Meyer, former employé of the Foreman National bank, occupied most of the session. He testified that $298,000 was taken from the "A. B. Anderson" account (one of Paschen's) during 1927 and 1928, and placed in the account of the Chris Paschen company.

The defense contends this amount represents merely a transfer and was not "income." Meyer testified errors totaling $190,000 were made in the Paschen account, but the government brought out that these mistakes did not affect the balance.

WED TEN TIMES, JAILED FOR NOT PAYING ALIMONY

Paul Ellis, 65 years old, who may well claim the title of the most married man in Chicago, was sentenced to six months in the county jail yesterday by Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude for failure to pay alimony. Ellis, a contractor, lives at 1252 Maplewood avenue. The complainant against him was his ninth wife, Rose, 3518 Grenshaw street, who divorced him in 1930.

She charged that Ellis is now estranged from his tenth wife, Mrs. Anna Ellis, and is courting a prospective eleventh. She also asserted that some of his sixteen children by the various marriages and several of his various ex-wives are being supported at present by seven different charitable organizations. She had gone herself before seven judges, she said, in attempts to collect back alimony which totaled $166 yesterday.

Four daughters of Ellis and sisters and half-sisters to each other appeared in court and pleaded in vain for a chance to arrange payment of his alimony to save him from jail.

A NUDE LEANING ON TREE UPSETS CLUB CONVENTION

Women Protest Painting Is Too Modernistic.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The otherwise smooth course of the annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs in the Sherman hotel was disturbed yesterday by discussion of a modernistic nude painting. The painting was part of an exhibit held annually in connection with the convention. It hung in the room in which the section on law enforcement conferred on the evils of liquor, the alleged benefits of prohibition, and the welfare of the Indian.

As the afternoon progressed the women trying to listen to speeches on law enforcement more than once were compelled to shush clubwomen from other sections, such as the American home, international relations, or literature, who stared at the nude and whispered vivaciously.

When the law enforcement meeting adjourned the art chairmen gathered for a lecture on the exhibit, which is the work of the South Side Art association of Chicago, the only federated art club in the state.

First Nude Exhibited.

"And now we come to this nude, which is in the modernistic manner," said Florence White Williams, an artist and member of the club, who acted as lecturer. "It is not, I feel, representative of the art association. "It is the first nude that our club has ever exhibited. I don't know how the jury chose it."

After she had discussed the other paintings one of her audience, Mrs. Marie Kalom, 2904 North Damen avenue, member of the Hamlin Park Woman's club, said, "Please tell us more about this nude."

The lecturer appeared flustered.

"Well, it is by a young south side woman, Edith Jane Casady, who is just out of school," she said. "It is done in the manner which emphasizes planes and forces lines. As painting, considering the technique, it is good. But it is not what our club stands for."

As she finished, a little, gray-haired woman dressed in black rushed up and addressed a district art chairman.

Protests as a D. A. R.

"It's damnable! It's damnable!" she said, pointing a shaking hand at the painting, which portrays a nude woman leaning back against the trunk of a tree. "I'm a member of the D. A. R. and I cannot tolerate such things!"

"So am I a member of the D. A. R.," said the chairman.

"Then what sort of blood flows in your veins that you can stand there and look at such a thing?" the other inquired, and sailed from the room.

While some of the delegates said it was the subject matter, not the technique, which outraged them, Miss Harriet Montgomery, a delegate from the art club, took the opposite view.

"I don't mind nudes," she said. "But this nude isn't art. No one ever saw a nude woman who looked like that. She's anatomically impossible. There's nothing more beautiful than a nude woman when it's beautifully done. But this is repulsive."

Favors Taking It Down.

Mrs. Lucile Stevenson Dalrymple, one of two chairmen on exhibitions of the South Side Art association, said she was in favor of taking the painting down.

Oskar Gross, 19 East Pearson street, artist and member of the jury which selected the pictures for the exhibit, was told of the discussion.

His comment was: "Those ladies will have to get used to looking at a painting as a piece of art, not as a nude."

Club Women Urged to Aid Porto Rico's Hungry Children

The plight of 200,000 children near starvation in Porto Rico was outlined to members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday in their 37th annual meeting at the Hotel Sherman by Clyde F. Armitage, regional director of the Porto Rico child feeding committee, which has just launched a drive in the middle west for an emergency fund.

"The women and children of Porto Rico are suffering more than the inhabitants of any other part of the United States," Mr. Armitage declared. "The Porto Ricans are our fellow citizens and they deserve our assistance. A contribution of $10 will give a child a nourishing meal each school day for an entire year.

Three Years of Famine.

"Forty-two thousand of the totally dependent children are now receiving a meal a day. We cannot let them starve. But there are 200,000 children seriously underfed. Black coffee is all these children have to start the day with. Unless they are aided, they face stark tragedy."

Porto Rico's troubles started three years ago, Mr. Armitage said, when a great hurricane struck the small island. Many of the great coffee plantations were damaged so that they will be unproductive for years. The 1,600,000 inhabitants crowded on an island which is only 100 miles long and 35 miles wide, began to feel the pinch of hard times.

Hoover Indorses Drive.

Most of the inhabitants, he said, who are 75 per cent white, 15 per cent mixed and 10 per cent Negroes, depend upon agriculture for their living. But prices have gone so low that the sugar, tobacco, fruit, and coffee plantations cannot operate at a profit.

The drive for funds has been indorsed by President Hoover and leaders throughout the country. Among those on the Chicago committee are Jane Addams, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, John H. Wigmore, Frank J. Loesch, Cardinal Mundelein, and the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart.

Pledge Loyalty to Hoover.

All funds collected will be handled by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, Mr. Armitage said.

Americans are living in an age of remote control, President Harry Woodburn Chase of the University of Illinois, declared last night before the federation's banquet. The average man today is no longer close to the sources of opinion, as he was when the nation was small and men gathered in town councils, taking an interest in their local and national governments, President Chase said.

Resolutions adopted by the federation yesterday pledged "loyalty to the President of the United States and his associates while in office," and urged that the "bittersweet" be added to the list of protected wild flowers in Illinois.

Mrs. William F. Farrell of Chicago was nominated without opposition for president of the Illinois federation to succeed Mrs. Mary A. Wall of Murphysboro. Mrs. O. A. James of Salem was nominated for vice president of the southern state district. She also was unopposed. The election of officers will be held today.

EX-JUDGE LANDIS LOSES FIGHT TO ACQUIT WOMAN

Defendant Is Found Guilty on Store's Charges.

Former Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, yesterday lost the first court case he had undertaken after a 30 years' absence from trial courts as a lawyer. Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green found the commissioner's client and friend, Mrs. Julia Lucitt, guilty of obtaining property under false pretenses, and placed her on six months' probation.

K. M. LANDIS.

Commissioner Landis pleaded for the freedom of the woman on the grounds that the state had not proved its case beyond a reasonable doubt, and that the identifications of sales girls and checkers in the loop department store which made the charges against her could not be positive. Mrs. Lucitt was accused of charging $188 worth of children's clothing to the account of Mrs. Frank Stern of the Chicago Beach hotel.

Pleads for Client.

"The store thinks it has found a culprit," said Commissioner Landis, "although the woman purchased goods in thirteen different places and her identification was never once questioned. Why, she would have had to take all that stuff home in a wheelbarrow."

In his argument Assistant State's Attorney Russell Root questioned the value of the testimony of character witnesses for Mrs. Lucitt.

"George Washington would have testified to the good character of Benedict Arnold before his treason was discovered," said Mr. Root.

"I object," shouted Commissioner Landis, jumping to his feet. "How do you know what George Washington would do?"

Helps Support Family.

Commissioner Landis pointed out that Mrs. Lucitt worked as a switchboard operator at the Chicago Beach hotel for only $80 a month and helped support a husband, two children, and a brother on this salary. "She has to do all the ironing, cooking, and washing besides," he added.

The testimony of saleswomen and floorwalkers that Mrs. Lucitt was the impersonator was too conclusive, Judge Green said, in announcing his decision. After a conference with Mrs. Lucitt, Commissioner Landis said that he would not take the case to a higher court, and the probation was granted.

LODGE TREASURER ARRESTED.

Leopold Arnstein, 3228 Thomas street, deputy state factory inspector, was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzling $965 from Columbia lodge of the Knights of Pythias, of which he was treasurer. The warrant was claimed by Herbert O. Kos, 1413 North Artesian avenue, secretary of the lodge.

CAPTIVE SEIZED IN CHASE NAMED AS BANK BANDIT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Anthony Pahr, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; George Relling and Herman Owen, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; John Ducie, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Edward Kolson and Montgomery Smith, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary; George Gren, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Rudolph Desert.

Michael Sperna, alias Martarano, arrested yesterday in Oak Park and held as a suspect in the $50,000 robbery of the Union National bank at Streator on Monday, was identified last night as one of the bandits who on Jan. 4 tried to rob the State Bank of Minonk, Ill. A car in which he was riding yesterday bore the license plates that were on the car used in the attempted robbery at Minonk. Frank C. Flier, an official of the Minonk bank, went to Oak Park and identified Sperna as the driver of the bandit car who escaped. Sperna will be taken to Minonk to face charges.

Margaret Louis, an employe of the Minonk bank, frustrated the bandits by pressing a button that released a tear gas bomb. Mike Floro, John Ceri, and James Carlson were captured and are awaiting trial.

Sperna, who is 29 years old, lives at 3543 Congress street. He was with James Panico, 29 years old, 2359 South Keating avenue, and August Gatto, 26, of 1416 South 48th court, Cicero, in an automobile that attracted the attention of a squad commanded by Lieut. Harry Wilson of the Oak Park force. The police gave chase and the men were captured when their car crashed into a wall at 2100 61st court after several shots had been fired by the police.

DO YOU INHALE?

ONE of the mysteries in cigarette advertising has been the apparent fear of the word "inhale." It seems rather foolish—for everybody inhales—whether they realize it or not . . . every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question...because when you smoke Luckies your delicate membranes get the protection no other cigarette affords. All other methods have been made old-fashioned by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So truly this message is for you.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE SOURCE OF GOVERNMENT WAGES.

A strike in the building trades in New York has been ended by an agreement on a wage reduction of from 25 to 30 per cent. Wage reductions are always to be regretted if they mean a reduction in the standard of living. Fortunately that is not the situation today. The new wage rates are merely following the curve of living costs downward. No doubt, too, this reduction in New York, like the one recently agreed upon in Chicago, merely recognizes and regularizes the informal arrangements made by contractors with their men. No employment was obtainable as long as the old scale was in effect and possibly some employment will be opened up as a result of lowered building costs.

When costs in any industry have been lowered to the point where a profit can be made, some business expansion may be looked for. Business is slow today because it is profitless. That relationship has been generally understood by wage and salary earners in this country with the result that reductions have been accepted for the most part with good grace as an unfortunate necessity in a time of general business stagnation.

The only striking exception to this generalization today is to be found in the federal service. The men and women on the public pay rolls have exerted all the energy at their command not only to keep every name on the pay roll but also to keep the total bill for salaries and wages unaltered. They plead, and with much truth, that in times of roaring prosperity the federal employés were relatively poorly paid; and now, they say, it is unfair to ask them to take a cut.

What they fail to realize is that this argument is completely beside the point. Whether it is fair or unfair, the fact is that the taxpayers cannot maintain their national government if it is to cost as much as it did in 1929, 1930 or 1931. The deficit proves it. That deficit exists primarily because business is bad; because business is bad individual and corporate incomes are disappearing, and so, too, are the revenues which the government derives from other sources. Congress today is making estimates of income tax revenues next year which in all probability are grossly inaccurate because they were based on assumptions of improving business conditions which have not materialized.

The government can be no richer than the people. The federal employés who have bullied congress into refusing to face the pay roll problem have overlooked the fact that if the pay roll is undisturbed it is more than a little likely that federal employés will find themselves with jobs but no money. That is precisely what has happened to civil servants in Chicago and in many other cities. The federal government will find, as the Chicago governments discovered some time ago, that taxes must come down if the economic life of the community which supports the governments is not to be destroyed.

Federal employés have a choice to make between a reasonable reduction of government costs today and payless pay days a year or two hence. Perhaps there is another possibility: payment a few years hence in greatly depreciated dollars which will be the equivalent of a much greater salary reduction than any now contemplated.

High taxation is responsible for the prolonged depression. A reduction of the federal pay roll by relieving the strain on the taxpayers can contribute to the recovery. If the employés will not accept this fact they will have only themselves to blame for the consequences.

THE LINCOLN PARK FISH.

The Lincoln park board has been maintaining a fish hatchery for nine years, which the taxpayers of the park district have supported. Fingerlings from the hatchery have been used to stock Lake Michigan and some of the streams in the Chicago region. Lakes and streams in other sections of the state are stocked from hatcheries built and maintained by state taxation.

A double injustice has been done to the Lincoln park taxpayers. They are called upon to stock the waters of a whole region, though the cost is borne by only a small part of the taxpayers of the region; and further than that, the Lincoln park taxpayer is the only one in the state who is taxed twice for fish hatcheries—once by the state and once by his park district.

Probably there is need for a state hatchery in this region. Certainly if there is justification for the state's going into this work anywhere there is more justification for stocking Lake Michigan than any of the other lakes and streams of the state, possibly excepting the Mississippi river. This is true whether the aim is to encourage commercial fishing or sport. Lake Michigan is an important source of food for Illinois and might support a much larger fishing industry than it now has; and every day, from early spring until late autumn, hundreds, if not thousands, of amateurs are to be found fishing at many points along the Illinois shore line. A few fish for them to catch would add considerably to the sport, which is otherwise satisfactory to the participants.

Clearly it is not fair to the Lincoln park taxpayers to ask them to pay the bill, but the state might take over the work. If the conservation department won't do so, the Lincoln park hatchery should be closed.

EVENTS IN JAPAN.

The patriotic motives of the military assassins of the Japanese premier would have been more apparent if the young men had killed themselves instead of Inukai. There is a Japanese sacrament of self-immolation in protest or for honor, and a number of impressive suicides, sacrificing young militarists, would have left no doubt that the political conditions in Japan were unsatisfactory to the persons thus offering up their lives. It is true that the assassins surrendered to the police and may be assumed to be subject to the law of their own free will, but their act appears to have the approbation of the military caste, which, in turn, appears to have control of the government. Therefore the puzzled occidental mind perceives more of the terrorist than of the self-sacrificial patriot. The terrorist is of a familiar pattern.

Occidental conceptions of the throne in Japan give it great authority, although the westerner probably cannot distinguish what is tangible and what is intangible in it. It has an attribution of divinity which western monarchy lost ages ago and a tremendous influence upon the private life of the nation. If this influence extended to the government of which the emperor is nominally the head such an act as the assassination of Inukai would be unthinkable.

A westerner could not fit Mussolini into any picture he has of Japanese life. The Italian dictator casts a shadow over the royal house which could not have its like in Japan, and yet the military plot against the civilian government has at least the superficial aspects of the Fascist uprising against the political and parliamentary system of Italy. Causes seem to be the same in each country—the assumed maladjustment of the democratic scheme to conditions which a dominant class wishes to create and maintain.

It is said that the party system in Japan has developed the political selfishness of leaders and become an offense to patriotism. A country which cannot survive the ordeal of the search for political preferment has no business experimenting long with democracy. It must be able to take the consequences of such aberrations or it is unfitted to try for the advantages of popular government. These advantages are not guaranteed in human nature. They are often obtained in spite of it.

RELIGIOUS WAR IN INDIA.

One troubled spot where there will be no censorship is where the Hindus and Moslems of India slay each other, loot each other's shops, desecrate or destroy each other's places of worship and riot against each other in religious passion. The news goes out as proof that without the intervention of the British state the peace of India cannot be preserved against the violence of racial tempers and the undying prejudices with which the mixed peoples view each other. Bombay now is red with fire and blood. The nationalists cannot well deny all the intimations of it.

The recently adopted British strong policy is helped out by the disorders which require British troops for repression. Gandhi and his followers have done something to placate these implacables—may have done much—but old India apparently still survives new ideas. Anyway the correspondents are welcome to the news of the outbreaks. It supports a policy.

YOUTH AND AGITATORS.

The few students who were arrested when they paraded in demonstration and remonstrance against Samuel Insull because of what they had been told of conditions in Kentucky coal fields were not proper police court cases. They should not have been taken before a judge. Their offense was one of youthful and imitative egotism. They were affected by the publicity stunts of elder agitators in seeking reputation at the Kentucky cannon's mouth.

Counselors could tell them that only youth could save them from being ridiculous, and that even youth might not save them from giving some species of respectability to incitements to disorder and violence whose victims are nearly always unnecessary sacrifices to futile excitement. The ardor of youth is used by contriving persons whose object is disorder.

Editorial of the Day

WORKING ONE'S WAY THROUGH COLLEGE.
[Detroit News.]

The Harvard Crimson urges that applicants who would have to earn all their expenses in college be denied admission to Harvard. "The myth," says the Crimson, "that any able bodied man can support himself and at the same time realize the full advantages of a college education must be destroyed."

While the temptation is always to answer one generality about education with another, it seems more to the point here to suggest that there have been innumerable distinguished exceptions to the Crimson's dictum—exceptions like Herbert Hoover, who depended only on himself for funds in college, and like Emory Buckner, the busiest attorney in New York, who not only supported himself during an undergraduate career at Harvard, but maintained a family. If financial success is at all a measure of the value of college training, then Harvard has done well by a more recent graduate who worked his way through college by operating a sight seeing bus and within 10 years had become a millionaire several times over.

It might be objected that Harvard has done little for a man like this last that he could not have done for himself; and therein, perhaps, lies a truer basis for saying who shall go to college than considerations of self-support. Many a genius wastes precious years in school. A Shelley, desperately unhappy in the classroom, acquires an education by some mystical power of absorption known only to the poet. A Lindbergh learns more with his head under the hood of a motor than he can possibly acquire among the abstractions of the lecture room. Similarly, a money maker will not be denied, whatever he owns or lacks in the way of formal education.

If a single basis for admissions were to be selected it might better be the suitability of college to the applicant than the condition of his purse. A determined youth, obliged to finance his own schooling, seems to derive more from the experience than another with ample funds who, through no lack of intelligence but only for temperamental reasons, should never have been sent to college.

The last, of course, is another of the generalities in education that admit exceptions. For example, it is very nearly a physical impossibility to earn one's living while tackling a full course at such schools as Massachusetts Tech. But a literary education, or one in law or even in medicine, seems somewhat less arduous; at least, to acquire it, while working, has been well within the abilities of many who shed more glory on alma mater than classmates with nothing on their minds but study.

TOO DRY.

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "My sister does not sweat in summer and she suffers greatly. What can be done for it?"

There are several possibilities, three of which we will discuss. Let us begin with a very important one, important because of its prevalence as well as for other reasons.

When grown people tell us they do not sweat, our thoughts run at once to myxedema, or a deficiency of thyroid secretion. The thyroid is the large ductless gland located in the front and lower part of the neck. When it is enlarged our German friends call the disorder "big neck" or "thick neck." In most forms of goiter this gland is visibly enlarged. However, there is no necessary relationship between enlargement of the gland and goiter. In some cases the gland is enlarged and there is no increase in secretion, or there may even be a decrease. On the other hand there may be no change in the size of the gland while there is too much gland secretion.

The condition which we are now interested in is too little thyroid secretion, regardless of the size of the thyroid gland. If this condition of too little secretion is present in a child of the growing age we say the child is a cretin. If it develops in adult life we say the person has myxedema. A metabolism test is the method of diagnosing this condition. In this disorder the skin is very dry. There is almost no sweating. The coarseness of the skin is a part of a story of coarse hair.

The remedy for myxedema is daily dosage of thyroid gland, or some preparation thereof. When a case of myxedema takes thyroid the metabolism rate goes up; the coarse, lusterless hair falls out and is replaced by hair of better quality; much of the coarse dry skin can be scoured off in a Turkish bath, leaving softer, more babylike skin and fewer calluses and corns, and the blessing of being able to sweat is restored.

It is possible that mild cases of myxedema need to do nothing more than to move to the seashore and live on a diet of oysters, fish, and seaweed.

Another possibility is ichthyosis, or fish skin. Not many people have well developed cases of ichthyosis, but a very great number are that way in spots. The mild form of the disorder is dry skin. Many persons belong to dry skin families. They inherit the peculiarity. The majority of them do not indulge it further than to develop dry scalp, dry skin on the forehead, or perhaps on the hands, or patches around the ankles or on the shins. People of this type are apt to suffer from winter itch, and they get the itchy, dry skins of senility years in advance of the conventional program for life. It is this group of people who get the most benefit from the use of creams, and theirs are the names found signed to honest indorsements of patent skin salves and ointments.

Just a word about another type of person who suffers greatly in summer. I refer to the people of the polycythemia type. They are red, or purple faced. They look like a blood sausage at times. In some cases they seem on the verge of bursting and running blood. They meet one of your specifications—they suffer in summertime. But they miss out on the other. They sweat, as a rule. They usually sweat excessively.

IT PROBABLY IS GRAVEL.

G. W. G. W. writes: What causes tiny red spots in the urine? They feel gritty to the touch.

REPLY:

I judge these particles are masses of uric acid. The condition is known as gravel. To prevent it one should eat freely of potatoes and bananas. Other vegetables and fruits are valuable remedies, but these are the old standbys.

The foods that are to be avoided or eaten in moderation are beef tea, meat extracts, meat soups, roe, kidney, sweetbreads, pepper, condiments, tea, and coffee.

DIABETES.

M. B. writes: What causes diabetes?

REPLY.

There are many causes. Among them are: Obesity, overeating, shock, worry, and family and racial inheritance.

HAVE EYES EXAMINED.

M. Y. writes: To my eyes the street and auto lights at night seem to have a red spot in the center, which disappears as I get nearer to them.

REPLY.

I advise you to have your eyes examined.

BUILDING BEING WRECKED.

Chicago, May 14.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a one story building at Keeler and Milwaukee avenues of frame and brick. This building is being undermined by boys of the neighborhood, boards being torn from the walls and supports taken out. There is great danger of the roof falling in and killing some of these children. We cannot understand why this condition has not been reported by the police who travel through this district. Children have been killed elsewhere because of similar neglect. Kindly refer this to the proper authorities. A. S.

Our district inspector reports that the owner of the building referred to was notified to wreck the building and that wrecking is now under way.

JOHN E. ERICSSON,
Commissioner of Buildings.

ASSIGNMENT OF WAGES.

Chicago, May 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been presented with a notice of assignment of wages from a creditor of an employé, and he requests that I hold back wages which the employé assigned to that creditor.

1. I should like to know if I must comply with the creditor's request, as this notice of assignment is not from a court but it bears a notary seal.

2. If I must comply with that request, what part of wages must I hold, or am I required to pay that money to the creditor? If so, would I have to keep out the amount of exemption to be paid to the employé at the expiration of each weekly pay day? B. E. R.

1. If the assignment to which the notice relates is valid, and if you pay in disregard of the notice, then you might have to pay a second time to the assignee.

2. There is no exemption against an assignment of wages, but if the creditor in this case is a corporation organized under the small loans act, he is not entitled to collect more than half of the wages.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WASHINGTON TELLS US that our 1926 dollar now buys $1.62 worth of goods. Maybe so; maybe so. But it doesn't buy $1.53 worth of farm. And there's nobody moans to high heaven over the depression more than the farmer does. And nine times out of ten he's got a "For Sale" sign on his front gate. But ask him the price! We can't say what the British would ask for Buckingham palace, but, anyhow, what the farmer demands for his farm is just ten and a half times that. And then some.

IS IT THE HINDUS who believe that after this life the souls of us humans take on the form of animals? If that's the case some humans, notably those who engage in kidnaping and profiteering on human agony, are going to change when they die into garter snakes. Or earthworms. Or some kind of insect so small it can crawl under an earthworm's stomach.

GA-GA.

My lady's love enthralls me, quite
Beyond all earthly treasures.
A crust of bread with her, and I
Have all of Heaven's pleasures!

I wouldn't trade my lady's love
For Mister Astor's millions.
Her smiling kiss means more to me
Than Rockefeller's billions!

Her love has made me change my ways
And every sort of drink shun.
(I'm writing this from Mattewan,
A Nut-house of distinction!)

JOHN CONNERY.

THERE IS A GREAT SQUABBLE over whether the Chicago teachers' pay shall be reduced 10 per cent, 20 per cent, or whether it ought to be reduced at all. But for months they got nothing, and what we can't understand is how much 10 per cent or 20 per cent of nothing is. Nothing from nothing leaves nothing, but 10 or 20 per cent of nothing—now, that's something different again.

SUPER SALESMAN.

A certain man, having decided on salesmanship as a vocation, started very moderately with such things as lead pencils, shoestrings, sealing wax, and spools of thread—but his success was so rapid that within a short time he was dealing in real estate on a tremendous scale. His marvelous methods were drawn to the attention of a great automobile manufacturer, and soon our salesman was handling the entire output—and working the men overtime. But brighter fields were ahead: next we saw him dealing in seagoing yachts, summer cruisers, and his next "line" was locomotives and rolling stock for the transportation systems of six continents. And then he turned to battleships—entire navies, in fact—and his customers were the great powers of the world. And then one day he realized that he had conquered all the worlds of the universe of salesmanship, and the realization made him despondent. So one day, as he paused in the center of Brooklyn bridge, he sold himself on the idea of committing suicide. He climbed to the top rail. But just as he was ready to make the plunge he looked down, and there, twenty or thirty feet below him, he saw a painter on a scaffold rigging. The painter looked up. "Hey!" he shouted, "what you doin' up there?" "I'm going to jump off," said the salesman. "Well," replied the painter, "that's a dizzy thing to think of doing; better climb down here and tell me about it before you do it." So our salesman climbed down. "What's the big idea——" the painter commenced. And thus they sat for ten minutes or so—then they both climbed up to the top railing—and then they both jumped off.

THAT FELLA DOWN IN STREATOR.

A MOVIE OUTFIT in California is going to film the w. k. play "Rain." What! rain in California? Then why the many millioned Hoover dam and the great pipe lines carrying water to the dry and thirsty in California? And they're going to have the nerve to film "Rain"! Nature fakers! Nature fakers!

AND NOW THERE'S A BILL in congress to abolish postmasters and not only save ten million dollars a year which we now pay 'em in salaries but strike a blow at the political spoils system. But, if we abolish postmasters, how can a President be guaranteed a second term? And the custom is one of our most cherished institutions. No! if the boys who put over a presidential candidate cannot get postmaster jobs and insure their candidate's second term, then what is to become of the country? Gosh! the foundations of this here now government will crack so's you can hear 'em over in the Sahara.

The Nemesis That Never Fails.

Sir: Those boys that Jake says he paid the fifty thousand bucks to will be caught all right, all right. But not by the government sleuths, state police, or city detectives, or the United States army, navy, or marine corps. They'll be grabbed by the income tax department for not coming across with the government's slice of that fifty thous. TOP KICK.

ADMONITION.

Heart, will you never learn to behave?
What do you mean by such attire?
Flounces and frills of expectancy,
Little red shoes of desire!

Wearing the peak of your cap a-tilt,
Dancing away on a fragment of song;
Heart, have a care! You're a fragile thing
And the trail is steep and long.

ETHELYN BRYANT CHAPMAN.

SILENCE! Mr. Hoover urges the G. O. P. to avoid the controversial subject of prohibition. But how can there be silence when ever and anon some of that home brew in cellars scattered all over this broad land is certain to go haywire and explode like a racketeer's bomb? R. H. L.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What is the importance of Copernicus?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What were some characteristics of Renaissance art?

ANSWER:

The new birth visible in Italy by the 14th century was not so abrupt and complete a break with the middle ages as sometimes pictured. There was, however, a turning from Gothic architecture, and a revival of classical features such as the column, the round arch, and the dome. These, however, were developed and used in connection with contemporary needs and problems. In sculpture there was both a return to classical models and a direct study of nature. The most characteristic Renaissance art, however, was painting. The study of perspective, of light and shade and of colors together with the new use of oil paints led to a great broadening of the field of painting. Greater naturalism and greater interest in this world appear, even when the paintings were nominally religious in subject. Renaissance traditions continued to dominate in architecture, sculpture and painting until well into the 19th century, and their influence is by no means exhausted today.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

DEMOCRATIC—1888.

St. Louis, Mo., June 6—The Democratic national convention today broke the record for the greatest display of enthusiasm ever witnessed in a similar body. For over twenty minutes 12,000 people in the Chamber of Commerce hall filled the air with a volume of undiminishing applause comparable with nothing on earth, perhaps, save the roar of Niagara falls. It was at the utterance of these words: "I give you a name entwined with victory. I nominate Grover Cleveland of New York."

The speaker was Daniel Dougherty of Tammany Hall. Everybody in the hall seemed beside himself with excitement. The stone bust of the President near the speaker's stand was crowned with a wreath of green. Long poled state banners were whirled wildly in the air.

Delegate McKenzie seconded the nomination and asked that it be made unanimous. But every one wanted to join in seconding Cleveland and every one was given the chance.

REPUBLICAN—1888.

Chicago, June 26.—On the eighth ballot yesterday the Republican national convention made Benjamin Harrison of Indiana the nominee for President. Levi P. Morton of New York was nominated for Vice President. The convention was held in the new Auditorium, seating 8,000 persons.

Earlier ballots on previous days had given Harrison, for President, a fraction of the votes needed for a majority. On the sixth, the first taken yesterday, he had 231 to 244 for John Sherman. Gresham had 91 and Alger 137.

The seventh ballot, when California changed 15 of its 16 votes to Harrison, foreshadowed the outcome. He had 278. The roll of the eighth ballot was called with the result: Sherman, 118; Gresham, 59; Alger, 100; Harrison, 544; Blaine, 5.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

PARIS.—The official war communication covering operations on the western front says that a French curtain of fire stopped the Germans in two attacks before Verdun. After a strong bombardment the Germans gained a mine crater held by the British on the Vimy ridge.

BERLIN.—Repulse of three attacks by the French against German positions on Hill 304, northwest of Verdun, was announced by the war office.

STOCKHOLDERS' LIABILITY.

Chicago, May 16.—May I reply to an article which appeared in yesterday's TRIBUNE on the subject of stockholders' liability in closed banks?

I think that the inference to be drawn from this article assails the integrity of a stockholder in the closed banks. I do not believe it just to call upon the stockholders of closed banks for double liability of their holdings before the assets of the banks have been orderly liquidated. I do not see how, in the name of reason, their liability can be determined until the assets are liquidated.

It should be remembered that we are passing through an economic convulsion which is without precedent. Values have disappeared. To sacrifice securities in today's market would be ruinous—ruinous to the stockholders as well as the depositors. It should be remembered that the stockholder has an interest in the assets as well as the depositor. It was the money of the stockholders that originally furnished the capital structure of the bank. As a stockholder of numerous outlying banks in Chicago, and of some that have been forced to close, I know that the assets of each bank closed in which I am interested does considerably exceed the deposit liability. Therefore the liquidation of these assets should proceed along sane and honest lines, and every effort should be made to realize on their full value.

The majority of the stockholders of the outlying banks are people of modest means, and for them to pay their double liability in these present times would be a hardship. How can they raise cash? And cash is what is wanted. What kind of securities do they hold that can be realized upon at anywhere near their actual value? What kind of securities does any one hold today that can be turned into money at today's prices anywhere near their actual value? Remember that the actual cash money of the country to its wealth is about 3 per cent, and that the securities which we all hold were issued against the wealth and not the cash of the country.

P. A. WENDLAND.

STATUES AT THE FAIR.

Chicago, May 12.—It is my understanding that it is planned to erect monuments on the Century of Progress exposition grounds in honor of different people who were prominent in the early history of Chicago. In this connection I am surprised to learn that Father Marquette is not to be so honored; and in view of the prominent part that this valiant figure, in company with Joliet, took in the early exploration and settlement of the territory in this vicinity, it seems to me fitting and proper that suitable recognition be given to Father Marquette. Can't something be done to prevent the slighting of this splendid man? He deserves his place with the other interesting characters of early Chicago. Why not give it to him? JANE MCKINLEY.

A WORLD OF HARD WORK.

Battle Creek, Mich., May 5.—One of the principal handicaps for the city man on the farm is that he has never had the experience of hard work during long hours such as would be required on a farm; also he has, in too many cases, been directed in his labor by some one in authority, whereas on the farm he would be under his own initiative, and this at a time when every one is busy with his own affairs and does not have much leisure in which to help others.

The public schools during the last 30 years have taught the young people that in order to avoid hard work they should have an education. Frequently this writer has heard some parent say: "I want my boy to have an education so that he will not have to work hard for a living as I have had to." In the next few years this idea is going to be proved wrong and the millions now spent for this brand of education will be diverted into a different channel, with resulting great benefit to the future generations.

When the idea that a large percentage of people can be supported out of taxes is finally exploded as fallacious, when the young man is trained to work, really work, when the young women are taught that all cannot stand in the spotlight—in fact, when we all recognize our own particular niche in life and occupy it to the full, then may we expect a more normal life, always remembering that there is no substitute for work, work backed up by thoughtfulness, which idea does not seem to be included in some pretty expensive public educational systems.

S. J. BAKER.

DRY PROPAGANDA.

Chicago, May 15.—Says your Kathleen McLaughlin in THE TRIBUNE of May 14, referring to the speech of Dr. Daniel A. Poling in the ballroom of the Hotel La Salle the previous day:

". . . with rapid statistics which left reporters as well as most of his audience trailing mentally behind his logic, elicited tremendous applause by his declaration that the real inference of the Literary Digest poll was exactly opposite to the figures—indicating approval of the 18th amendment."

One would scarcely expect your reporter to keep up with the logic of a dry speaker, especially when his logic was irrefutably sound. However, believe it or not, the other 599 of us had not the slightest difficulty in keeping up with Dr. Poling's statistics and reasoning. On some occasions we were 'way ahead of him. FLORENCE ASHLEY.

AN ACTION PICTURE.

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—I wish to congratulate your photo department for "Out at the Plate." In the last thirty years I do not recall a picture with more action and spirit on the ball field. Every school boy, I feel, would be proud to have this in his room.

MAYOR WALKER'S BROTHER FIGURES IN GRAFT INQUIRY

$2,828 "Fee" Is Traced to Him by Seabury.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—A series of strange coincidences and explanations came to light at today's public hearing of the Hofstadter legislative committee when Samuel Seabury, chief counsel, tried to link Mayor James J. Walker with the missing Russell T. Sherwood, his former financial agent.

Most of them concerned the activities of William J. Scanlan, a familiar figure at the city hall who received commissions from the Civic Utilities company on purchases of street sweepers, snow loaders, voting machines, and garbage carts by the city.

Mayor's Brother Involved.

It developed that Dr. William H. Walker, the mayor's brother, was both friend and physician to Scanlan, who said it just happened that when he received a commission on a sale he gave half of it to Dr. Walker for "professional services" or to reimburse him "for fight tickets," which he had provided. In all Mr. Seabury succeeded in tracing payments amounting to $2,828 from Scanlan to the mayor's brother.

Mr. Seabury undertook to show also that a check for $6,000 from Scanlan's account found its way into Sherwood's bank account as a deposit on Nov. 10, 1927, soon after Scanlan had received a $10,000 commission on a sale of street sweepers to the city.

Scanlan expressed amazement at the story the bank records told. He was sure he had not given the check to Sherwood and, describing himself as "very generous," expressed the belief that he must have drawn the check to cash and distributed it among his wife, his mother, and his sister.

Walker Bonds Also Discussed.

The committee's chief counsel called Charles H. Graham, chief engineer of the department of finance, to testify that in calling for bids on sweepers the street cleaning department had drawn its specifications so that the company represented by Scanlan was the only one that could "qualify thereunder."

The $26,535 worth of bonds which J. A. Sisto, a taxicab financier, gave Mayor Walker because of his "deep admiration" for him, just before Mr. Walker proposed that taxicabs be operated on a franchise basis, came in for further examination at the opening of the hearing.

William R. Derby, a former partner in Sisto & Co., testified records covering the purchase of 1,000 shares of Cosden Oil stock for Mayor Walker and the withdrawal of bonds which Sisto sent the mayor had disappeared.

Two Bandits Get $1,900 in Loan Office Holdup

Two bandits took $1,900 yesterday in a holdup of the Gediminas Building and Loan association, 4425 South Fairfield avenue. Leonard Greetis, 2730 West 44th street, bookkeeper for the association, was conversing in the office with Joseph Swilpa of Melrose Park when the bandits entered. They took $40 from Swilpa and then forced Greetis to open the safe. He had no key for the money compartment, but the robbers smashed it open and took the money.

JURY AWARDS $6,000 DAMAGES TO MOTHER IN "LOVE SLAVE" SUIT

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—A sealed verdict which was opened by Supreme Court Justice Edwin J. McGoldrick today awarded Mrs. Gerteress O'Connor damages of $6,000 against Otto Heyworth, whom Mrs. O'Connor charged with the seduction of her daughter, Mona, in the summer of 1928.

OTTO HEYWORTH.

Mrs. Selma C. Young, the former Baroness Alfred de Corwin, who is the mother of Heyworth and a joint defendant with him in Mrs. O'Connor's suit for $350,000 damages, was acquitted by the jury. Mrs. Young was charged with aiding and abetting her son in the seduction of Miss O'Connor, with lavishing gifts upon the girl, and with financing a trip made by her son and Miss O'Connor to Bermuda.

The case went to the jury late yesterday afternoon. The jury arrived at a verdict after three and a half hours of deliberation.

WRITER OF FOUR KIDNAP THREATS WINS PROBATION

Oak Park Honor Student Dodges Prison.

Donald Imhoff, 17 years old, former senior honor student at Oak Park High school, who terrorized four wealthy families of Oak Park last winter by writing a series of letters threatening kidnaping and bombing, was placed on probation yesterday by Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court. Imhoff pleaded guilty to the charges.

When the case first came before Judge Fisher three weeks ago he indicated that he was not favorably impressed with the plea of Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr. for probation. At that time he ordered Imhoff, who had been freed on bonds, to return to the county jail and requested Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the behavior clinic in the jail, to make a mental examination of the youth. Dr. Hoffman reported yesterday that he could find nothing wrong with the defendant other than that he showed a mentality superior to most youths of the same age.

Boy Banished to Farm.

In making his probation decision yesterday Judge Fisher gave Imhoff a severe lecture and fixed as a condition of the probation that he stay out of Oak Park and surrounding suburbs. The youth said he would be glad to do this and would accept banishment to the farm of an uncle at Murphysboro, Ill.

Fred Seymour, 531 North Linden avenue, Oak Park, an official of a stationery firm, on whose charge Imhoff was tried, was not in court yesterday. At the last hearing Mr. Seymour said that the responsibility for final disposition of the case was with the judge, and that he did not have any objection to whatever judicial action was taken, but that he wanted it made certain that Imhoff was kept out of Oak Park.

Death Threatened in Notes.

The reason for this demand as expressed in court at the time was because of the vicious tone of the well written notes sent to Mr. Seymour and the three other residents of the suburb. The extortion letters threatened to blow up the homes of the intended victims, and to kidnap and kill their children, unless the demands contained therein were promptly complied with. Mr. Seymour hired private detectives to guard his home and family and to bring about the arrest of Imhoff.

Imhoff's plea for leniency was based principally on the grounds of his youth and the fact that he was a first offender. He said that the reason he wrote the notes was because he wanted to get money for his mother, who was separted from her husband, Wiley Imhoff, the father, is head of the Oak Park water department.

CUT BUDGET OR GET OUT, WALKER TELLS DEPARTMENT HEADS

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker delivered an ultimatum to his department heads tonight, warning them that they faced the loss of their positions unless they affected sufficient economies in the next budget and established enough new sources of revenue to lighten the tax burden upon real estate in the city.

The mayor declared the city's expenditures for salaries would be cut down both through pay reductions and the elimination of nonessential positions. Public improvements would be drastically curtailed, he said. If any department head neglected to reduce his budget next year the mayor said it would be slashed arbitrarily, and he made plain his belief that any commissioner who could not grasp the present need for retrenchment had not sufficient intelligence to hold his post.

Even if the cost of city government is cut to the bone, the mayor said, new sources of revenue must be found.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an item on the barring of the Public Indemnity company from making bonds in the federal court it was stated that this company was the last surety company doing business in the federal courts. This company was the last of four companies writing bonds in criminal cases. Other surety companies are qualified to schedule such bonds but have not done so in the past, dealing mainly with receivership and equity cases.

JUDGE FREES 4 FROM ALIMONY ROW IN JAIL

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday began calling before him the men he sentenced to alimony row at the county jail, and during the day he released four men who promised to pay alimony to their former wives. The four are Rocco Carbone, Peter Nelson, Norman Shearer, and Peter Wojcik. Each has spent more than four months in jail.

Today and tomorrow the judge will call before him nine other prisoners who were sent to cells because they fell behind in alimony payments. All of them will be released, Judge Sabath said, to give them an opportunity to find work during the summer months.

M'LEANS AGREE TO BAR SCANDAL IN ESTATE SUIT

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—A speedy termination of the litigation proceedings in which Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean is attempting to oust her husband, Edward Beale McLean, as co-trustee of his father's estate loomed today when attorneys for both sides agreed to refrain from introducing sensational testimony.

Maj. Julius I. Peyser, McLean's counsel, announced that probably not more than five witnesses would be questioned by him tomorrow and these will testify only briefly.

Nelson T. Hartson of the plaintiff's counsel rested his case today.

The Post lost $140,000 in 1931 and has been "an unproductive asset of the McLean estate" since 1924, it was brought out in the questioning of Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security and Trust company, one of the co-trustees of the McLean estate.

Senator McKellar Gains; Temperature Is Normal

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Senator McKellar of Tennessee, who is ill at Emergency hospital, was reported today to be "getting along very nicely." His physician said his temperature has been normal for 24 hours.

"CARS ARE LIKE HUMANS" Says this Nurse

Miss Lane learns from Mrs. Chester Orchard, nurse of Peoria, Illinois, that cars, as well as humans, need good care.

An Interview by MARGARET LANE
Reporter, London Daily Express and International News Service

ANY NURSE will tell you the same. A clean system spells a clean bill of health. And that goes for cars, as well. Ask Mrs. Chester Orchard of 716 West Maywood, Peoria, Illinois. She's both a nurse and a motorist, and she sees to the clean running of her car the same way she keeps a trained eye on the health of her baby daughter.

"I don't know much about a car's insides," she admitted, "but there is one sure way to make it run smooth and give no trouble. My husband put me up to it. He insisted I use Iso-Vis and he was right.

"Listen to that smooth engine . . . here's a Model A Ford that's gone 30,280 miles in two years, and if I had a dollar for every time she's balked I'd still be out of pocket money."

She slammed the door and quietly shifted the gears. We drove fast and smooth from her suburban home the odd mile to the hospital. "What's wrong with that?" she smiled, flicking off the ignition, "sounds pretty good, doesn't it?

"Well, I suppose I take good care of her. I have her overhauled as conscientiously as I take my baby to the doctor, but there's never been an ounce of engine trouble.

"I guess my husband trained me pretty strictly when I first had this car for my own. He was so insistent I should use no other oil but Iso-Vis, it's never occurred to me people used anything else."

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. Mrs. Sully loves her three children blindly, but is unable to help them spiritually or physically. Cynthia, the oldest, has had a tragic marriage. Lew, a year older than Esmee, has had little from life. Esmee can barely remember the days before her father's death when they had had a cheerful home. Jimmy Considine forces Lew to introduce him to Esmee. Lew warns Esmee she'll make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. She sees a lot of Jimmy, however, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Lew gets into a jam and asks Esmee to get him $50.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A KINDLY STRANGER.

Lew in jail. Lew in a cell, with his dark head bowed in his hands!

"He's never had a chance!" Esmee cried to herself over and over, lying beside Cynthia in the dark. "He's not bad. He's only careless and wild."

He had turned to her, for who else was there in that household? Not Cynthia, the tragic, deserted by her husband, not able to sell any of her drawings and too discouraged to try much any more. Not Mrs. Sully, who loved her children so blindly, and never could help them. Of all that sorry family, Esmee, the youngest; Esmee, the dazed and gentle child, was the strongest; strong in fortitude, in love, in charity.

"I've got to get it for Lew," she thought, and fell asleep.

She was afraid even to ask at the office for an advance.

"Because, suppose I lost my job," she thought. "And Lew's probably lost his already. Then there wouldn't be any one making anything."

So she went through the day as best she could. She had not distinguished herself in her job. She was very polite and willing, but she was always a little uncertain. She did not know the things the other girls in the office knew. They seemed to her immensely more confident, mature, intelligent. She was abashed to hear them talk of plays they had seen, of shops, restaurants, a whole world unknown to her. They were all better dressed than she; they all had money for little things, for perfumes, stockings, magazines, and she never had a penny. She thought:

But the lining was torn. Her fingers caught in it.

"They'd know. Miss Bartram would know how to get this money—if I could ask her."

But she could not; Miss Bartram looked hostile.

"I could get it from Jimmy," she thought.

But not until every other resource had been tried in vain would she turn to Jimmy.

If Lew went to prison, how could she go on working? How could she live? Her dear Lew, who had been so sweet to her when she had had the flu, reading out loud to her, tidying the disordered room—Lew, who loved her as she loved him?

Miss Bartram had spoken scornfully more than once of clock watchers, so Esmee held back her work to make it last until ten minutes after five. Then she began her preparations for the party in the washroom after the other girls had gone home. She had borrowed Cynthia's vanity case. She experimented with the rouge in it, but it was not successful, and she rubbed it off hastily. She was not at all satisfied with the result when she had finished, but she could do no more, and she set off, heavy hearted because of her dear Lew and the appalling prospect of borrowing money, yet a little excited.

Mrs. Morelli's house was reassuringly modest, a little old house on Bank street, with a rosy light in the curtained front window.

"Perhaps it's rather wonderful," she thought.

She ran up the steps and was about to ring the bell when the door was opened by a man in overcoat and hat.

"O!" said Esmee, in her polite little voice. "Excuse me, but this is Mrs. Morelli's house, isn't?"

"It is," he answered, somberly, and as she entered he closed the door behind him and tried to help her off with her coat. But the lining was torn, her fingers caught in it, there was a struggle that embarrassed her profoundly.

"Thank you!" she said, vehemently, looking up at this new man with a smile of anxious appreciation.

He regarded her thoughtfully.

"My name's Twining," he said. "Arthur Twining."

"O! Mine's Esmee Sully."

There was a silence, during which Twining deliberately took off his overcoat and hung it up on the rack. Esmee covertly regarded him. He was a big, burly fellow of thirty or so, with blank blue eyes, a little reddish mustache, and a face without expression.

"He was just leaving," she thought. "Did he come back—is he staying—just on my account?"

But he was so solid, so mature, it was impossible for her to imagine what he thought or felt.

And it was a little like a policeman, the way he put his hand under her elbow and led her into the room beside them. It was crowded with people and excited sort of chittering filled the air. Helen Morelli, talking to a man at the other side of the room, waved her hand airily to Esmee. Otherwise no one paid any attention to her. Except Twining.

He led her to a chair near a window. He asked her if she felt a draft. Other people knew him and tried to talk to him, but he stood faithfully beside Esmee. He was no better at social conversation than she was. With an obvious effort he would think of a question to ask her, and she would answer fervently, "O, yes, I do!" or "O, no, I don't!" She was doing her best, but she was far from satisfied with her performance. She had seen none of the plays he mentioned, read none of the books; she seldom looked at a newspaper. Whenever he spoke she would glance up, with her radiant face softly rounded, softly flushed, then, having answered, she would bend her ruffled head, her fragile fingers playing with the string of green beads about her neck.

"He must like me!" she thought. "I'm sure he came back just on my account. Would he lend me fifty dollars?"

She asked him if he were an artist, but he answered, "God, no!" in a startled tone. His solid, unsmiling presence gave her a sense of warm comfort. She felt a sort of affectionate gratitude toward him. She wished very much that she could find something witty and charming to say. Some one came with a tray of cocktails, and she took one and swallowed it in two gulps. Some one else came with another tray, and she was about to accept again when Twining said, in a noncommittal tone:

"That stuff won't do you any good."

She glanced at him, startled.

"Well, I won't take it, then," she said, and smiled away the tray bearer. And then she saw in his blank blue eyes a look that astonished and delighted her, a look of indulgent tenderness that transformed his impassive face.

"He does like me!" she thought. "And he's a gentleman. I wouldn't mind asking him."

It was a difficult subject to broach, though. She was silent, her head bent for a long time before she spoke.

"Mr. Twining," she said. "I hope you won't think it's horrible. But I'm very much worried about something and I'd like to ask your advice."

He bent lower, hands clasped behind his back, and she could see in his face only a kindly concern.

"I don't exactly know what to do," she went on, her lips trembling. "I've got a job, in an office, so I could pay it back, a little every week. I was going to ask Mrs. Morelli, only she's so busy."

"A financial difficulty?" murmured Twining close to her ear.

It seemed to her unendurable to ask a stranger to lend her money, at their first meeting. She tried to recall the various expedients she had heard discussed in her own family.

"I thought," she said, "if I could find some one to sign a note——"

Still he did not look shocked or surprised.

"A large amount?" he asked.

She was not sure whether fifty dollars was in other eyes a large sum or a small one, but she decided upon the former."

"Yes."

"Mind telling me how much?"

"Fifty dollars," she said.

"Well, in that case—" he said, and paused.

She felt now that all was lost. He was probably appalled.

"In that case," he said, "if it's an urgent matter, it seems to me we could dispense with the note. If you don't object. I think I can rake up that much cash over at my place. Look here! Suppose we take a taxi and pop over there now?"

D., don't worry about that oven—at least not until the family calls for a refill of the cookie jar! Here are our kind contributor's directions for the stuffing and stewing:

STEWED STUFFED HEART.

Thoroughly wash a good sized beef heart and remove the arteries, veins, and clotted blood. Cut the tough ventricles in order to leave a large space for the stuffing. Soak one hour in cold water. Stuff with the following mixture and tie with twine or place in a salt bag. Place in a small stew pan with the point of the heart down, and nearly cover with boiling water. Cover with a lid and simmer until tender, about three hours. Serve with gravy made by thickening the meat liquor.

CELERY STUFFING.

2 cups stale bread crumbs
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon ground sage
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ cup melted fat
¾ cup chopped celery

Blend the ingredients. Add enough boiling water to allow the stuffing to pack easily. A well beaten egg may be added if desired, and chopped sautéed salt pork or bacon gives a pleasantly rich flavor.

Beef and mutton hearts are, on the average, more inexpensive than calf's or lamb's, since more cooking or other preparation is required to render them completely tender. However, in heart, as in all other glandular organs, overbaking or overboiling must be avoided, as too high or too prolonged heat will toughen the meat and injure the flavor.

While Mrs. D. D. was anxious to bake a heart, some of the rest of us perhaps would prefer stewing. This is an easy method with delicious results, which I find even better than baking for a dry muscular meat, such as the heart. Simmer two washed calves' hearts until tender, about one to two hours, starting them in boiling water. At the end of this time skim off the fat and cut up the hearts, removing arteries and valves and leaving just the lean pieces. Cut the meat in small portions and place in a stewing or frying pan with the stew liquor, chopped parsley, celery and a bay leaf. Simmer fifteen minutes and add a thin flour-and-water paste sufficient to thicken the gravy. A half teaspoon of lemon juice and a sprinkling of rind added at this point give flavor and piquancy.

You've broiled chops and steak, but have you ever broiled heart? Slices of lamb heart make a very attractive broiled service. They need to be quite thick to begin with. Heat the oven very hot, about 480 degrees F., and place the heart slices on the broiler close up to the flame. Sear them quickly on both sides, turning with two forks. Now put on top of each slice a half slice of bacon and place the meat in the lower part of the broiler to finish cooking. Turn several times, each time returning the bacon to the top of the slices. When tender, season with salt and pepper, and serve with catchup or horseradish sauce and fresh vegetables.

Remove Cause if You'd Cure a Bad Habit

Nail Biting Is Common Failing.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "I have tried everything to stop my little girl biting her fingernails. I have reminded her, told her she must have self-control, and have put bitter aloes on her fingertips, but it does no good. I am desperate. It is so disfiguring. Can you suggest anything?"

Answer: Yes I can, but the means you have resorted to seldom do any good. Like most of our difficulties with children, this one yields best to indirect treatment. We try to remedy the cause and in some cases work on the symptom, too. Sometimes nail biting has an obscure cause, sometimes an obvious one. So we try to do several things—remove any causes for disturbances, fill out and enrich a child's life, and sometimes appeal to his pride. In order to be helpful to those who are trying to break up this habit, a leaflet containing further suggestions has been prepared and will be sent out on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelop.

Question: "My daughter of 13 is using lipstick and powder. I have told her it is wrong and forbidden her to do so. But she continues. What would you do?"

Answer: I'd do as little forbidding as possible with a daughter of 13. It won't get you anywhere and will probably antagonize her. If you "forbid her" in this you probably have used that system in other things.

Instead of laying down the law, talk things over with her. Act in such a way that she becomes convinced of two things—first, that you are interested in and understand her feelings. Second, that you only do what you do out of an affection that is concerned with her good.

It will take you some time to build up this workable, friendly relationship. So, in the meantime, I would stop calling the lipstick habit wrong, because it isn't. Instead, I would put it in the grounds of good taste. I'd tell her that it is "ordinary," that it isn't suitable at her age, anymore than a formal evening gown is suitable, and that she cheapens herself by makeup at 13.

Our fares are 20% to 50% lower. Costs in Europe are down. The rate of exchange is in your favor. It's your year for Europe.

Here's a cozy Third Class room for only $108 per person round trip.

When we say Europe is within the financial reach of every vacationist this year we mean just that. Literally! And you can live and travel in Europe cheaper than you can at home. Actually! Vacation budgets may be smaller, but costs are in keeping.

Imagine a round trip to Europe for $180 on exclusively Tourist liners that until recently were exclusively First Class! Imagine round trips in restricted, white collar Third Class as low as $108. Cabin Class as low as $227.55 round trip and even First Class at $400. Read the facts. Then you'll decide on Europe.

Just look at these typical staterooms at the right. Notice the prices! Only a few months ago these rooms would have cost up to 50% more. And at any of these prices we can accommodate not just a few passengers, but hundreds, in some cases even thousands.

And even this de luxe First Class suite on the Olympic is only $517 per person for the round trip.

These rooms will serve to illustrate the price range. There are many, of course, at prices in between.

$5 to $10 a day in EUROPE

What will it cost you to live and travel in Europe? That is for you to decide. But $5 to $10 a day is a fair average. You can do it for less. You can spend more. Your taste and your budget must decide that.

On the continent you can stay at pensions for as little as $2 per day with meals—or at really famous hotels for $5 to $6 per day with meals.

Don't lose the opportunity to see Europe this year. Prices may never be so low again. Get the full particulars at once from your local agent. It costs you nothing to do that—and it may pave the way to the best vacation of your life.

17-day Round Trips

And don't count yourself out because you have only a two-weeks' vacation. On the Majestic, world's largest ship, or the Olympic, you can make the round trip in as little as 17 days, with 4 days for Paris and London. Travel First Class or Tourist.

New Bennett Volume Not Great Work

Among Those He Wrote for Money.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Stroke of Luck" and an unfinished novel, "Dream of Destiny," by Arnold Bennett. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published today.

THE late Arnold Bennett managed his literary work like a very good business man. He wrote a few vast masterpieces to which he gave the most impressive best that there was in himself and his pen. They took him years to write [sometimes] and, until he became so famous that the merest stroke from his pen was valuable and salable property, he might easily have been embarrassed financially if he had depended upon their earning power alone.

ARNOLD BENNETT.

Some authors have made the economic compromise one way, some another. Willa Cather, for instance, chose during all of the years during which her fame was growi g to live wholly by the finest fruits of her pen. That is, she wrote what her ideals demanded and she never wrote anything else, and she lived as extremely modestly as her resources demanded. Other writers—one could name more than a handful—have allowed popularity and its consequent gold to lure them from their pristine ideals of great work for its own sake, and have turned out quantity rather than the quality which they might—with a sacrifice to themselves—have produced.

Frank Compromise with Economics.

Arnold Bennett frankly compromised. To make possible the writing of a few great books he frankly wrote potboilers, turned out short stories in hordes and whipped up some articles which were more hack work than some of the ordinary hack writers would dare to sign. For the sake of "The Old Wives' Tale," Arnold Bennett can be forgiven twenty volumes of amusing and pleasant potboiling. With the Clayhanger trilogy to keep his name aglow the ashes of the little faggots of novels piled under the pot to keep it boiling may well be overlooked. For "Riceyman Steps," five bundles of words in novel form are a small price to pay.

Mr. Bennett was—to our mind—mistaken about the importance of his last great work, "Imperial Palace," but it certainly was written with the author's most intense concentration on doing his best work, and it was a labor of love and years. He was always frank about the book which he "dashed off." It was a facile way of providing himself with luxury and the leisure and ease to pursue his real literary career. He did it by turning out amusing trivia.

With the trivia certainly is to be listed the posthumous volume which is published today. It consists of two parts, a long short story—practically a novelette—and the beginning of a novel which is interrupted by the death of its creator. In neither one of the works is there the slightest hint of Arnold Bennett's great genius [when he chose to be a genius].

"Dream of Destiny" Not Great Work.

There is no reason whatever to publish "Dream of Destiny." It is not a fragment of such beauty as to warrant its preservation. Never to have looked upon it would be no unwarranted deprivation. It is certainly not the beginning of one of Mr. Bennett's great works of art, and it will not add one leaf to the author's immortal laurel. Its inclusion in a volume with "Stroke of Luck" serves only one purpose. It pads out a long short story into enough pages to warrant publishing the collection of words as a volume.

And as for the short story—it is, to my mind, just about as near nothing as anything that Mr. Bennett ever turned out in a hasty moment while the caviar caterer was waiting with bill in hand. It has a certain charm, of course. Mr. Bennett was incapable of writing without charm, no matter what he wrote. But it is like thousands of other short stories which serve their purpose when they have provided the reading matter in the ephemera of the publishing business—the magazines. Occasionally a short story appears in a magazine which is a masterpiece and which should be preserved between covers. "Stroke of Luck" is not one of those, and if it did not bear the name of Arnold Bennett as author it would probably languish in the files of whatever periodical it appeared in.

Both the story and the unfinished novel have an actress as the heroine.

Cool Comfort Marks Styles in Footwear

It's a Great Season for Cinderella.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

ALL you modern maidens with a Cinderella shoe collecting complex are going to have a gay time this summer buying footwear . . . you can snare any kind of a prince with the fascinating new models that are arriving daily in all the shoe shops around the town. And a king or two would probably unbend from his stiff-necked majesty if you sauntered about within the royal eye line, with any of the crisp little pumps and sandals that have been designed for your summertime approval.

All the shoemakers have gone in for cool comfort combined with ease as well as distinctive appearance this summer . . . your footwear will probably be the smartest footnotes you have ever added to your wardrobe. There will be scant sympathy for foot complainers the next sixty days no matter how torridly high the temperature zooms . . . you are just a dumb shopper if you encase your pedal extremities in shoes that are as thick and hot as armor, when you can find cool shoes for the hottest feet at prices that will almost stun you.

It's a well established shopping fact that shoes this year are in most cases exactly one-half the prices you parted with last summer for the same kind of materials.

But this year everybody has concentrated on ventilation and other methods for cooling the entire foot . . . what with pumps that are made entirely of thin fabrics, oxford ties of kidskin as full of holes as good Swiss cheese, and sandals that almost scandalize the watching masculine public with the fewest possible narrow straps and a dozen apertures for lacquered toes, fashionable feminine Chicago can get about blissfully foot unconscious.

There seems to be a great abundance of white footwear . . . you'll find pumps, tie oxfords, T-strap models and sport models with low heels all in white . . . you can choose from linen, crash and a new pebbly cotton cloth called marcella fabric, or you will like the new lizard leather that is exquisitely fine grained with a certain porous effect to it that looks as cool as it really is. This new lizard is available in white with white calfskin trimmings, in beige color cleverly contrasted with deep brown kidskin trim and in soft gray with black . . . smart sports shoes are also made of this thinnish lizard leather with sharp decisive black patent leather heels and pointed toe motifs also of the black patent.

For your dark street costumes that simply demand dark colored shoes for complementary understandings, there are some frightfully smart black and dark brown classic opera pumps of a cool material called linette.

These are a discovery in more ways than one . . . first they are cool and airy, next they are a dull black or brown, just as good with cottons as they are with silk frocks, and their best trick is the new way they refrain from gouging tender insteps . . . in other words they are so cleverly cut away in front that there is no cruelly binding restraint across the beginning of the instep . . . why somebody hasn't discovered this very simple remedy before is mystery.

You'll get the thrill of a lifetime when you wear these pumps the first time, wear them for hours, and then experience that grand and glorious easy feeling that usually is only apparent after similar models have been worn for weeks.

Natural colored linen shoes are always good, this year especially, because they match the new fashionable natural straw colored leghorn hats . . . and these linen models can be tinted as beautifully as the white models.

Thrills Aplenty in War Fought in Mountains

Preview of Noted Battle Epic Tomorrow.

THRILLS aplenty await the audience which will have the privilege of seeing tomorrow evening the preview of "The Doomed Battalion" in McVicker's theater. The one performance starts at 8:30 o'clock and is being given for the benefit of Camp Algonquin, the vacation camp for nearly 2,000 mothers and children from the congested areas which is supported in part by THE TRIBUNE readers.

Those who believe "The Doomed Battalion" may be just another war picture will find to their great surprise that the theme as presented is a chapter in world war history that has never before been told. There are no lines where airplanes battle in the skies and armies push back and forth across a 50 or 100 mile front. No ambulances rush to base hospitals nor are thousands of soldiers seen on the march.

One lone mountain, Collalto pass, forms the background for the doomed battalion. They must hold their position to the last man because in them is placed the hope of the Austrian frontier. Here are the majestic Alps—not the California mountains skirting Hollywood. The picture was made on the historic ground where the Austrians and Italians fought each other to a standstill for two years.

"The Doomed Battalion" is an organization of picked mountain men, climbers, sportsmen, guides, who not only can scale the icy Alpine precipices but can drop into the valleys below on skis at 70 miles an hour. The scenes were photographed by a member of the troupe who himself was on skis and who was trained by Luis Trenker.

Trenker, who takes the lead in "The Doomed Battalion," wrote the story, basing it upon experience during the world war. Trenker put upon paper five weeks of his life, thinking it out scene by scene within sight of his village home in the snowy valley below. In the picture he takes the part of Florian, who must leave his wife and unborn child to guard the mountain. The scenes of "The Doomed Battalion" are almost entirely founded on facts in Trenker's own life and war experiences.

The picture is the more convincing for its selection of cast—players who had had actual war experience and who had known the Alpine country since birth. Tala Birell was chosen not only because she was a skillful actress, but because she suffered hunger and privation in Austria during the war. She understood the problems of those who lived and fought in that country during the war.

Trenker was born near the very spot of the setting. He was a mountain climber, motion picture producer and writer and was chosen to play opposite Miss Birell as her husband. During the world war he served as a captain of engineers in the Austrian army.

Victor Marconi, who played in "The Volga Boatman," and "The King of Kings," served in the Rumanian and Hungarian armies and saw months of service on the Russian frontier. He plays the Italian commandant. Throughout the picture is evidence that the cast has been selected with the idea of making the film as realistic as possible.

All tickets to the one performance tomorrow night are $1 and may be had at the box office all day. The entire proceeds will be turned over to Camp Algonquin as the contribution of Balaban & Katz to the Camp Algonquin fund.

Northwestern May Queen to Receive Her Crown Today

Northwestern university co-eds will crown their May queen in a ceremony at 4 o'clock today on the Evanston campus. The identity of the queen will be kept a secret until Miss Margaret Frantz, who was queen last year, places the wreath upon the head of her successor. The three candidates for the honor, on which students ballotted several weeks ago, are Betsy Day, 2242 Ridge avenue, Evanston; Margaret Black, 4114 North Springfield avenue, and Elizabeth Parmalee, Champaign, Ill. The ballots have been kept sealed, and will be counted today.

The university had its annual candle lighting ceremony last night. At 9:01 o'clock Harold Anderson, head of the alumni association, put a match to the four foot candle in Old College on Milton H. Wilson campus, and at the same minute smaller candles were lighted in every fraternity and sorority house and candles were lighted all over the world by Northwestern graduates. The custom was begun twenty-five years ago.

Another group of nurses will be graduated tomorrow from the Presbyterian hospital. The graduates number fifty-seven. Exercises will be held at 3 o'clock in the nurses' home at 1750 West Congress street. Miss M. Helena McMillan, superintendent of the school, will present the class, and Alfred T. Chic Accessories in Costume Color Find Way to Ritz

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Recently this column described the correct accessories for morning wear. In today's drawing you see the accessories that Paris signs as chic and correct to accompany the informal afternoon ensemble.

Afternoon accessories must have the unostentation of their morning sisters, but should not be tailored. They may be very feminine, and even slightly frivolous, but the smartest accessories, from top to toe, should be in the costume color. They may be relieved by another color for accentuation, but if the costume uses another color for its trimming, then the accessories should use that color as well. Black trimmed with white is still a favorite of the Parisienne, although one sees some smart women wearing yellow or beige with black this season.

The accessories pictured are those that find their way to the Ritz to tea. The small Agnes turban, perched on the right side of the head, is in fine Milan straw, in black. It is completely encircled by two rows of tiny white flowers. The smart high-in-the-back movement is achieved by an upstanding, perky bow of white grosgrain ribbon.

The rather large, square bag is in black antelope and has a white ivory frame. Eight button length black antelope gloves from Alexandrine are laced up the sides with narrow white antelope bands. The opera pumps, also in black antelope, have an inverted roll, lined with white at the point of the instep.

Good Morning!

For 25 cents in the daytime, 35 cents at night—children 10 cents ALL the time—you can have fun at the Roosevelt.

Yesterday afternoon an appreciative audience of adults and youngsters were taking in "Heart of New York," featuring Smith and Dale, formerly of the Avon Comedy Four.

You never saw anything move as fast in your life! It just spins along, unreeling Hebrew home life, plots, plans, tears, romance, discouragements, triumphs, sudden laughter, and bushels of conversation, that is a heady mixture of wisecracks and philosophy.

The locale is New York's east side. The principal characters are Pa and Ma Mendel, their children, their relatives, and their neighbors. The story is fantastic but enacted with such zest that it holds your interest and sympathy, and the director got all there was to be got from his cast and material.

"Heart of New York" was made with the sole view of entertaining the less serious minded and inducing more earnest souls to loosen up and have an irresponsible good time. I would judge from my observations at the theater yesterday that the producers had admirably succeeded in their mission.

See you tomorrow.

Indian Hill Club Has First Golf Day for Women

Formal Openings Planned for End of Month.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALTHOUGH most of the country clubs do not have their formal openings until Memorial day, or the Saturday before that holiday, the majority of them are open now for golfers, and enthusiasts of that popular sport are taking advantage of the lovely weather we are having to be on the links as much as possible.

The Indian Hill club, Winnetka's most exclusive country club, had its first woman's day yesterday and, contrary to what usually happens in this part of the world when something is planned that is dependent entirely on the weather, it was possible to carry out the party as planned.

The clubhouse is not open yet, at least the part of it where food is prepared and served, so the women had an al fresco luncheon in the orchard and it was decided that it was one of the very nicest parties the women of the club ever had had.

The fruit trees are just beginning to blossom and with the sun shining as brightly as it did yesterday and the air as soft and pleasant as it was, the weather man certainly did his bit to make the party a success.

Mrs. Hobart P. Young, who is chairman of the woman's golf at Indian Hill, is in Washington for a brief stay—she will return Saturday—so she was not there, but about fifty others met for golf in the morning and the luncheon which followed. A few remained to play bridge in the afternoon. The club will have its formal opening on May 28 with golf events during the day and a dinner dance that night.

Knollwood Club In Daily Use.

The Knollwood club on the Waukegan road in Lake Forest, which, by the way, numbers quite a few Winnetkans among its members, also is having its formal opening on May 28, although the golf course, tennis courts, bowling green, and bridle paths are in daily use now. The lovely new pool which was constructed last year will be ready for use this year on May 28.

Most of the members who have houses on the club grounds—most of Knollwood's houses are closed for the winter, whereas most of Indian Hill's houses are year 'round residences—have been opened, although in some cases the owners are spending only week-ends in them until after school closes.

Lake Forest's other country club, the older one, Onwentsia, also will open on May 28, although the first dinner dance, or rather buffet supper and dance, will not be held until Thursday, June 9. The clubhouse has been open for several weeks and the restaurant will be ready for service on May 28.

The Shoreacres Golf club, which is north of Lake Forest in Lake Bluff, was opened April 1. The only regu-

So. Seas Must Be Heaven to Film Director

Sutherland Tells of Trip with Fairbanks.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., May 18.—Eddie Sutherland, Douglas Fairbanks' director, who is just back from filming "Robinson Crusoe of the South Seas" in the Society islands, says:

"Tahiti is heaven for the picture director. The extras! Pick any girl you find swimming in a blue lagoon or call any native down from a cocoanut tree and you'll be sure to have an excellent trouper. Charming people with highly developed sense of drama and sense of humor. And all for twenty francs—or 80 cents a day.

"When we had two hundred or more natives working for us a day and would tell them they need not come back and work next day some would break down and cry. To them the whole thing was a game. One day there were 100 natives working around our yacht a mile off shore. At noon the signal was given from land that lunch was ready. I ordered the smaller boats ready to take them in and my interpreted yelled 'lunch.'

"They all dove or dropped over the side of the yacht and swam that mile to shore. After lunch they all swam back. We worked Sundays in Tahiti because we wanted to finish our pictures so as to be sure to catch the monthly steamer back. The first Sunday none of the natives showed up. They had been called, but were afraid of the missionaries' idea of desecrating the Sabbath. Assistants sent for them found the natives a dejected lot. My assistant and interpreter changed this. They told them to come along—that they were not going to work but to play all day. I explained that they were not going to receive any pay for that day. But that they would get a double check for working on Monday.

"They made up some Polynesian name for Douglas. I forget the words, but they meant 'One of Supreme Renown.' Others were named in a like manner. I inquired if I had no native name. The interpreter beamed and said: 'Certainly.' My Tahitan name was 'Poto.' I swelled with a bit of pride and asked him to translate it, but the pride was deflated when he said: 'It means shorty.'"

The only picture theater on the islands shows pictures that often are very old. While the Fairbanks troupe was there the theater (a silent—not talkie) ran "The Sea Wolf." Sutherland played a cabin boy in that one and took a beating from Noah Beery. The natives gave a demonstration for Sutherland, whom they recognized, after the picture was shown, and Douglas' director had to rise and bow and then sit down again while the house manager ran through the same picture a second time.

Marie Dressler has completed the purchase of the King C. Gillette estate in Beverly Hills. It formerly was the show place home of the safety razor magnate, who is ill.

The third time that Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey disagreed they stayed disagreed, for Wheeler announced the comedy partnership was definitely ended and caught the train out of Hollywood for New York to show that he meant it. Meantime, Woolsey here is wondering what to do about the agreement that the pair had made to do a funny film together at Columbia.

The last fuss that agitated Wheeler and Woolsey took place around Christmas time, but was patched up with an exchange of holiday presents. Previous to that they disagreed over portions of one of their joint film appearances at the RKO theater, and for a time the comedy partnership was busted up, with each partner playing individually in separate pictures.

Teachers' College Dance.

GASOLINE ALLEY—EXIT PRIGGY.

I'VE GOT A SWELL IDEA FOR A PLAY I'M GOING TO WRITE SOMETIME, LORA.
YOU COULD, PRIGGY. I'M SURE YOU COULD.
LORA, I'D LIKE TO SEE YOU A MINUTE.
I HATE TO SPEAK ABOUT THIS BUT I'M TIRED OF SEEING THAT YOUNG PRIGGY HANGING AROUND HERE. TAKE MY WORD FOR IT HE'S NO GOOD.
YES, COUSIN WALT.
HE'S ALWAYS BEEN FINE TO ME, COUSIN WALT.
YOU'RE TOO YOUNG TO BE A JUDGE IN SUCH MATTERS, LORA. I WANT YOU TO TELL HIM TO GO AWAY AND STAY AWAY—OR I WILL.
IT'S YOUR HOUSE, COUSIN WALT. I'LL TELL HIM.

In-Law Problem and Poor Are Always with Us

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The only possible way in-law contact can be escaped without ill feeling is for orphan to marry orphan. As there aren't enough of the orphan group to keep marriage going, it is well for couples to realize before hand that they simply cannot cut themselves off from their relatives by marriage—without bad feeling of some sort.

Not even a continent dividing the new family from the old preserves a young couple from contact. At one time or other visiting will be done. There will be communication by letter. Yet, young couples go on fondly imagining that they can lead lives of their own, free of the slightest in-law encroachment, favorable or otherwise.

The truth is that blood ties cannot and never will be disposed of by the simple tying of a marriage knot. Being so, it might be better were young couples more disposed to consider the girl's and man's family as a factor in happy marriage choice. A factor for future reckoning, anyway.

"My husband's family and mine are on the outs," tells Mrs. Devine. "So, he says neither my family nor his should come to the house. He doesn't like my family. I do not like his and never did. In spite of what he says about neither being allowed the house, he now plans to invite his family here.

"The reason he gives is that one of his family is willing to set him up in business and it will pay him to be friendly. I don't like the idea of my family keing kept out and his accepted. I don't think he should accept the business offer if it depends upon my having to entertain his family."

Right there is the argument to cinch the fact that blood ties were better recognized and compromised with. In emergencies it is always upon a member of the family one relies for assistance. It isn't to strangers one goes with his tale of financial woe, unless one has collateral to cover the emergency. Nor is it the stranger or friend who volunteers the helping hand. He, in turn, has his own family responsibility. So, for self-preservation sake, amicable in-law contact is desirable.

However, that is not the argument so much as the unalterable fact that no wife can pry her husband loose from the ties that bind him to his own flesh and blood. No husband can hope to effect a similar estrangement toward his wife's family. It simply cannot be done where any bond of family affection exists.

In-law interference is another problem. This one today has to do only with the premarriage, or early marriage, resolutions to eliminate in-law contact entirely by order of one or the other, or both of the young married partnership.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Probably Has Other Reasons.

"Dear Miss Blake: We work in the same office and the girl I like will only consider me as a business acquaintance. Please advise. PETER."

The girl must have other reasons than "business ethics" for such an attitude.

Young Sisters Show Talent with Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Two young sisters, Joan and Jeanne Halamicek, most recent phenomena of the child wonder class, gave a joint recital in Orchestra hall last night under the auspices of the Bohemian Woman's Civic club, the proceeds of the event going to the various Bohemian charities of Chicago.

Dark haired Joan is a violinist, blond Jeanne, a singer. Joan played such ambitious works as the Handel Sonata in E, Wieiawski's Second Concerto and "Souvenir de Moscou." Jeanne, equally well advanced in her musical development and with a voice of surprising resonance for one so young, sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from Saint-Saens' opera, "Samson and Delilah," and various groups of songs in English and Bohemian. At various times in the program they appeared together in songs with violin obbligato. Meanwhile their mother, Mme. Theresa Halamicek, was the accompanist for the entire program.

The audience was large and enthusiastic. Both the young artists are undoubtedly possessed of striking talent, by no means fully matured as yet and showing the need of several years' further careful study, but with gifts that if all goes well will repay the necessary work.

"I'M going, anyway"

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

Indian Hill Club Has First Golf Day for Women

Formal Openings Planned for End of Month.

lar social activities at this fashionable club are the Sunday buffet luncheons which always are well attended by the membership.

The Barrington Hills Country club, which has been open all winter on Saturdays and Sundays, will have its formal opening on Saturday, the 28th, and the Glenview Golf club, which also is open the year around, will have a dinner dance on the 28th.

The Exmoor Country club in Highland Park is opening its clubhouse today at noon, but the first dinner dance of the season will not be held until Saturday, June 11.

The old and fashionable Chicago Golf club in Wheaton has been open all winter and something special is being planned for Memorial day, or the Saturday before, but what it will be is not definite yet.

Janet Page Is Engaged.

All the north shore friends of the Joseph F. Page family, which moved from Winnetka to Bloomfield Hills, Mich., about 5 years ago, will be interested to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Page have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Pierre G. Fuger, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Edmund Delbos of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Miss Page comes to Winnetka frequently to visit the girls with whom she used to attend the North Shore Country Day school, and she and her fiancé are motoring over this weekend to be guests of Miss Evelyn Bouscaren for several days. Miss Page finished her studies at La Marjalaise school in Switzerland before making her debut a year ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Murray Peabody Brush, who have been in Chicago for a week's visit on their way across the country by motor to California, will start out today for the coast. They have been staying with their son-in-law and daughter, the John Lewis Cochrans of 1422 State parkway.

Mrs. Cochran gave a luncheon for her parents yesterday at the Casino, and last night the Cochrans and Dr. and Mrs. Brush had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Murray P. Brush Jr.

Dr. Brush recently resigned from the directorship of the Tome school in Maryland and has been appointed headmaster of the California Preparatory school at Covina.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo and their daughter, the pretty Ellen McAdoo, will be in Chicago for the Democratic convention next month. Miss McAdoo will be Mrs. Albert de Wolfe Erskine's house guest, but her parents will stop at one of the downtown hotels.

As for her plans for the rest of the summer, Mrs. Erskine says she'll be glad to pay a fine commission to any one who will rent her house at Desbarats for her.

If the house isn't rented Mrs. Erskine will occupy it later on in the season, and her son-in-law and daughter, the Paul Fenimore Coopers of Cooperstown, N. Y., and their two year old son will probably visit her. Mrs. Erskine is still enchanted with the insurance job she took about a year ago.

Fowler McCormicks Rent Country Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler McCormick have taken the Frank Whitings' house in Barrington for two years and they will be out there most of the summer, although they are planning to go to the seashore for part of the warm weather. They will keep open their Drake Tower apartment so they can stay in town when it is not convenient to be in the country.

The Whitings, who also have rented their Delaware place apartment, are still in the house in Winnetka at 487 Ash street, into which they moved last fall when they left their Barrington residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wheeler, who returned recently to Chicago after an absence of several years during which time they resided in Pittsburgh, have taken an apartment at 73 East Elm street.

Miss Janet Marshall, daughter of the John C. Marshalls of Hubbard Woods, has been elected president of the varsity dramatics board at Bryn Mawr college, where she is a member of the class of '33. Miss Marshall also is news editor of the College News, the weekly publication at Bryn Mawr, and she recently was awarded the first Evelyn Hunt scholarship for general excellence in scholastic work.

A. Kingman Douglass and John R. Winterbotham are in charge of arrangements for the annual banquet of the Chicago Hill club to be given on May 24 at the Casino. Head Master and Mrs. James I. Wendell of the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa., are coming to Chicago for the banquet, accompanied by Dr. Alfred G. Rolfe and Charles Lowe Swift, masters at the school.

The Chicago boys being graduated this year from Hill are Theodore S. Proxmire Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire of Lake Forest; Chauncey J. Blair, son of Chauncey B. Blair and Mrs. Marshall Blair of New York; Ralph S. Longstaff Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Longstaff of Lake Forest; John I. Marshall Jr., son of Mrs. John I. Marshall of Highland Park; William H. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Morgan of Glencoe; James T. Peirce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Peirce of Winnetka, and Joseph E. Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Joseph Rich of Evanston.

Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy will open her garden at 1558 Ridge avenue, Evanston, tomorrow for a plant sale sponsored by the Garden club. A simple buffet luncheon will be served. The sale is prompted by a desire to carry on the exchange of plants from gardens of members and to give the usual buyers an opportunity to purchase the plants which the growers have raised in anticipation of the annual market which the club has decided to cancel for this year.

Girls to Make Second Debut.

In the mail yesterday came an invitation reading as follows: "Mr. Howard Levansellaer Willett Jr. requests the pleasure of ——— presence on Saturday, June 4th, at 10 o'clock in the evening, a debut-reception and ball, 2130 Lincoln Park West. To reintroduce Miss Jane Willett and Miss Helen LaChance. R. S. V. P."

Can you imagine my astonishment and wonderment? It was too fantastic, thought I, but after I had talked to Jane Willett I decided that the girls were very smart to have planned another debut party, and that their party would add much to the gayety of—not nation, but of the younger set in which they "play around."

When they were introduced by their parents in the fall of 1930 no doubt the parties were planned by their mothers and everything was done as Mrs. Willett and Mrs. LaChance wanted it done; now the girls will show their mothers how they think a debut should be managed. Miss Willett made her debut at a tea in the Willetts' penthouse, where the second debut party is to be given, on Sept. 30, 1930, and Miss LaChance was presented at a breakfast-dance at the Drake on Thanksgiving day that season.

Mr. Willett Jr. will bring some of his classmates at the Harvard Business school home with him when he comes, about the first of June, so there will be some new beaux for the "stag" line, without which no ball today is complete.

Miss LaChance, who is just back from the LaChances' ranch in Glendora, Cal., where Miss Willett visited here this winter and where this second debut party was "cooked up," is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leandre H. LaChance of the Belmont hotel.

The only other girl I ever heard of who made two debuts in the same city—fortunate ones whose families have connections in more than one place often are introduced in two cities—was a girl in a southern city who made her debut the season after she finished at a well known eastern school, was married, divorced, took back her maiden name and made another debut the next season!

Rodeo Plans Arranged.

James Minotto's business here is completed and the rodeo for the Century of Progress is all set, with Mr. Minotto as master of ceremonies! The details are in the hands of Richard Merchant of Carlsbad, N. M., and Mr. Minotto and Mr. Merchant promise that they are going to show Chicagoans and the visitors to the exposition the finest rodeo ever staged. It is to be held from Aug. 25 to Sept. 10 next summer in Soldiers' field, two performances daily, and there are to be all sorts of special features, including local equestrian exhibitions and special days for each of the western states.

The worst bucking broncbos that can be found and Brahman cattle from the plains of southwest Texas will be imported, along with roughriding cowboys and cowgirls.

Mr. and Mrs. Minotto plan to return to their Arizona ranch early next week, and they will go to Santa Barbara July 1 for the summer. This will be the first summer Mrs. Minotto has not spent in Lake Forest at "Westleigh," the estate of her father, Louis F. Swift, but she felt that it would be nice to take her family to the seashore for a change. She says her father is not planning to sell the estate, however, and that she and Mr. Minotto and their daughter and son probably will be there the summer of the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Charles McCabe of the Edgewater Beach apartments are being congratulated on the birth of their first son on May 11 at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. McCabe was formerly Miss Helen Rogan.

Miss Theodosia Smith, daughter of Mrs. Theodore White Smith of Chicago and Pasadena, and Miss Lillian Dudley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley of 179 Lake Shore drive, enjoyed the experience of playing extra roles recently in "Huddle," a college football film starring Ramon Novarro. Miss Dudley was visiting the Smiths at Pasadena this winter when both girls were induced to go to Hollywood by some young college men who acted as technical advisers for the picture. They appear in a ballroom setting for a fraternity dance. Both girls are popular in Chicago society. Miss Dudley is in Bermuda at present with her aunt, Mrs. Fred Rounds of Pasadena.

Two One-Man Shows Praised by Art Critic

Frank Dudley, Stark Davis Display Works.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Frank V. Dudley in the Hoosier gallery, 211 West Wacker drive, has a gorgeous one man show of recent paintings and Stark Davis, another well known Chicago painter, offers an equally brilliant one man show of recent work in the Carson, Pirie, Scott galleries.

Mr. Dudley is familiar to a wide audience through his vivid interpretation of the dunes, an interpretation which has grown with the years and never staled. His present exhibit includes a number of dune landscapes. Two of the most sparkling dune portraits are "Among the Drifted Sands" and "The Work of the Winds."

Mr. Dudley has proved himself repeatedly a master in the craft of flower painting. He surpasses former canvases, perhaps, in his "Butterfly Weed" and "Lupine," two paintings in which the flowers and background yield a perfect whole. His little still life, "Bittersweet and Gentian," is exquisite, a gem. Water as well as sand is a favorite theme of the artist and he has given his passion full scope by depicting the lake in various moods and from various points. "The Drifting Clouds" is particularly fine. "Restless Waters" is beautifully handled. "Off Duneland Shores" is a tender, blue summer glimpse of lake and sky and sailing skiff.

Stark Davis, only last fall swore never to paint again. Disbelief on the part of his audience followed his statement and is at length justified, because Mr. Davis has obviously [his current exhibit may be called as witness] broken his word and committed decorative painting to great purpose. Ornamental macaws, great, flaming birds, are his first love and ablest tools. He has wrought several magnificent pictures with their help. Bumblebees, insignificant toilers, have been called in to effect a smaller but piquant decoration. Two little canvases, the one of startled deer and the other of sober red flamingoes on a background of black water and sky, are among the choicest paintings.

This Stark Davis exhibit is exceptionally fine. It, and the Frank V. Dudley exhibit, are two current shows which on no account should be neglected. They are both well worth seeing. They will continue into June.

Blond Haired Sally Eilers Is Florists' Joy

Blossom Tributes Fill Her Rooms.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The other day I ran into a young woman I knew way back when her hair was a soft and charming natural blond. In the time that had elapsed she has gone bleached—pretty startlingly bleached.

"Well," she volunteered in explanation, "men notice me more now!"

The movie star dictators who dictate blond locks for their sirens probably know their audiences, the male half, anyway. Nor need we quarrel with them in front of a Sally Eilers, let's say, who was forced to change her auburn hair to a honey shade.

Our quarrel is with this particular phase of screen influence on girls who have not the necessary screen beauty equipment to withstand the color change. But we won't quarrel, since it is woman's own business and her individual right, we claim, to do what she pleases with her locks. And as our young friend says: "Well, men notice me more."

Somebody is always starting a train of thought with me, however, on this changing the locks business. Sally Eilers just happened to be the latest one to do it. I found her, one recent day, done up in a gay little green and tan Chinese pajama costume, serving tea in her hotel apartment.

There is no question that blond hair and large, rich hued brown eyes are a stunning combination. To this Miss Eilers further contributes a brilliantly clear skin, fine white teeth, 110 pounds of perfectly distributed weight and a gay, exuberant young spirit.

The floral rewards alone to a young screen luminary riding on a high popular wave would seem reward enough to the likes of you and me. Fancy getting more flowers than you could accommodate in vase or room! Roses, more roses, and still more roses; lilies of the valley; white lilacs; assorted spring flowers in box and basket! Mantel, large table, small tables, and end tables flanked with them. The floor accommodating more.

And Sally flitting in and out, dashing here and there, resting for a moment on couch, on straight back and club chair—like nothing so much as a brilliantly colored young butterfly imbibing the joy of the moment. In Miss Eilers' case it's the fame that comes with a ten strike on the screen.

MOTHER protect his baby nose!

DON'T use harsh, unsanitary handkerchiefs! Doctors advise
KLEENEX Disposable Tissues

MOTHER, surely you wouldn't use a partly soiled handkerchief for baby. Not since Kleenex has been made so wonderfully inexpensive.

Baby skin is so sensitive. And the nasal passages are so susceptible to infection. A slight infection which a healthy grown-up would hardly notice, may prove fatal to a baby.

So take the simple precaution of using always a fresh Kleenex Tissue for baby's handkerchiefs, bibs and napkins. This sanitary habit not only protects your child, but saves a lot of washing.

GIFTS OF LILAC BLOOMS BRING JOY TO HUNDREDS

BY PAUL POTTER.

Hundreds of patients in Chicago hospitals and people in charitable institutions were cheered yesterday by gifts of fragrant lilacs, freshly picked from the gardens of commuters along the Illinois Central and Burlington railroads. Truckloads of the blooms were distributed by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE on the first of the two lilac days in the metropolitan area.

Declaring that the giving of the luxuriant blooms not only gave the donors and the confined folk of the city untold pleasures but aided the lilac bushes in developing more blossoms another season, T. V. Purcell, president of the guild, arranged to gather more lilacs at five loop locations this morning.

To Deliver Flowers Today.

Suburbanites were asked to deliver their boxes of flowers or bouquets at the guild booths in the North Western, La Salle Street, and Aurora and Elgin stations this morning. Two chapters of the guild with employés of public utility companies as members also will maintain booths today in the Commonwealth Edison and People's Gas buildings.

Huge boxes and baskets of red, blue, lavender, and white lilacs were distributed by nurses and internes to each bedside in the tuberculosis and children's wards of Cook county hospital. Supt. Matthew Zimmer said that, with more than 2,700 patients in the county hospital, the cheering effect of flowers was especially needed this spring. Patients forgot their troubles and chatted joyously as the bouquets were distributed and the sweet scent of lilacs filled the wards.

In Other Institutions.

Other institutions where lilac day was a pleasurable reality yesterday were the Illinois Ear and Eye infirmary, 904 Adams street; Hull house visiting nurse station, 800 South Halsted street; Madonna settlement, 712 Loomis street; Women's and Children's hospital, 1606 Maypole avenue; Research and Educational hospital, 1819 Polk street; the Gad's Hill visiting nurses, 1919 Cullerton street, and the Chicago Lighthouse for Blind, 3323 22d street. In many instances nurses and welfare workers carried bouquets to shutins in tenement homes.

Among those to deliver large boxes of Persian lilacs and tulips at the Union station was Mrs. Joy Morton of Wheaton. Mrs. F. W. Rawcliffe, 4533 Stanley avenue, Downers Grove, offered all the lilac blooms from her 150 feet of bushes. Neighbors and guild workers obtained a truckload without hurting the bushes.

Guild chairmen who will be in charge of the North Western station booth today are: Mrs. R. F. Dressler, Wheaton; Mrs. Frank W. Kingsley, Evanston, and Mrs. Fred A. Record, Barrington. At the Aurora and Elgin station will be Mrs. Frank B. Gray, Geneva, and Mrs. A. H. Harrison, Deerfield, while Mrs. H. E. Wulfing, 10500 Hoyne avenue, will collect the flowers at La Salle street station.

Present Resolution to Fireman for Bravery

Fireman Irving Strom of inhalator squad 8, winner of THE TRIBUNE hero prize for April, 1931, for heroism in the sanitary district tunnel disaster, yesterday received an engraved copy of the resolution adopted by the city council commending him for his rescue work. Strom, who lives at 11022 Vernon avenue, risked his life in descending a number of times into the tunnel to rescue trapped laborers. Ten lives were lost and 154 men were injured when fire trapped laborers and rescuers in the tunnel under construction at 22d and Laflin streets on April 13, 1931.

ALLEGE DRY AGENTS 'PLANTED' BOTTLE TO INCRIMINATE DALE

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18.—[Special.]—Federal undercover agents were prepared to manufacture evidence against Mayor George R. Dale and ten other defendants in the Muncie liquor conspiracy case, according to testimony introduced before Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell, as the defense opened this afternoon.

Bernie Morgan, Muncie mechanic, testifying as an impeachment witness against Fred Bohlinger, ace informer for the department of justice, declared that Bohlinger had invited him to plant a bottle of liquor in the car of a Muncie policeman, "because the government doesn't care what kind of evidence we get, so long as it sticks the fellows we're after." The policeman involved was Harry Nelson, one of the defendants.

A second witness, John McFadden, aged Muncie tailor, gave similar impeaching testimony against Herschell Rose, partner of Bohlinger in the federal employ.

A few morsels of scandal were dished up for the jury today as the government closed its case.

Fifteen final witnesses, including several Muncie Republican leaders and a couple of Democrats of the faction opposing the mayor, took the stand to tell all concerning a drinking bout staged during the 1930 convention of the Democratic state central committee in the Claypool hotel here. Testimony concerning a heap of lingerie and a mysterious locked bathroom enlivened the proceedings.

DISRESPECT FOR LAW PERILS U. S., SAYS WILKERSON

If Statute Is Bad Alter It, He Urges.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson said at a meeting of the Inland Daily Press association in the Morrison hotel yesterday that the people cannot expect proper enforcement of the law by courts and public officers unless there is a "strong, awakened public sentiment demanding law enforcement."

JUDGE WILKERSON

Judge Wilkerson, who sentenced Al Capone to prison and whose appointment to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals is being considered by the senate, said the nation faces a critical situation of general disrespect of law. He told the editors that the greatest agency for forming public opinion and encouraging law enforcement is the press.

He denounced "the sensational press" which he charged with "glorifying the criminal, coddling him and toadying to him." He mentioned as two instances the Lindbergh case and Capone, whom he referred to as "a defendant who appeared in my court." He said he believed in the freedom of the press, but did not think that freedom should be abused.

"A popular government cannot endure unless the people observe and respect its laws," Judge Wilkerson said. "If the people cease to have regard for the laws which they have made, either anarchy or a dictatorship will ensue.

"If we have enacted unwise laws let us set about the work of correction in an orderly way. But let us recognize that obedience to law is the basic condition without which popular government cannot endure.

"Above all else, let us realize that it is not for you and me to select the laws which we choose to obey. If we claim that privilege for ourselves, we must grant it to others. When we do that there is no security for life or property. It citizens do their duty, public opinion will demand that legislatures, courts, and public officers perform theirs equally well."

METHODISTS PUT BAN ON WOMEN IN CONFERENCES

Denied Equal Rights with Men in Ministry.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 18.—(AP)—The Methodist general conference tonight refused to admit women to equal standing with men in the ministry of its church.

After a two and a half hour debate the conference by vote of 417 to 331 vetoed the amendment which would permit women, married or single, to become members of annual conferences with the same status as ordained ministers.

The present regulations admit women to local orders, under which they are permitted to administer baptism, marriage, and the sacrament of the Lord's supper and to preach. They are not admitted to annual conferences and can attend general conferences only as lay delegates.

Status Is Explained.

The difference between the status of a woman in local orders and a minister of the annual conference is that a conference member is virtually guaranteed a pastoral charge, while a woman preacher is not.

The conference is responsible for the maintenance of its members, but not its "supply" or substitute preachers, as women in local orders are designated.

Miss Florence Resor of Buhl, Minn., urged that women be given equal ministerial rights not as a matter of economics but of social justice.

Opposes Women in Pulpits.

The victorious opposition centered its arguments on the fact that the marriage and maternity of a woman preacher interfere with her pastoral duties and that few churches would accept a woman pastor.

Col. Joseph J. Shy of Chillicothe, Mo., speaking against ecclesiastical equality for women, remarked: "Six days out of seven I must listen to a woman preaching in my home. And on the seventh day the Lord says, 'Thou shalt rest.' It seems to me there are things higher and nobler for a woman than gallivanting around filling pulpits."

The fourteenth ballot cast for the election of two new bishops showed no definite change in the semi-deadlocked condition that existed all day. The results:

J. Ralph Magee, Seattle, 329; L. O. Hartman, Boston, 259; J. M. M. Gray, Detroit, 217; R. S. Cushman, Rochester, 207; G. B. Oxnam, Greencastle, Ind., 206; W. E. Shaw, Peoria, Ill., 69; A. E. Day, Pittsburgh, 48; L. C. Wright, Cleveland, 141.

Dr. Oxnam, president of DePauw university, withdrew his name from the balloting after the results were announced.

The conference voted to adjourn its final session at 12:30 p. m. next Wednesday.

MOVE TO ABOLISH ALL FIRST CLASS POSTMASTERS

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Congressional reaction to the recent speech of Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, in which he demanded that postmasters campaign for President Hoover or tender their resignations, crystallized today in a bill introduced by Representative Melvin Maas [Rep., Minn.] calling for the abolition of all first class postmasterships.

REP. MELVIN J. MAAS. [Harris & Ewing.]

Quoting Mr. Glover's speech as evidence, Representative Maas asserted in submitting his proposal that "these offices as administered at present are 99 per cent political and 1 per cent public service.

"They are political patronage for the sake of rewarding party workers and their main function is campaigning for the party, principally for presidential candidates."

Pointing out that the "actual work" in postoffices throughout the country is done by "the assistant postmaster or superintendent of mails, who is an actual civil service employé," Mr. Maas asserted that elimination of the political positions would save ten million dollars a year in salaries.

Commission Merchant Held to Jury in Narcotic Case

Samuel G. Houston, 40 years old, president of S. Houston & Son, commission merchants at 157 South Water Market, yesterday waived examination and was held to the grand jury in bond of $1,000 by United States Commissioner Walker on a charge of violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act. Houston is alleged to have been involved in the sale of opium worth $3,000 to investigators. He was arrested May 6.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles no matter how stubborn the case?

Prices Record-breakingly Low!

Never in Goodyear experience—never in all tire history—have the prices of Goodyear Tires been as low as they are today. Don't try to guess them by what you last paid for tires. They're 50% lower than they were five years ago—30% lower than in 1929. And your money today buys the handsomest, toughest, longest-wearing Goodyear All-Weather ever built. Think of that, and ask yourself: Why buy any second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more!

The difference in SAFETY is about 10,000 Miles

ANYONE who gives a little thought to non-skid safety must quickly conclude that there are only two kinds of tire treads.

It is interesting to note in this connection that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

THEY must find by experience that center traction makes Goodyear Tires safer — but you might like to ask "how much?"

You can draw your own conclusions, but it looks to us as if this made Goodyears 10,000 miles safer than other tires.

There seem to be several million motorists like yourself who have reached the same conclusion, because Goodyear Tires are first choice by millions.

If you want extra safety in the next tires you buy, just ask yourself one question: Why buy a second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more?

Why be satisfied with a second-choice tire when FIRST-choice costs no more!

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 18.—The Boston Red Sox celebrated their first 1932 victory on their home field this afternoon by nosing out the White Sox, 13 to 10. The game ended after the Sox had made three runs in the ninth and had the bases full in a rally which was made mysterious by the fact that Manager Lew Fonseca sacrificed with one out, two on, and the tying run at the plate.

As per daily custom, the White Sox Alumni association figured in the affair. Bob Weiland, class of '31, was the winning pitcher, though he did not finish; and Smead Jolley, class of '32, made four singles and a double in five trips to the plate. Weiland held the Sox to four hits in the six innings he worked, but he was removed when he issued his sixth walk with none out in the seventh.

Five Pitchers Assailed.

Five White Sox pitchers were caught in a shower of eighteen hits, of which Benny Tate, class of '32, knocked two. Faber, Thomas, Gregory, Fieber, and Caraway were the Chicago pitchers. Faber was the losing pitcher, and next to him among the sufferers was Pat Caraway, who underwent the greatest of pitching embarrassments, a balk with the bases full.

Today's slipshod affair put the White Sox one game under the .500 mark in their oft interrupted eastern invasion. They won one game and lost two in Washington, lost one in Philadelphia and one in New York, and had whipped the Red Sox three straight prior to this afternoon's colapse.

It was the fifth victory of the season for the Red Sox and the first for Weiland. The Red Sox previously had won two games on the road and two Sunday encounters here at Braves' field.

Sox Score Early.

The Chicago Sox jumped off to a two run lead in the first inning several minutes after the side should have been retired. After Funk had been thrown out by Wieland, Selph walked. Seeds sent a grounder to McManus and Marty tagged Selph, but with a cinch double play before him, made a wild throw to first. Kress then rolled to Rhyne and Hal threw the ball away, Seeds reaching third and Kress second. Blue doubled to left center, scoring Seeds and Kress.

Only half the Chicago lead lasted through the first inning. McManus walked with one out, and after Funk had made a nice running catch of Webb's drive, Jolley beat out an infield single which put McManus on second. Pickering doubled to left, McManus scoring and Jolley stopping at third. Reder ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then tapped to Faber.

The Red Sox in the third took the lead for the first time in the series. Oliver beat out a slow bouncer to Blue and was sacrificed to second by McManus, whence he scored on Webb's single to left. Jolley singled to center, putting Webb on third. Kress, too zealous for a double play, booted Pickering's grounder, Webb scoring, Jolley reaching second, and Pickering first. The runners moved up while Faber was throwing out Reder and died when Selph threw out Rhyne.

Rout Faber in Fifth.

In the fifth the Bostons drove Faber to shelter. McManus beat out a single to deep short. Webb fouled to Berry. Jolley then knocked his third successive hit, a double which put McManus on third. Pickering walked, filling the bases. Then Reeder beat out a bouncer to Selph, McManus scoring and injuring himself to the extent he had to be assisted from the field. Rhyne singled to left, scoring

DECISION IS O. K., BUT K. O. IS WHAT BILLY, BAT WANT

Wistort Replaces Dokter on Stadium Card.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Featured fighters at the Stadium this season have worked all the ten rounds assigned them. There have been no knockouts except in the supporting matches.

However, the chances are at least even that Billy Petrolle and Christopher [Bat] Battalino will end this streak and in so doing will provide one of the outstanding battles of the year. Battalino failed to finish the 12th and last round in his fight with Petrolle in New York. Over ten rounds Battalino believes he not only will defeat Petrolle, but knock him out.

Petrolle hasn't said just what he believes will be the result tomorrow night, except to express complete confidence in his ability to win. Battalino's only knockout came in the last of his 53 professional fights. At that it was a technical knockout. Petrolle twice in the early days of his eight year career has been put down for the ten count.

Both Can Punch.

Each of the lightweights possesses a knockout punch. Battalino has knocked out 14 opponents; Petrolle has knocked out 43 of his 112 opponents.

The Stadium's list of decision fights is the more remarkable because the majority of the bouts have been between heavyweights, who customarily are supposed to swing with lethal power. Of course, a knockout is not necessary to prove superiority, nor does its absence detract from a contest. Consider the night Young Stribling struggled up from the floor to continue for the remainder of the ten rounds against Ernie Schaaf. Or Mickey Walker on the floor in the first round against King Levinsky, and eventually winning the decision.

Although both finalists tomorrow night are from out of town, which certainly handicaps their drawing power at the box office, and although both are Italians, which eliminates the racial angle, Stadium officials yesterday believed the bout will draw 15,000. Nate Lewis, naturally optimistic, set the figure at 15,000.

Plenty Tickets Left.

Approximately 5,500 tickets already have been sold. These are divided as follows: Three thousand $1 tickets; 500 $2 tickets, and 2,000 $5 tickets. Definite announcement was made that no standing room tickets will be put on sale, as was the practice for the Dempsey-Levinsky and Walker-Levinsky bouts. Instead the number of $1 and $2 tickets has been increased. Approximately 500 of the cheapest seats remained unsold last night, while there were nearly 6,000 $2 tickets left.

It is believed the last day's sale will approach the mark set when Earl Mastro fought Battalino. On the day of that championship scrap $20,000 was taken in. There are 5,146 top price seats for tomorrow night. That 2,000 of these have been sold, officials say, proves the fight will draw at least 13,000.

Wistort Replaces Dokter.

Pete Wistort, South Chicago heavyweight, was substituted yesterday for Joe Dokter on the supporting card. Wistort will meet Tony Cancela in six rounds. Dokter fought Young Stribling Monday night and the Illinois commission invoked the five day rule and refused to permit him to fight here. The rule provides that at least five days must elapse between appearances. Although Solly Dukelsky, who meets Kelly Kulac in the opener tomorrow evening, boxed Monday night at White City, no change was ordered, probably because Dukelsky is scheduled for only four rounds.

Baxter Calmes was offered the Cancela bout, but he declined because he was not in the best of condition.

Since Wistort and Cancela will fight six rounds, the west side featherweights, Paul Dazzo and Sammy Levine, have been asked to go six rounds instead of four. The one-third increase in salary was quite acceptable.

Petrolle finished his ring workouts yesterday with the usual four rounds, two against Jimmy Lundy and two more with Jackie Davis. Battalino did not box, but he unlimbered at Trafton's gymnasium. Bat will play 36 holes of golf today while Petrolle will rest until the fight.

Detroit Plays Sox Tomorrow on South Side

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 18.—The White Sox will arrive in Chicago tomorrow night, in time for a good night's sleep before encountering the Tigers, who will stick around for three days and will play the Sox' first double header Sunday.

The Sox have met the Tigers four times this season. The Tigers won the first, 10 to 9; lost the second, 4 to 3; won the third, 5 to 3; and the fourth, 8 to 7. Three scheduled contests were postponed.

The Indians will follow the Tigers for three days before the Sox again hit the road. Pat Caraway beat the Indians, 5 to 1, in the first meeting of the season, on April 16, and the Indians have taken the seven games played since that date.

Gaston's feat of starting four double plays yesterday, three involving a play at the plate, sent chroniclers to the records in the belief Milt had set an all-time mark. He probably did, but all available books show only season records relating to pitchers' participation in double plays. The record for a season is 12, made by Eddie Rommel in 43 games in 1924, Burleigh Grimes figured in 11 in 33 games with Brooklyn in 1925.

Faber didn't have very good luck against the Red Sox last year, either. He lost three of the twelve the White Sox dropped to the Bostonians. MacFayden was his adversary each time.

The south side fans are going to like Elias Funk. He hits pretty well and is a great little fly chaser.

Mrs. Wills Sails to Join Tennis Star in London

San Francisco, Cal., May 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clarence Wills, mother of Helen Wills Moody, America's tennis star, today sailed for Europe to join her daughter, who is now in London to compete in several tournaments. Mrs. Wills said she will remain with Mrs. Moody until the end of the European tennis season.

In the Wake of the News

ALL-TIME SOX.

VARIOUS readers of the genus fan have been agreeing and disagreeing over personnel of an All-Time Cub team. This brings a protest from Helper Jay Dee Cee who asserts he can name an All-Time White Sox squad which could smite all the Cub teams ever picked. Perhaps he is right. At least, there is nothing to prevent him from still thinking so, since no such meeting can be arranged. Here is what he says:

"Nothing that Cub fans may offer in the way of an All-Time Cub team can compare even remotely with the pick of All-Time White Sox favorites. Just conjure up visions of Ed Walsh, Red Faber [the Red of 1917], and Eddie Cicotte alternating on the pitcher's slab with Ray Schalk, greatest receiver of them all, as catcher.

"Then go on with Hal Chase, king of first basemen; Eddie Collins, acknowledged ace of the keystone sack; Ralph Kress of today's Sox at short; Buck Weaver rounding out the infield at third.

"And pause sadly in the journey down Memory Lane while you picture an outfield of Joe Jackson, Happy Felsch, and Fielder Jones. All-star Cubs, eh? Don't make me laugh. Yours in sorrowful retrospection."

Certainly those named here, if playing contemporaneously, would have made a great outfit. The Wake's enthusiasm, however, is tempered somewhat by the fact that several mentioned were figures in the "Black Sox" scandal of 1919, and one other was mentioned in another questionable case of baseball honesty.

New York, May 18.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, first man up in the tenth inning, capped a brilliant pitching performance by Henry Johnson with his seventh home run of the season and the Yankees won, 3 to 2, over Cleveland today. Johnson, making his first start of the year after being held back by an appendicitis operation, gave only six hits and fanned a dozen batsmen.

ABO, Finland, May 18.—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi, Finland's great distance runner, and Miss Sylvi Laaksonen were married today at a private ceremony attended only by relatives and close friends. The wedding climaxed a friendship of many years. Miss Laaksonen said she would not object to Paavo's continuing his running career.

Nurmi at present is under suspension by the International Athletic federation on a charge of having accepted excessive expense money. An effort is being made to obtain his reinstatement in order that he may compete for Finland in the Olympic games at Los Angeles this summer.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Phillies are dandy little Samaritans on certain days. They were in that mood yesterday. They presented the Cubs with a neat package of errors and the league leaders mixed these in with their hits to concoct a 6 to 4 victory in the final of the home stay. It was the Quaker City team's third straight presentation in their four day stay, and gave the Cubs a record of eight wins and four defeats while playing host to the four eastern members of the circuit.

In holding the enemy down to enough runs to make the day a success, Guy Bush, the swarthy Mississippian, put his third consecutive triumph in the season's ledger. Bush, pitching curves and fast balls and then slowing down, as is his fashion, was skillful enough to dodge manhandling in all except one inning. That was the sixth, when with two on bases because of a numbskull play in the home defense, the overpowering Chuck Klein hoisted his seventh homer of the year into the seats.

Benge Good—for a While.

Ray Benge, one of Bert Shotton's most stylish pitchers, started against the Cubs and set a pace that was too stiff even for himself. For four innings he held himself even with Bush, but in the fifth the bats of Grimm, Richbourg and Moore, which were active all afternoon, caused such commotion that the Phils began perpetrating the usual blunders of omission and commission. Four runs scored where there should have been only one.

Another storm blew up on Benge in the sixth and he was hastily removed after one run had scored. His place was taken by Hal Elliott, an ex-Philly who has been pleading for another chance. He was frisked for a run in the eighth, but just the same showed enough to warrant a place on the pay roll.

The fourth inning rolled around before either faction came through with its second hit. Whitney scratched a single to English behind third after Hurst had struck out. A lightning double play started by Herman fixed up this situation. With one out in the Cubs' portion Moore hoisted to right center. Brickell and Klein did one of those "after you, my dear sir" acts and the ball plunked to the ground. Brickell picked it up and let loose with a throw to first, but Hurst wasn't looking for anything like that. The ball rolled to the stand and Moore dashed to second but no assistance was forthcoming.

Grimm opened the fifth with a hit about which there was no mistake. It was a line drive that almost blew the button off Benge's cap. Jurges sacrificed, Bush tapped to Benge and Grimm started for third. Benge tried to run down Grimm and then threw to Whitney, but Grimm slid into the bag safely. The Phils caused a slight delay by howling over the decision and when the show was resumed Richbourg singled to right to score Grimm. Herman bounced to Friberg and Bartell, in his haste to make a double play, juggled the throw, filling the bases. Bush ran home on English's fly and Moore's double to center scored Richbourg and Herman.

Arrangements for Klein's homer which poured three runs over the plate in the sixth began with a pass to Brickell. Bartell bounced to Bush, who wanted to throw to second, but the bag was uncovered. Bush could have turned and thrown to first in ample time, but didn't think of it. He waited until Jurges could move toward second and then tossed the ball, but Brickell was already on the bag. Then Klein, after taking one strike, slashed his drive into the right field seats.

Elliott Dashes to Rescue.

Regardless of what How Tiz, a bay gelding by Supremus Howdy, may do after he lands over at Washington Park, it must be conceded that he has been mighty good to the Doyle family. In winning his third straight race at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon he was forced to shoulder lots of weight and overcome a bungling ride to beat Jim Ormont and Southland Belle to the wire.

The first time How Tiz raced this spring at the Cicero course he came bouncing home at odds of nearly 45 to 1. His victory was considered something in the nature of a fluke, but when he won at the second asking, paying nearly 6 to 1, the boys began to take notice. Packing 122 pounds yesterday he received considerable backing, but paid his backers $9.24 for each $2 ticket.

Diaquiri Romps Home.

How Tiz was performing in the fourth race, one of those affairs for horses either bred in this state or owned by residents of Illinois. It was his third triumph in such an event.

In the main attraction the public backed Diaquiri almost off the boards for the La Grange purse, a dash at about five furlongs. The bay filly jumped into the lead and romped all the way to win. She stepped the distance in :58 3-5, beating a new track record established in the opener by Hot Time.

Doubles Pool Is $12,564.

Official figures showed that $12,564 was wagered on the daily double by a 9,000 crowd. One hundred and thirty-eight tickets were sold on Harold Jr. and American Thunder, the winners, and they paid off at $85.12. This pool set a record for daily double play in Illinois.

Jockey George Seabo, who rode Joe Patsie, was held responsible for roughing in the second race and fined $50 by the stewards.

Hot Time, now 9 years old, retains some of his former speed. He established a new mark for five furlongs in the first race, which he negotiated in :59 2-5, lowering the record of Martha D. The son of High-Time-Tuscan Red was driving to the limit at the finish to beat Don Worthington by a neck. Vanity Case came along at the end and won the small portion of the purse. Hot Time was the favorite at 8 to 5.

Harold Jr. Battles Through.

Harold Jr., victim of hard luck in his last previous endeavor, was forced to overcome considerable interference before he could wear down his opponents in the second race. After McLaren got into the clear, however, the son of the famous Chilhowee settled into his stride and drew away from Billy Buford, an outsider, and Joe Patsie, which was well backed. Harold Jr. was a slight favorite at post time.

The closest finish of the meeting came in the third race, second half of the daily double. It took the official placing to separate the first four horses. The award went to American Thunder, with Jaqueline Coogie second, Marjorie Nell third, and Chief's Camille fourth. The latter went to the front soon after the break and remained there most of the way, tiring only in the last few jumps. American Thunder also tired and was lucky to withstand the rush of Jacqueline Coogie and Marjory Nell.

N. U. GOLFER GETS HOLE IN ONE, BUT OHIO WINS MATCH

Paul MacDonald, Northwestern university golfer, who also is center on the football team, shot a hole in one in the Northwestern-Ohio State match which was won by the Buckeyes, 10½ to 7½ yesterday at the Westmoreland Country club. MacDonald scored the ace on the 17th hole, which is 154 yards. The summaries:

Damaske and MacDonald, Northwestern, beat Kepler and Fiorio, 2½ to 1½; Garber and Berry, Ohio State, beat Casper and Whitaker, Northwestern, 2 to 1; Damaske, Northwestern, beat Kepler, Ohio State, 2½ to ½; Fiorio, Ohio State, beat Whitaker, Northwestern, 2½ to ½; Berry, Ohio State, beat Casper, Northwestern, 2 to 1; Garber, Ohio State, beat MacDonald, 3 to 0.

RAYMOND DALE suffered some interference and ran a good race.

WAR SAINT headed HOT SHOT in the first quarter and, racing the latter into defeat, had enough left to win handily. BLUE DAY was in stride contention the entire running, but saved enough of the last quarter and finished fast. OUTER HARBOR was also going gamely at the end. HIS LAST got up in time to beat HOT SHOT. Latter tired badly in last furlong. ALTMARK and BURGOO weakened in the stretch.

*Apprentice. Time, :24 2-5, :49, 1:14 3-5, 1:40 3-5, 2:00. Two dollar mutuels paid: Starch, $16.02 straight, $7.42 place, $7.24 show; Who Win, $6.82 place, $5.26 show; Tiger Flowers, $4.82 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:51. At post 3 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

STARCH broke quickly and, taking a good lead soon after the start, was well rated in front and had enough left to withstand the closing challenge of WHO WIN, which moved up steadily on the back stretch and challenged in determined fashion in the final eighth but could not get up. TIGER FLOWERS raced well up throughout. CHIP made up ground in the stretch, but did not threaten the leaders.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Three year olds and up. Claiming. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by R. Scully. Went to post at 5:22. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same, wore down BEAUTY BRIDE in the stretch and, taking a short lead in the last fifty yards, had enough left to hold POPCORN. Latter met with some interference but finished fast. BEAUTY BRIDE opened up a long lead in the early running, but weakened near the end. THE SHOWOFF was in close quarters after going half the distance. CURTSEY tired.

INDIANA OR OHIO OR MICHIGAN—OR SOMEBODY ELSE

Big Ten Track Puzzle May Be Solved Tomorrow.

Ohio State or Indiana may win the Western conference track meet which opens tomorrow afternoon at Dyche stadium, Evanston, with the qualifying trials. But if either triumphs over Michigan it must get the maximum results from all its entrants.

The first five places in each of 16 events will figure in the team scoring. The winner can be predicted more easily after tomorrow's preliminaries, for it is possible that men who are counted upon may be eliminated in the trials. Cursory examination of the records of the contestants indicates Indiana might score as many as 59 points, Michigan 53, and Ohio State 53. But if one of these teams reaches maximum strength, as figured in advance, the others can not.

Coach Tom Jones, who will direct the Wisconsin team, defending champion, believes Ohio State will win its first track championship this year. There are some who think Indiana, victor by a fraction of a point over Michigan at the annual indoor games, may again nose out the Wolverines.

What Ohio Expects.

Information from Columbus, O., expressing the highest hopes of Ohio's coaches, Dr. Frank Castleman and Larry Snyder, bases a possible Buckeye triumph on the following results:

Quarter mile—Teitelbaum, second. Four points.
Half mile—No points.
Mile—Dille may get fifth. One point.
Two miles—No points.
High hurdles—Keller first; Black, fifth Six points.
Low hurdles—Keller, first. Five points.
Pole vault—Wonsowitz, first. Five points.
Shot put—No points.
Hammer throw—Johnson, third. Three points.
Javelin throw—Smith, third. Three points.
Broad jump—Wise, fifth. One point.
High jump—Russell, second. Four points.
Discus throw—Hochman, fifth. One point
Mile relay—Third. Three points.

Ohio State, in all probability, will not total 53 points. Bennett, whose best time for the 100 yards is only one-tenth of a second faster than that of Hal Thompton of Minnesota, may finish second. Fazekas might be pushed far down in the 220 yard dash by such runners as Renwick of Michigan, and Thompton. DeBaker of Michigan, Fuqua of Indiana, may outlast Teitelbaum in the quarter mile.

Competition Close.

And so on down the list. The pole vault is an open event. The best outdoor marks of five men are only two inches apart. Beecher, Indiana; Hess Minnesota, and Wonsowitz, Ohio, have cleared 13 feet 6 inches. Lennington of Illinois has vaulted 13 feet 5 inches and Hollingsworth of Purdue has cleared 13 feet 4 inches.

Five men in the javelin are within a few feet of each other. All have thrown the spear 180 feet. They are: Robinson, Illinois; Carson, Illinois; Smith, Ohio; Nelson, Iowa, and Novotny, Wisconsin. The high jump is equally as difficult to figure. Seven athletes have jumped 6 feet 1 inch or better and none has passed the 6 foot 3 inch mark.

All that has been said of Ohio State's chances is true of Michigan and Indiana, which makes this meet outstanding for interest.

The Champions?

220 YARD DASH—Bennett.
QUARTER MILE—Russell, Michigan.
HALF MILE—Turner, Michigan, or Hornbostel, Indiana.
MILE—Brocksmith, Indiana.
TWO MILES—Brocksmith.
HIGH HURDLES—Saling, Iowa, or Keller, Ohio State.
LOW HURDLES—Keller.
SHOT PUT—Munn, Minnesota. [Cook of Illinois a possibility.]
HAMMER THROW—Cox, Michigan, or Bidinger, Indiana.
JAVELIN THROW—Robinson, Illinois; Carson, Illinois, and Smith, Ohio State, have best marks. Robinson, 188 feet 5 inches; Carson, 186 feet 5½ inches; Smith, 186 feet 11½ inches. Novotny of Wisconsin won the triangular meet at Chicago with a mark of 183 feet 4½ inches.
BROAD JUMP—Brooks, Chicago.
HIGH JUMP—Shaw, Smith, and Murphy of Wisconsin; Russell, Ohio State, and Beecher, Indiana, in same class. Probably will end in a tie.
DISCUS THROW—Purma, Illinois, or Brooks, Michigan.

MOON MULLINS—A POPULAR KIND OF A RELATIVE

Asks Licenses for Cats to End Feline Menace

BY BOB BECKER.

Although sportsmen's groups in the middle west have said or done comparatively little about the question of licensing house cats, eastern organizations are aroused concerning the "menace of the house cat," as the system of letting the tabbies run wild without any tax upon them is described by various publications.

For years gamekeepers, bird fans, conservationists and others have established a battle line against house cats which are allowed to run wild and kill birds. Recently a more concerted movement to have the tame felines licensed has been started and many a "shell" is being dropped into the camp of the cat defenders. Perhaps the most far reaching indictment against the feline pets has been delivered by the American Medical Association Journal, which says that pet cats should be licensed and taxed as one of the more humane methods of limiting the large number of unwanted and unnecessary cats.

Some of the facts marshaled by the Medical Journal against the cat menace follow: An idea of the large number of cats running wild and preying upon birds may be obtained from the fact that the director of the Animal Rescue league of Boston has reported that his society handled 5,000 cats a month. A large number of cats!

New York is reported to register 2,000 complaints every month against the nightly howling of cats. Angry and sleepless citizens send in their complaints to the noise abatement commission of the city. To back up the contention that many house cats cease to be residents of homes and go into the fields, meadows, and woods to hunt birds, the experience of a Connecticut trapper is offered. This man owned a trap line for fur bearing animals. In the course of his winter's work he reported that he caught 38 cats in his traps.

Then there is the testimony of game breeders and conservationists on the activities of cats. One does not have to go east to obtain facts which show that house cats get along well in the outdoors.

At Yorkville, Ill., near the state game farm, the caretakers keep box traps set at all times to pick up the cats which try to get to the pheasants.

After presenting a strong case against the house cat the Medical Journal asks. Why not a tax of $5 on every female cat? There has been a tax on dogs for years. A cat tax would result in a thinning out of the cat population and would prove a blessing all around, says the journal.

ZACHARY GIVES BRAVES 5 TO 3 WIN OVER CARDS

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—(AP)—The Boston Braves pounded the St. Louis Nationals for 12 hits today to take the final game of the current series, 5 to 3. Tom Zachary limited the Cardinals to five safeties. Jesse Haines, who defeated the Phillies in his first start this season, lasted six innings against the Braves and was followed by Lindsey and then by Carleton. Berger got four hits. Score:

Jolley's Five Hits Defeat Sox, 13 to 10

Jolley and Pickering, Reder stopping at second. Faber was relieved by Thomas. Tate filed to Fothergill, but Weiland doubled to left, Reder scoring and Rhyne stopping at third. Oliver lined to Kress.

The Chicago Sox did a little business in the sixth. Kress walked and went to second on Blue's out. Fothergill then made the fourth Chicago hit, a single to center, which scored Kress. Fothergill scored on Appling's triple to right, but Berry fanned and Hodapp, batting for Thomas, grounded out to Rhyne.

Gregory got a swell greeting in the sixth. Olson singled to left and after Webb again had fouled to Berry in an attempted sacrifice, Jolley smacked his fourth consecutive hit, Olson stopping at second. Then Pickering slugged his second double, scoring Olson and Jolley. Reder walked, but Rhyne lined to Kress and Pickering was doubled off second.

Weiland Goes Away.

Weiland went away in the seventh after walking Funk and Selph. Moore came in and fanned Seeds, then walked Kress to fill the bases. Blue lined to Oliver who ran in and doubled Selph off second. Oliver's grand stand maneuver gave the White Sox a run for while he was coming in to second. Funk scored.

The Red Sox seventh offered the height of something or other for after Tate singled, Moore, long known as the most helpless hitter in baseball, walked. The runners moved up on Oliver's sacrifice and when Olson singled to center, Tate scored and Moore reached third. Fieber relieved Gregory and Webb fied to Fothergill. Jolley than came through with his fifth successive hit, a single to center, which scored Moore and put Olson on third. Pickering popped to Appling.

In the eighth inning the White Sox made two runs on a walk to Fothergill, singles by Appling and Berry and an infield out.

Pat Balks in Run.

Caraway didn't relieve the pressure much when he went in to pitch the eighth. He walked Reder and Rhyne, then Tate singled to right, Reder scoring and Rhyne stopping at second. Moore was called out on strikes, but the bases were full when Oliver beat out an infield roller. Olson fouled out, but a balk was called on Caraway, Rhyne scoring and the other runners moving up. Webb deprived Jolley of a chance to make it six hits in a row when he fouled to Berry.

The Sox made three runs in the ninth in a flurry featured by hits by Seeds, Blue, and Fothergill and an error by Rhyne. Manager Fonseca batted for Caraway with Appling on second and Berry on first and sacrificed, though three runs were needed to tie the score. The game ended shortly afterward.

This was where Elliott stepped in as first aid to Benge. He slipped over a third strike on Bush. A tap to Friberg put Richbourg out of the way, and Herman rolled to Whitney.

The powerful Mr. Klein was up again in the eighth, when the Phils exploded two hits for a run, but luckily for the Cubs, Klein had no part in this. Brickell led off with three strikes. Bartell aimed a single through short and this brought up Klein. Bush worked cautiously and, after two strikes, succeeded in making him bounce neatly to Grimm. Bartell went to second on this, and home a moment later on Hurst's single to left.

Hartnett drew a walk to start the home eighth. Grimm singled to center and Hartnett galloped to third.

GRIMES PITCHES TODAY

Manager Rogers Hornsby will lead his first place Cubs into Cincinnati this morning for the first of a four game set with the rising Rhinelanders. Burleigh Grimes is to have a chance in the opener. The Reds' pick probably will be Owen Carroll, the ex-Tiger.

William Veeck, president of the Cubs, made a hurried leap toward Washington, D. C., yesterday noon. It is supposed that Uncle Sam thinks the Chicago club owes him something on back income.

It wasn't Chuck Klein's fault that the day didn't net two homers instead of one. In the third he gave the ball a hard ride to right field but a high east wind blew it back so that Richbourg could grab it in front of the screen fence.

Sherwood [Red] MacKenzie, a young southpaw found by Hornsby last season and given to Los Angeles, only to have the Angels turn him back without a trial, has been sent to the Fort Wayne, Ind., team.

Who's Who in Women's Golf

By Betty Eckersall

[This is the eighth of a series of articles on prominent women golfers of the Chicago district.]

MRS. SAMUEL SHIPP.

Although Mrs. Samuel Shipp has been competing in Chicago district golf events for only six years she has won several championships. The first of these was the 1929 championship of the Mission Hills Country club, in which she defeated Priscilla Carver, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Shipp is the low handicap woman player of the Wilmette Golf club, and was runnerup to Mrs. E. A. Vedell for the club's championship last year. In 1925 Mrs. Shipp won the Indianapolis women's golf championship.

Mrs. Shipp was secretary of the Women's Golf Association of Indianapolis. She came to Chicago in 1926 and played at the Mission Hills club two years, after which she changed to Wilmette. She has been playing competitive golf for the last decade and intends to compete in the principal western and city meets this year.

Although she likes golf, Mrs. Shipp has another pastime which she rates above it. That's gardening.

"I never start playing golf in the spring until the garden work is completed. I adore it," she said yesterday. Here is Mrs. Shipp's description of her golf game.

"I hit a long tee shot, am fairly good on the fairways, and always manage to keep my score on the greens. I practice putting a great deal and though I have not been playing as much in the last two years as formerly, my game is rounding out quite nicely. If I turn in fairly consistent scores this year I am going to fulfill an ambition of mine, and enter the women's national championships at Salem, Mass., in September."

GERARD SHOOTS PAR 72 TO WIN DISTRICT GOLF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Jimmy Gerard, former captain of the University of Chicago golf team, won the first 1932 handicap event of teh Chicago District Golf association, held yesterday at the Calumet Country club. It took a par 72, composed of nines of 37 and 35, for Jimmy to beat out Art Sweet of Ridgemoor and Charles Baker of Midlothian, each of whom came home with 75s.

Low net went to Baker, who finished with a card of 75—5—70, while Sweet and L. G. Haldeman of Edgewater, who shot a 86—14—72 round, tied for second low net, the latter winning the prize on the toss of a coin.

65 Players Compete.

The event, the first of a series of seven which the association will sponsor, drew sixty-five players from every section of the district. It was the first opportunity for local golfers to use their C. D. G. A. handicap cards, and scores were good considering that a majority had played only a few rounds this season.

John Lehman of Olympia Fields, the only scratch player competing, had an off day and finished with a 78. Chuck Becka, Calumet's young hope for tournament honors, started out like a house on fire, turning the first nine with eight consecutive 4s and a 5 for a 37, but blew up on the incoming nine to wind up with a 79. Thoburn Lapp was the best of the home club shooters, turning in 77—4—73.

Midlothian was particularly well represented, many regarding the event as a good test for the twenty-eighth annual running of the Midlothian Derby on Saturday and Sunday. The next C. D. G. A. handicap event will be held June 1, at Glen View.

Long Putts Help Gerard.

Gerard overshot the green on the fifth for a 5, and three putted the sixth, but he sank several long putts to stay close to par the rest of the way. Baker three putted the first and third holes and was in trouble getting to the fourteenth.

Cards for the three leaders follow:

OWNERS LIST 91 LOST IN BURNING LINER TRAGEDY

676 Survivors Landed from French Ship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 18.—The list of missing from the French motorship, Georges Philippar, which was destroyed by fire Monday in the Arabian sea off Cape Guardaful, Africa, totaled 91 today, according to an announcement by the owners of the ship, the Messageries Maritimes company.

The passengers aboard the vessel numbered 505 and the crew, 262, of whom 100 were Chinese and Annamites, officials of the company said today. Known survivors total 676.

Reaches Djibout.

The French liner, Andre Lebon, landed 420 of the passengers and crew today at Djibout, French Somaliland, according to a dispatch from Marseilles. These persons had been transferred from the Russian tanker, Sovietskaia Neft. Those rescued by the British ships, Contractor and Mahsud, were taken to Aden, Arabia, yesterday. The Andre Lebon, it was reported, is now bound for Aden with survivors who were separated from members of their families. They hope to be reunited at Aden.

It was confirmed today that the Japanese steamer Hakone Maru had rescued a number of the Philippar's passenger. Efforts to get in touch with the Hakone have been fruitless, however.

Tell More of Story.

The Messageries company offices were jammed today by hundreds of excited relatives seeking to learn whether their kin are among the survivors or the missing.

No Americans were on the passenger list, company officials believe. Possibilities, however, are Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill and two children, and Mrs. Van Pelt, three children, and a maid.

Survivors recounted tales of sacrifice and heroism. The last persons rescued from the blazing ship were two French stewardesses, Mme. Vincente and Mme. Blanche Bouvier.

"We are convinced," they said, "that many first class passengers were burned to death. As the last boatload of survivors left the ship without us we shouted for it to come back, but our voices were drowned in the roar of flames and confusion. So we ran to the captain's bridge and rang the ship's bell to attract the crew's attention. Then the boat returned."

Another survivor, Mlle. Odette Manus, was trapped in her cabin. She escaped through the porthole with nothing worse than closely singed hair. She was seen on the boat deck carrying a life belt which many more terrified passengers tried to snatch from her.

A third class passenger, one Brault, devoted himself to rescuing children, of whom there were about 80 aboard the liner. "I have no doubt," he said, "that nearly all of them were saved."

Trapped in Cabin.

Another passenger, Alvis Wendling, jumped into the sea with 3 year old Jacquot Bernard in his arms. Both were picked up by the steamer Contractor, while the child's parents were rescued by the tanker Sovietskaia. Wendling now is looking after Jacquot in Aden. The youngest passenger, a 4 months old baby girl, was reported safe and unharmed.

The sufferings of survivors in lifeboats were increased by a choppy sea and the lack of drinking water. Some boats were not picked up for five hours, survivors said.

All went well on the Philippar for two days after she left Colombo and when everybody went to bed Sunday night there was no suspicion of danger, one survivor said.

A few hours later, however, Mme. Valentin, wife of an engineer in China, was awakened by sinister crackling noises which seemed to come from the vicinity of her cabin. She rang for the stewardess and it was discovered a fierce fire had broken out in an empty luxury cabin.

Flames Spread Rapidly.

The flames spread rapidly and had reached the wireless room before any action could be taken. The middle of the great superstructure, consisting of public rooms and luxury cabins, soon was a mass of flames. The captain could not give the order to abandon ship until an emergency wireless could be rigged up to transmit the calls for help and give the ship's position.

The first steps were directed toward fighting the flames and rescuing passengers trapped in their cabins. The captain gave orders to proceed at full speed toward Aden, knowing that in the vicinity of that port he would cross the path of a number of ships on various trade routes which would converge there. Nearly four hours after the fire was discovered an emergency wireless apparatus began to send out the S O S. The signal was picked up and answered immediately.

The Philippar continued to blaze today. The once luxurious liner had drifted to a point about thirty miles north of Cape Guardaful, it was reported.

OFFER DIVORCE IF READ WILL RETURN CHILD

Mrs. Katheryn Nelson Read, 1019 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, yesterday appeared before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude and announced that she was willing to give her fugitive husband, Fred, a divorce if he will return his 9 year old daughter, Caroline, whom she alleges he kidnaped a fortnight ago.

With Mrs. Read appeared her attorney, Frank Cantwell, and Mrs. Ethel Much, 8148 Ingleside avenue, who is named co-respondent in Mrs. Reade's pending bill for separate maintenance. The two women informed the judge that they had come to an agreement concerning a divorce on grounds of desertion if Read can be persuaded to return the child. They said that he is in Mexico, and Mrs. Much promised to make efforts to communicate with him if the judge was willing to grant such a decree. Judge Trude said that he would be willing.

PLAN HEARINGS ON NEW THROUGH STREET SYSTEM

Council to Act on A. of C. Proposals.

Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the committee on traffic and public safety, announced yesterday that public hearings will be held soon on the plan for revising the city's system of through streets which was submitted to the city council yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The plan, which resulted from several months' work by the association in conjunction with the Chicago Plan commission, the Surface Lines, automobile clubs, and Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer, calls for a number of changes in through streets as now designated. It would increase the total mileage of through streets from 436 to 465 miles.

Find Some Little Used.

One reason for the change in the system, cited in the Association of Commerce report, is that a number of streets designated as through streets actually bear little traffic. As a result many motorists fail to observe the stop signs when crossing these thoroughfares.

Mr. Sorenson commended the new plan, saying:

"Recent street improvements have made possible a better system of through streets. When the system first was laid out some streets were temporarily designated through streets because they had the best pavements available in that particular district.

Hook-Up Road Systems.

"The changes will hook up the through streets with state and county road systems outside the city."

The Association of Commerce report points out the necessity of selecting as through streets those thoroughfares which, while they possess the width and pavement necessary to expedite traffic, are not burdened with a large amount of local traffic. Milwaukee avenue, Clark street, and Madison street were cited as examples of thoroughfares whose designation as through streets would be unwise because of the neighborhood and street car traffic.

Two exceptions were made to this general rule, however, in the cases of Ashland and Western avenues.

F. C. Luthy, Board Chief of Peoria Bank, Dies at 74

Peoria, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—Ferd C. Luthy, chairman of the board of the Commercial Merchants' National Bank and Trust company, died suddenly at his home today. He was 74 years old.

Girls! DON'T REDUCE

Until I tell you of the wonderful new way I discovered in

BATTLE CREEK

YOU eat all you want of delicious foods—take no harmful drugs like back-breaking exercises—Yet you lose thyroid—no nauseating "salts;" no excess fat so fast you can hardly believe the scales—you wear clothes sizes smaller as inches peel off bust, hips, limb, neck, arms and face—Oh! it's so wonderful—you'll never realize how thrilled you are going to be until you actually see what it does for you. You feel so peppy—and you look years younger. If you don't win love after this—you are just hopeless, girls.

Here's the recipe—and be sure to cut it out of the paper—You just get yourself a big bottle of BonKora—enough for a month or six weeks. It never costs over a dollar. Eat three square meals a day—four if you prefer—but cut out the starches and fats and eat more of the good strength and tonic foods that the directions in the package tell about.

This BonKora is different from every other treatment you ever heard of. Doctors tell us fat is 68 per cent water and how, and this treatment simply makes the fatty parts of your figure throw off enough of the heavy water to make you more nearly NORMAL in weight.

Now let me warn you—when you have reduced your weight and measurements to normal, be satisfied and quit taking BonKora, except occasionally as a conditioner. Don't let yourself become too thin.

BonKora is free from any harmful drugs, is not habit-forming and may be taken by any one according to directions. Remember the name BONKORA—Beware of imitations! Big bottle of BonKora only 98c at all

EQUITY RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR ROXY THEATER

Action Is to Conserve Assets of Firm.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—An equity receiver was appointed today for the Roxy theater, whose operators, consenting to the action to conserve the assets of the firm, admit that because of the general business depression the theater has been operating for several months at a substantial weekly loss.

Also, the petition for the receivership filed today in federal court by John Kane, who holds an assigned claim of $10,000 for legal services, sets forth that the period of bad business developed after the theater company dispensed with the services of Samuel L. [Roxy] Rothafel on March 31, 1931. From March, 1927, when it opened, until that period it enjoyed large profits, the recital stated.

Harry G. Kosch, president of the Roxy Theaters corporation, consented to the appointment of a receiver and admitted the allegations in the petition were true to the best of his knowledge and belief. He was appointed equity receiver under a $50,000 bond by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey.

The balance sheet, as of April 14, 1932, according to the papers on file, shows assets of $10,954.69 and liabilities of $5,660,679. The corporation, though solvent, has not on hand, it is alleged, sufficient liquid assets to meet its obligation.

The total capital of the corporation, according to the papers on file, is represented in 475,000 shares of stock of no par value, 125,000 class A and 350,000 common. It has outstanding first mortgage 6½ coupon gold bonds, totaling $3,527,000, payable in installments from October, 1932, until 1940, and five-year 6½ sinking gold notes, due July 1, 1932, of $11,548,000.

PHONE OFFICIAL TESTIFIES ON SERVICE CHARGE

Testimony as to the manner in which service charges are made to subsidiary companies of the American Telephone and Telegraph company was given before Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday by Charles A. Heiss, controller of the A. T. & T., at the resumption of the telephone rate suit which has been in litigation for nine years.

In his cross-examination of Mr. Heiss this morning, Attorney Benjamin F. Goldstein, special counsel for the city, is expected to try to bring out these costs and the profits made by the holding company. The hearing is being held to gain additional information at the behest of the United States Supreme court, which remanded the case to the District court in December, 1930.

The case came into the federal courts in 1923 when the Illinois Bell Telephone company got an injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing lower rates for the coin box services. The company contended that the rates ordered were confiscatory.

The injunction was granted on condition that if it was dissolved, the refunds should be made. In January, 1930, the District court gave decision in favor of the company and an appeal was taken to the Supreme court by Goldstein in behalf of the city and the commerce commission.

STEEL INDUSTRY PROVIDES SOME BRIGHTER NEWS

Production Records Small Advance.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Any bit of cheerful news is hailed with enthusiasm these days. Therefore, a slight improvement in steel production this week, as reported in one of the trade reviews yesterday, was regarded as distinctly encouraging, particularly in view of the abnormal depth to which the industry has descended. Ability of steel makers to maintain prices following the recent wage cut also was regarded with satisfaction.

"Influenced mainly by orders from the automobile industry, principally Ford, steel ingot production for the country has risen a point to 25 per cent, against 24 per cent in the two preceding weeks," the Iron Age says. "Engagement of steel making capacity shows marked contrasts, the Pittsburgh district rate having declined from 20 to 18 per cent, the lowest in many years, while Cleveland plants are operating at 38 per cent, against 26 per cent last week.

Maintain Price Quotations.

"This contrast in producing activities finds a counterpart in the price situation. On the one hand, steel producers are successful in maintaining firm quotations on finished steel, and may be laying the groundwork for a further advance by extending to billets and slabs the $2 a ton rise in sheet bars announced last week. Raw material prices, however, continue to decline, heavy melting steel having touched new all-time lows at Pittsburgh and Chicago.

"The determination of steel producers to adhere to a level of prices that will give them the full benefit of savings accruing from wage reductions that went into effect this week is one of the strongest factors in the steel situation, it being conceded that without such aid in cutting down losses, some of them might face financial difficulties before the end of the year if business volume does not gain materially.

Orders Increase Here.

"Although it is significant that orders for bars, the most widely used steel product, have increased noticeably in at least two districts, Chicago and Cleveland, a fairly large volume of structural steel work has accumulated, but lettings are delayed. If congress approves a bond issue for advancing of funds by the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a list of self-liquidating projects that have passed the engineering stage, upward of 1,000,000 tons of steel would be required, although deliveries in some cases would extend over two or three years."

Generally industrial operations throughout the country present a less favorable aspect, judged by use of electric power. Production of electricity for the week ended May 14 showed a slight seasonal gain over the preceding week, but it also showed the largest decline that has occurred thus far this year in the year to year comparison. The decrease from a year ago was 13.1 per cent, while the previous record decline was 12.7 per cent in the week ended May 7.

In the Atlantic seaboard territory the decrease in output was 10.6 per cent, in the central industrial region 16.2 per cent, while the Chicago district alone was down 11.6 per cent. The Pacific coast was off 11.7 per cent and New England 14.3 per cent.

PUBLIC SERVICE OF NEW JERSEY PROFITS DECLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The balance available for dividends and surplus for April amounted to $2,740,346, against $2,917,521, a decrease of $177,175.

New College Grads to Find Jobs Scarce

BY SCRUTATOR.

As another college year nears the end it becomes apparent that more students than ever will be graduated into idleness.

Whether he has spent four years developing his cultural background in a liberal arts college or making his vocational adjustments in some type of specialized training, this year's June graduate is going to have a hard time finding a ladder to climb.

Prof. E. C. Voorhees of the University of California college of agriculture believes that the tendency to curtail public spending has been one of the chief reasons for the smaller number of attractive jobs open to college graduates.

"There is already an overproduction of college graduates," he said at a recent meeting of an honorary agricultural fraternity held in Chicago. "Competition is rapidly increasing. One of the fertile fields for jobs has been government work or positions at state colleges where college graduates have lived on taxpayers' money.

Holding to Jobs.

"This can no longer be looked forward to by graduates since there seems to be not only a check to the spread of bureaucracy but also less turnover. Those who have jobs are not giving them up."

Robert C. Woellner, executive secretary of the University of Chicago's placement board, says that the number of openings available to graduates through his office will be much smaller even than last year. The trend has been sharply downward for several years.

The demand for school teachers is particularly weak. Teachers who have jobs are keeping them and where vacancies occur the demand is for experienced individuals because the latter may be had at what formerly would have been considered a beginner's salary.

Large corporations which, until two years ago had been in the habit of taking a certain number of promising graduates each year and training them for advancement, this year are maintaining contact with the university but taking no new employés.

Old Grad Job Hunters.

The graduates' demands for jobs have increased in inverse proportion to the supply, Mr. Woellner says, and the situation has not been improved by job hunting graduates of former years, who, unable to find work when they received their diplomas, have been taking graduate courses hoping that things would improve in the meantime.

F. W. Cosner, director of employment for Northwestern university, states that the number of placements this year will probably be about half as large as last year.

This year, for the first time, the competition of graduates of former years is especially keen. Employers seeking university trained men are inclined to prefer graduates of the 1931 or 1930 classes. These men have lost some of the greenness and, having forfeited jobs through no fault of their own, are just as promising material as the 1932 graduate.

At the Evanston campus R. Tencher, vocational and placement counsellor, reports that while openings have greatly diminished there is still some demand by corporations for graduates of the liberal arts school.

BANKERS URGED TO WATCH CITY AFFAIRS CLOSER

New York, May 18.—(AP)—The nation's mutual savings banks were urged today to use their coöperative power of lending to insist on good city government and a stable railroad system.

Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings bank of New York, addressing the convention of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, said the bankers must demand that borrowers "be actuated by a sense of responsibility for the welfare of their investors and the community they serve."

"The savings banks should unite to make orderly and efficient city government a prerequisite to the purchase of city securities," Bruere said. "The savings banks are a major factor in providing funds for the building of cities. They can and should organize to use their collective power to prevent overbuilding and jerry-building and pyramiding of real estate values.

"If we are to continue to invest in railroad securities we must have the assurance that the railroads will be protected against illegitimate competition of too greatly favored rivals.

"We must have the assurance that the railroads do not wastefully compete. We must insist that they unify themselves into strong companies. The rates which they charge for services must be sufficient to permit them to accumulate reserves to bridge depressions."

France and Germany Form Fountain Pen Pact

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 18.—Evidence that France's new government, whatever it may be, intends to continue the policy of restricting imports by quota was given yesterday by publication of a Franco-German business agreement regarding fountain pens and mechanical pencils. The delegations of the two countries agreed on a quota schedule which is likely to be adopted shortly. Last year 72.2 metric tons of pens, valued at $400,000, were shipped from America to France.

U. S. TREASURY DEFICIT IS CLOSE TO 2 BILLION, 600 MILLION MAY 16

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—The government's huge deficit, which threatens to pass the 3 billion dollar mark before June 30, lacked less than two million dollars of being 2 billion 600 million dollars on May 16. Since last July 1 the government has collected from all sources $1,725,383,137 and has spent $4,324,083,584.

Secretary Mills announced today that the treasury would sell sixty million in ninety-one day treasury bills on Monday, May 23. The bills, which will be dated May 25, and mature Aug. 24, will be redeemed at their face value on the latter date. The money received from the sale of the bills will be used to retire sixty-two million dollars in treasury bills which fall due on May 26.

LASKY CONTRACT WITH PUBLIX IS STILL IN EFFECT

New York, May 18.—(AP)—Confusion over the status of Jesse L. Lasky, pioneer motion picture producer, with the Paramount Publix corporation, was cleared up today at the offices of the company. There it was explained that Lasky's contract with Paramount does not expire until 1934.

Directors yesterday failed to reelect Mr. Lasky as first vice president. It was explained, however, that Lasky's connection with the company was not thereby ended. Lasky, now in California, began a three months' leave of absence starting May 1. No information was available as to what plans the concern may have for Lasky at the expiration of his leave.

Court Voids Receivership of Missouri State Life Co.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 18.—(AP)—The Missouri Supreme court has voided the action of Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall of St. Louis, who placed the Missouri State Life Insurance company in temporary receivership recently. Judge Hall, acting on a petition filed by Jerome Duggan, St. Louis attorney and stockholder of the Missouri State Life, placed the company in temporary receivership on March 29, but a provisional rule of prohibition by the Supreme court prevented the receivers from taking charge. The Missouri State is the largest insurance company west of the Mississippi river.

AM. TELEPHONE PAYS DIVIDEND; S. PACIFIC OMITS

Former Will Set the Quarter's Record.

New York, May 18.—The American Telephone and Telegraph company, largest of industrial corporations, today maintained its annual $9 dividend rate by declaring the regular quarterly payment of $2.25 a share. On the other hand, the Southern Pacific company, one of the largest railroad systems, formally discontinued its dividend, on which action was deferred three months ago because of decreased earnings.

The American Telephone dividend calls for a record disbursement, amounting to approximately $42,100,000. Moreover, it also is the largest total of dividends being paid by any American corporation in one quarter at this stage of the business cycle. The exact amount of the dividend cannot now be determined even by the company and will not be known until the record date, June 20. There were, however, 18,659,666 shares outstanding at the end of the first quarter.

Several Items of Interest.

The July dividend will represent distribution of profits for the second quarter, only half of which now has passed. The financial community entertained little doubt about maintenance of the regular dividend, but will be much interested in knowing to what extent the Bell Telephone system as a whole will be forced to dip into surplus in order to meet the $42,100,000 payment. This information will be communicated to the stockholders by President Walter S. Gifford in a little pamphlet accompanying dividend checks.

It is recalled that the statement accompanying the April 15 dividend checks pointed out that the $35,174,104 received by American Telephone in the first quarter in the form of dividends from the associated companies was approximately $5,000,000 more than they had earned in that period.

American Telephone paid as a dividend on April 15 a total of $41,984,247, so that disbursements for the first two quarters will total about $84,000,000.

In the first quarter of 1932 the net income per share was $2.07. That compared with $2.35 for the first quarter of 1931. The net income for the first quarter of 1932 was $38,699,203, compared with $45,440,578 for 1931. Dividends were $41,984,247 for the first quarter of 1932, leaving a deficit of $3,285,043, compared with dividends of $38,301,693, and a balance of $7,138,885 for the first quarter of 1931.

S. P. Issues Statement.

The Southern Pacific directors issued a statement at this afternoon's meeting explaining it had been decided to conserve cash resources of the company "in view of the continued decline in revenues," and to "omit further dividend declarations for the present." Southern Pacific's last dividend payment was $1 a share on Jan. 2 of this year, prior to which time $1.50 was paid quarterly.

The Chesapeake corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents, placing the stock on a $2 annual basis against $3 previously. It was stated that the dividend was reduced so that the difference might be used to reduce outstanding obligations of the corporation.

Chesapeake corporation had paid 75 cents a share quarterly since the

Bankers Tell More About Kreuger Deal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Gordon S. Rentschler and S. Sloan Colt, the former president of the National City bank and the latter of the Bankers' Trust company, were questioned today in the International Match bankruptcy case.

Those two banks, together with the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh and the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company of Chicago, obtained 350,000 shares of Diamond Match stock, on which a valuation of $4,500,000 was put by Ivar Kreuger shortly before his suicide in Paris. The stock was to serve as collateral for a $4,000,000 loan to International Match, for which renewal negotiations were then in progress.

Questioning both Mr. Rentschler and Mr. Colt, James N. Rosenberg, counsel for the receiver, sought to show that they had sufficient knowledge of Kreuger's financial difficulties to justify the inference that the banks sought to protect themselves at the expense of other creditors.

Cites Hitch in Phone Deal.

Mr. Rentschler admitted having heard, before demanding the collateral, of the serious discrepancy in the books of the Ericcson Telephone company, controlled by Kreuger. This irregularity of accounts, brought out in an audit demanded by the International Telephone and Telegraph company, which was negotiating to buy a large interest in the Ericcson company, is now regarded as the virtual beginning of the exposure of Kreuger's financial manipulations.

Both bank presidents acknowledged in addition that they had heard in February, before the $4,000,000 loan was renewed, that International Match, with $150,000,000 in reputed assets, had cash of only slightly more than $1,000,000. They also admitted knowledge that Kreuger, then at his Park avenue apartment in New York, had suffered a breakdown.

Both insisted, however, that this news did not cause them to suspect that International Match was insolvent. Knowledge of such insolvency is the charge on which Mr. Rosenberg has indicated that the receiver hopes to base a suit against the banks for recovery of the $50,000 shares of Diamond Match.

Tells More of Deal.

Mr. Rentschler, discussing the Ericcson company exposure, said a representative of the I. T. & T. company had informed him some two weeks before the four million dollar loan was renewed in the latter part of February of this year that an audit of the Ericcson company's books at Stockholm had failed to locate one item of 27 million kroner in the assets claimed.

In addition the report from Stockholm showed one or two smaller items which appeared to be irregular, according to Mr. Rentschler's testimony. Mr. Rentschler added he had notified Lee, Higginson & Co., Kreuger's American bankers, of this report and subsequently learned that the International Telephone and Telegraph officials who had contracted to purchase an interest in the Ericcson corporation had rescinded this contract. Kreuger agreed to the rescinding and agreed to return 11 million dollars already paid by the I. T. & T. interests, it was reported.

This did not, however, seem a suspicious circumstance, Mr. Rentschler declared, but merely one demanding investigation to get all the facts. His explanation of this statement was that all previous dealings with International Match and with the other Kreuger companies had shown them to be trustworthy.

Cites Mysterious Monopolies.

Mr. Colt testified that Kreuger had assured him personally, only a few weeks before the suicide in Paris, that International Match and Kreuger & Toll would continue to pay dividends. Mr. Colt was asked concerning the mysterious "Country X and Country Y" in which Kreuger had claimed secret match monopolies. This was in connection with a scheduled payment of $750,000 due from "Country Y" last Feb. 15, which never reached New York.

Mr. Colt said that he had been told that "Y" represented Spain, from which an expected $4,500,000 payment also failed to arrive. The supposed monopoly since has been shown to be nonexistent. Mr. Colt said he was forced to guess that "X" stood for Italy. The alleged Italian monopoly was recently described by Italian officials as a forgery.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Interest in stock exchange dealings today came close to approximating one disgusted broker's description of it as the "cube root of nothing." It was the dullest five hour session since away back last summer. Only about 700,000 shares changed hands and scores of issues ordinarily active failed to appear on the tape at all. Price changes of more than a point were rare.

A Little Cheer for Oils.

Statistics showing a drop of gasoline stocks, in spite of a sharp rise in refinery operations and a reduction of 14,500 barrels a day in last week's production, was calculated to contribute a little cheer to the petroleum group, but the effect was nothing to tear one's shirt over. Electric power output for last week was off 13.1 per cent from a year ago, the widest decline of the year, and the failure of wheat to carry on the demonstration it started yesterday reacted on the farm and mail order descriptions.

Midweek reviews advised that the steel industry had moved up from 24 to 25 per cent of capacity, although the Pittsburgh mills lost ground, following which U. S. Steel common gave up about another point.

Eyes on Washington.

With political Washington still holding the big question mark aloft, Wall street has little concern with "small fry" matters these days. One dividend meeting more or less, another week's statistics on this or that industry, another prophecy from another observation tower sitter—all are brushed aside as necessary but unimportant episodes of the day. Traders have set themselves to the task of "watchful waiting."

Railroad shares were heavy as a group again, reflecting continued weakness in the carrier bond list. Losses of a point or so were sustained by Union Pacific, Atchison, Norfolk and Western, and others.

Some of the preferreds also had their usual troubles. Those of American Power and Light, Bamberger, Public Service, Liggett & Myers, and Safeway Stores attracted some attention with dips of 1 to 2 points each. Homestake Mining lost another 2 points on a couple of sales.

Fail in Rally.

Allied Chemical, Hershey Chocolate, First National Stores, and one or two others made a show of leading a rally in the early dealings, but got caught and cut down before they had gone very far.

Gossip over the outlook for poor earnings for some of the big dairy companies during the summer brought some selling into Borden.

INSULL TRUST INVESTORS MAY RECEIVE LITTLE

Bank Loans Provided For by Indenture.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Delay in the liquidation of the two Insull investment trusts arising from the legal skirmishing over the bank collateral has little meaning as far as the security holders of those two ill fated enterprises are concerned, according to the views expressed in well informed financial quarters.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the receivers hold out little hope that anything will be salvaged for the security owners or creditors with unsecured claims. The suggestion raised at the hearing Tuesday by counsel for Insull Utility Investments debenture holders that there is a question as to the prior claim of a group of New York bankers on the collateral appears to contain little hope for the general investors.

Holds Power to Borrow.

According to the indenture under which the debentures were issued the company had the authority to pledge or mortgage any of its assets for current loans. The loans obtained from various New York and Chicago banks were current obligations or were regarded so at the time they were contracted. That the trust never was able to refinance those obligations was due to the impairment of its credit standing through the shrinkage in the value of its assets.

Judge Walter C. Lindley made no ruling yesterday on the motion to dissolve the injunction restraining the four New York banks from auctioning off the securities pledged by Insull Utility and Corporation Securities company. The auction has been set for May 31 and it is expected that the court will take formal action in the interim.

The banks have cooperated with the court and the receivers in delaying the sale "for a reasonable period." It is expected they will be allowed to go ahead with the liquidation of the loans. Such liquidation will not mean dumping the stocks in the open market. The interested banks are prepared to bid in the collateral themselves, it is said. A minimum price of $10,325,000 has been established. Other Chicago and New York banks holding pledges of the two trusts have made no move so far to close out the loans. The collateral held is in large blocks of Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas and Public Service of Northern Illinois.

May Affect Control.

Interest in La Salle street in the Insull situation now is concerned with what interests eventually will come into ownership and control of the highly profitable Chicago operating companies. Such control now rests, for all practical purposes, with leading New York and Chicago banks. It is regarded as probable that those banks will dispose of the collateral when a favorable opportunity arises.

Some apprehension is felt here that control of these properties—Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and Public Service of Northern Illinois—may pass into eastern hands. Several eastern utility groups have been mentioned as possible purchasers.

Securities of these three companies now posted with the banks represent the balance of voting power in the companies. For these holdings were the basis on which Samuel Insull exercised control. Only a part of the pledges are involved in the present legal proceedings. As long as the banks retain the securities, it is believed Mr. Insull will continue as the operating head of the companies. Eventual sale of the securities to other interests might lead to change in management.

AIR AFFAIRS OF ILLINOIS FIRM IN POWER QUIZ

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Rates of return on the invested and borrowed capital of the Central Illinois Public Service company for the ten year period 1921 to 1930, ranging from 5 to 6 per cent were placed in the record of federal trade commission's hearing today by R. J. Ryeer, commission examiner. Ryeer's testimony was taken just before the commission's examination of the affairs of the Illinois company was concluded.

Ryeer offered in evidence two tables showing the rates of return on invested capital alone for the ten year period. The return on the basis of the capital as listed on the company's books was: 1921, 4 per cent; 1923, 6 per cent; 1924, 6 per cent; 1925, 6 per cent; 1926, 7 per cent; 1927, 6 per cent; 1928, 8 per cent; 1929, 7 per cent; and 1930, 7 per cent.

In his earlier testimony regarding the ownership of the Central, Ryeer testified the Middle West Utilities company, of the Insull group, held at various times from 55 to 88 per cent of the outstanding voting stock and subsequent to 1925 held an aggregate of 49 per cent.

Previous to Ryeer's testimony, Harry H. Carter, commission's examiner, gave technical and detailed testimony on the extent of the company's operations and transmission and sale of power.

Brokers to Open Less Resort Branch Offices

Stock exchange firms will operate fewer summer branch offices this season than in several years, according to unofficial calculations. In former seasons the popular resorts on the Atlantic coast and inland were well dotted with branch offices equipped to serve the market interests of vacationists, but many will be abandoned this year because of the likelihood that they will prove unprofitable.

HIGHER MARGINS SEEN AS CURB ON SHORT SALES

New York Exchange Invokes New Rule.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Members were notified by telephone today by officials of the New York Stock exchange that margin requirements on short sales should be increased to a minimum of ten points. Previously many brokerage firms had fixed five points on stocks selling between $10 and $20, and 50 per cent for those selling below $10.

The new requirement, it was said, was merely the restatement of an informal opinion of the committee on business conduct, given to several firms recently.

The majority of stock exchange firms, however, had not learned of the informal ruling. They had maintained their old margin requirements. With the oral notification today, all brokers are expected to revise their requirements at once.

Hedging Not Sufficient.

Brokers also were notified that the exchange did not regard short commitments as adequately margined when they were merely hedged by long commitments. The conservative policy, it was stated, was to require adequate margins for the long's stock as well as for the shorts.

Adoption of the 10 point minimum represents, on the average, an increase of 100 per cent in margin requirements on short sales, as the average price of all stocks listed on the exchange is now approximately $15 a share.

Such an increase is likely to hamper the operations of a few short sellers, brokers said today. A 10 point margin is equivalent to 66 2-3 per cent of the average price of stocks listed on the exchange, and is approximately three times the margin demanded on most stocks purchased for the long account.

Action by Congress Groups.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—The house agriculture committee today approved the Jones bill to restrict short selling on commodity exchanges. The measure would let the exchange commission, comprising the secretary of agriculture, secretary of commerce, and attorney general specify new regulations governing short sales in wheat, cotton, and other commodities. New regulations, decreasing the total volume of short sales, would be ordered.

Meanwhile, another investigation of the farm board was suggested by Rep. Hart [Dem., Mich.]. In a resolution he asked that the speaker designate five house members to make the inquiry. Hart referred to recent charges that "independent dealers have been trying to destroy coöperative marketing and that a $100,000 slush fund has been raised by the cotton shippers."

"Congress and the public should have the facts," Hart said, and criticized the Republican senate agriculture committe for not having pursued its investigation of the board, saying, "They fear an investigation of the awful wreck brought about by this half billion dollar institution."

Chairman Norbeck said at least a dozen witnesses would be on hand tomorrow when the senate banking committee resumes its open investigation of the New York Stock exchange. Norbeck indicated some of them were persons who have refused to give certain information to the committee's investigators who have been working secretly in New York for nearly three weeks.

CAREY ATTACKS BILL

President Peter B. Carey of the Chicago Board of Trade said yesterday of the Jones bill: "It is unthinkable that at a time like the present a committee of congress should report favorably on such a bill which would tend further to strangle the grain and cotton business. It is small wonder the business depression continues when vocalized minorities like those headed by professional farm leaders can lead congress around by the nose as has been done in influencing the house committee on agriculture to report this bill favorably."

Two More Firms Adopt Shorter Working Week

The movement to shorten the working week continues to win recruits among industrial concerns. The latest companies to embrace the plan are the Bell Telephone Laboratories, subsidiary of Western Electric, and the White Motor company. The Bell concern announced that in order to spread employment over the largest possible number it is going on a 4 day week June 15. The company has been on a five day week since May 1 along with other divisions of American Telephone and Telegraph. White Motor announced that it would go on a 5 day week beginning June 1.

LIGHT BUYING FAILS TO HOLD WHEAT ADVANCE

Final Prices Are Close to Day's Low.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Local operators were fairly active on the buying side of wheat early yesterday due to a continuation of dry weather and crop deterioration reports from the west and southwest. There was, however, little outside buying, and an overbought condition developed later.

Weakness in stocks and profit taking started a selling movement toward the last that carried prices off 1¼@1⅛c from the best figures of the morning and the close was about the inside figure with net losses of ⅛@⅜c. May finished at 55⅛@55⅜c, old July, 56⅝@57c; old September, 59@59¼c, and December, 61⅝@61¼c.

Wheat Needs Moisture.

Dry and warm weather prevailed over the winter wheat belt, and in addition to a lack of moisture over a considerable area west of the Missouri river there were numerous reports of rain being needed east of the river, with reports that Hessian fly damage was commencing to show up. The trade also had a report that between 2,500,000 and 5,000,000 bu September and December wheat at Kansas City had been exchanged recently by the trade for farm board wheat, making the second transaction of this kind that has been made of late. The exchange transactions were denied late in the day by farm board officials.

A local professional was a buyer of wheat early on the prospect that the senate might take favorable action on the proposed beer tax measure, but when he attempted to sell there was limited support in evidence.

There was some selling toward the last on Washington reports that the house agricultural committee had approved the Jones bill to restrict short selling of commodities. That served to undermine the confidence of the trade. The uncertainty created by the recent actions of congress is regarded by many operators as having largely offset the effect of the bullish crop news from the winter wheat belt.

Freight Rates Lower.

A lowering in lake freights from Fort William to Montreal to 4c per bu was understood to have resulted in a large business in Manitobas developing, messages from the seaboard indicating as high as 3,000,000 bu had been taken by exporters, and there was claims that 750,000 bu had been sold for export late Tuesday. In addition to this business the farm board sold 300,000 bu hard winter with Greece said to have been the best buyer.

Taken as a whole, the general run of the domestic news was in favor of holders. Reports to B. W. Snow of Bartlett Frazier company indicated the spring wheat acreage might fall well below what was expected on May 1.

July Wheat Shows Strength.

Action of July wheat in gaining slowly on the September delivery of late is causing comment in some quarters. The nearby future was around 2c under the deferred at the close compared with 3½c under late in April. The narrowing of the spread is regarded as due to the prospect that the local market will not be able to draw any material quantity of cash wheat from Kansas and Nebraska from the new crop owing to the prospective small yield in the states which normally furnish the greater part of the surplus hard winter of the country.

Dullness prevailed in Liverpool where wheat futures finished ½@¾c per bu lower with July at 60½c, or 3½c over Chicago at the time. Winnipeg was easy from the start and finished ⅝@1c lower with July at 63c in Canadian funds which were around 11 per cent discount.

Corn Resists Pressure.

Corn showed—rather stubborn resistance of pressure, and failed to fully reflect the late decline in wheat, although closing ½@¾c lower with the latter grain. May was 30⅝@30½c at the last with July, 32⅛@32⅝c; September, 34⅝@34¾c, and December, 24½c. May sold up to 31c early, the best figure since April 28, and during that period cash corn has gained over 1c as compared with the future. The country took advantage of the early upturn to sell 60,000 bu to arrive, but shipping sales aggregated 60,000 bu. Efforts to trace export business of late have met with little success.

Commission houses were fair buyers of September oats early, but the market weakened toward the last with other grains and finished unchanged to ⅛c lower. May was 23⅛c; July, 22¾c; September, 22¼c, and December, 24⅛c at the last. There was buying of May and selling of July at ⅛c difference.

Rye developed independent weakness and led the decline, closing 1⅛@1¼c lower with May, 36⅝c; July, 38⅝c, and September, 40¼c. Selling of July rye against purchases of wheat was responsible for part of the weakness.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged as far as spot supplies were concerned, with local refiners not inclined to pay above 2.55c, while holders were generally asking fractionally higher. Late yesterday a local refiner bought 6,000 bags of Porto Rican for prompt shipments at 2.55c and 9,000 bags of Philippines for May-June at 2.62c. The only business confirmed today was 18,000 bags of Philippines for May-June shipment at 2.62c to an operator, although it was rumored that some also sold for June-August shipment from 2.65c to 2.68c. Price changes in futures were of small proportions and trading was light. Approximate sales, 10,300 tons. Prices follow:

The demand for refined sugar was again of fair proportions, but limited to nearby requirements only, and prices were unchanged at 3.75c for fine granulated.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was quiet today, with sales of only 3 contracts, or 300 bbls. The undertone, however, was steady and final prices were unchanged to 1 point net higher, influenced by the steadiness of cotton. Crude oil was quoted at 2½c in the southeast and the valley and 2¾c in Texas. Bleachable spot and May closed 3.15c; July, 3.48c; September, 3.55c; December, 3.77c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract, with closing prices as follows: Spot and May, 3c; July, 3.10c; September, 3.25c; October, 3.40c.

RUBBER.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—RUBBER—Futures closed quiet: May, 2.93c; July, 2.90c; September, 3.12c; December, 3.30@3.35c. Smoked ribbed spot closed at 3.00c.

OCTOBER EGGS LOWER

October eggs dropped to 15½c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, showing a net loss of ¼c. Butter was unchanged to ⅛c higher. The trading was the heaviest this month. October eggs moved up slightly at the opening but selling started and continued to the close, a heavy block being sold in the last few minutes. Overnight storage reports were construed as bearish, while the Chicago receipts proved nearly double those of last year. These reports offset the somewhat favorable daily storage figures from the four markets which showed the shortage increased by 7,700 cases. New selling and liquidation was prominent. Butter news was somewhat bearish, the four markets storing nearly 500,000 lbs, or 172,000 lbs more than last year. Switching from May to June fresh went ahead fairly actively. Sales: Butter, 62 cars; eggs, 120 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 2 cars; eggs, 1 car. Prices follow:

Chicago handlers sold 32,000 bu wheat, 110,000 bu corn, 26,000 bu oats, and 1,000 bu barley to the domestic trade with 50,000 bu oats sold to go to store. Deliveries on May contracts aggregated 111,000 bu wheat, 131,000 bu corn, 95,000 bu oats, and 5,000 bu rye. There was 60,000 bu corn booked to arrive.

Red winter wheat in the local cash market was quoted at a discount under No. 2 yellow hard yesterday for the first time in many months, if not in several years the nominal quotation on No. 2 red being 1¢@1¼c over May while No. 2 yellow hard was 1¼@1½c over and No. 2 mixed was also 1¼@1½c over the future. Hard winter was in good demand at 1¾@2c over May.

Offerings of cash corn were small, but the demand was only fair and the basis steady to ⅛c lower. No. 3 mixed was July price to ⅛c over; yellow, ¼c over and white, ¼@½c over July while No. 3 mixed was July price to ⅛c under and yellow and white, July to ¼c under.

Demand for cash oats showed improvement, with the basis steady to ⅛c higher. No. 2 white was ⅜@1¼c over May and No. 3 white, May price to ⅝c under. No. 2 rye was nominally 1@2c over May.

SHEEP—Fed western lambs	$5.00@5.50
One month ago	6.50@7.00
One year ago	7.50@8.75
Top yesterday, $5.50; average, $5.25.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 9,000.

Declines in yesterday's hog market were sharpest on plain quality and extremely heavy packing grades. Most interests carried orders to buy top grades. These ruled steady, but prices in all other branches gave way easily under pressure and on final rounds sales were 10@15c lower. The general average price for the whole day at $3.30 equals the previous low spot made the middle of last week. The top yesterday at $3.65, paid for 200 lb averages, stood 15c above the bottom last week.

Outside buying was again at low ebb. The magnetic influence of relatively low prices at other western points cut eastern orders at Chicago. Less than 1,000 hogs were shipped for eastern slaughter. A feature of yesterday's trade was the sale of a shipment of 80 fancy "roasting" pigs averaging 33 lbs at $4.50. They sold out of season, coming from a sheriff sale in Illinois.

Cattle Market Weaker.

The break in hogs dampened enthusiasm in the cattle yards. Beef steers continued their heavy footed pace at the preceding day's quotations. A weaker undertone developed in lighter weights, and prices in places were pushed back as much as 15@25c on final rounds. New York buyers established a steady market for the scant supply of highly finished medium and weighty beef cattle.

Choice 1,268 lb averages sold to shippers at $7.40. Handy weight 1,185 lb averages were sold at $7.35. This price also fetched choice 1,301 lb cattle. A string of 68 yearlings averaging 1,053 lbs and a load of 966 lb averages brought $7.25. Steers averaging 1,523 lbs reached $7.00. Only a small share of total offerings exceeded 1,100 lbs in weight. This lack of tonnage was in favor of the selling side.

Numerous loads of 600@900 lb cattle sold at $5.25@5.85. The butcher stock supply was short and prices benefited again. Most cows of quality sold readily at $4.00@4.50, while occasional lots of good smooth animals were sold at $5.00 and slightly above. Yearling heifers were more plentiful and weakened slightly. Calves ruled weak to 25c lower.

Lambs Decline Again.

Lambs found the way bumpier than usual yesterday. All classes were pounded down, some going to new lows. Top aged wool lambs dropped 50c to $5.50, this figure being only 15c above the lowest daily top since 1911. Choice grades without fleece were cut down to $5.00. Slashing of prices reached into the new crop and 10 carloads of choice quality California springers landed at $6.50 after they were sorted 10 per cent. Those sorted out sold at $5.75. A shipment of fancy 78 lb Colorado spring lambs to a city butcher at $7.35 were in a class by themselves in point of quality. Most native springers went at $6.50 and under.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs and 9,000 sheep, against 3,458 cattle, 21,662 hogs and 12,081 sheep the previous Thursday and 6,754 cattle, 20,186 hogs and 14,470 sheep a year ago.
